STEEL PARLEY IN WHITE HOUSE

PHONE REFUND OF $20,700,000 TO START OCT. 1

Final Order Entered by U. S. Court.

On Oct. 1 the Illinois Bell Telephone company will begin paying refunds to Chicago users of its coinbox service, as ordered in the recent decision of the United States Supreme court which brought to a close rate litigation of nearly eleven years between the company and the city.

This date was fixed and the machinery for making the refunds was approved in the final decree of the case which was entered yesterday by Federal Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks, and James H. Wilkerson, the court of original jurisdiction.

Subscribers to Get $20,700,000.

Under the decree the telephone company is ordered to pay $20,700,000 to present or past coinbox subscribers. At the same time the city treasury will be enriched about $1,000,000 as a result of the decree.

The telephone company estimated it will make approximately 1,000,000 payments of $25 or under, 160,000 payments of $25 to $100, and 15,000 payments of over $100. In all, the company expects to issue 1,181,500 separate checks to persons who now or in the last eleven years have become entitled to refunds on two and four party residence coinbox service and one and two party business coinbox service.

Benefits to the City.

The benefits to the city, as enumerated in court yesterday by Corporation Counsel Sexton, are:

1. The city is allowed to keep approximately $700,000 of the payments which the company has made to the city under its franchise. The $700,000 represents that part of the payments which were made on telephone rate collections held excessive by the Supreme court.

2. The telephone company will pay the city immediately $69,500 to reimburse the city for expenses of the long litigation other than attorneys' fees.

3. Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein, George I. Haight, and Edmund D. Adcock agree to reimburse the city in the amount of $210,000 advanced them since they were employed by the city in 1929 in the litigation.

Waive Right to $22,000.

4. The attorneys agree to waive their right to $22,000 allocated to them in the city controler's office but not yet paid them.

5. They waive payment to them by the city of $7,000 for expenses paid by themselves.

6. The attorneys' contract with the city calling for their payment by the city in the event of victory in the rate litigation is canceled.

7. The city is released from any damage claims the telephone company might have because of the finding of the Supreme court that the city was responsible for delaying the litigation between 1923 and 1929.

Attorneys Goldstein, Haight and Adcock, it was explained, were employed by the city on a contingent basis, and the city advanced them $210,000 during the last five years. Under the plan they are to repay the city this $210,000 out of fees to be allowed them by the court.

Summary of Refund Plan.

Attorneys Goldstein and Haight, whose plan for the refund was accepted by the three federal judges, were appointed attorneys for the court to supervise the telephone company's payments. As read in court by Attorney Haight, a summary of the plan's provisions follows:

1. The subscriber need do nothing at this time. He will either receive a check or be notified of the amount due him.

2. Refunds will be made on all collections between Oct. 16, 1923, and June 1, 1934.

3. Interest at 5 per cent will be paid on overcharges dating from the 15th of each month in which collections were made. Overcharges on collections made between Oct. 16 and Oct. 31, 1923, will bear interest at 5 per cent for 10 years and 7½ months, or 53¾ per cent. Interest for overcharges on each subsequent month will accordingly decrease by 5-12 of one per cent from the maximum of 53¾ per cent. The average of interest payments on the refunds will be 27 per cent.

One Exception to Cash Refund.

4. The refund is payable in cash in every instance except where the subscriber owes a back bill.

5. There will be one check to a subscriber for every telephone number involved, no matter how many changes of address there may be. Where one claimant had or has several telephone numbers, there will be one check for each number.

6. Present subscribers who have re-

TUGWELL TELLS SENATORS HE IS NOT A RADICAL

Claims He Qualifies as Farm Expert.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—Rexford Guy Tugwell, the small-town boy from Wilson, N. Y., who became the leader of the governmental brain trust, occupied the national limelight for four and one-half hours today.

During that period Prof. Tugwell was put through as thorough a grilling as ever greeted a presidential nominee for a government post. The senate committee on agriculture asked him thousands of questions in examining his qualifications as the nominee of President Roosevelt for the new post of undersecretary of agriculture.

A perspiring crowd booed and cheered; excited senators spat epithets at one another; moving picture cameras clicked. The result, like most such hearings, was never in doubt. Prof. Tugwell's nomination, it was predicted, will be confirmed by the majority of the committee in a report to the senate at noon tomorrow.

No Damaging Admissions.

Often evasive, sometimes irritated by the queries put to him, but, in the main, a composed and smiling witness, the professor went through the ordeal without having been forced into any damaging admissions concerning his policies or those of the administration.

His deft use of the English language was usually too much for the senators. When he didn't wish to answer a question directly he contrived an easy verbal escape which left his inquisitors confused.

He stated firmly, however, that he was opposed to the introduction of communism into the United States. He gave his own version of "national planning" and "planned economy," declaring they were nothing more or less than the system set up under the national recovery act and the agricultural adjustment act and the other acts incorporated in the new deal.

There was nothing radical about the beliefs of himself and his fellows, he contended. He was sometimes the professor in the classroom, giving the boys from the senate a little lecture on political economics. But he was deferential to the committee members and he found a majority of them friendly to him.

Three Ask Embarrassing Questions.

Only Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.], Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.] and Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] asked embarrassing questions. The other senators on the committee often interrupted when such queries were put and saved the witness the embarrassment of answering. Senators Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] and George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] constituted themselves almost as defense lawyers for the professor and eased his way considerably.

Concerning Dr. Tugwell's qualifications as a practical farmer, he revealed solemnly that he had, as a boy raised a prize-winning calf.

He averred also, with dignity, that there was no such thing as a brain trust.

He said he was ready to swear to support the constitution without a mental reservation. And he declared he was against political dictatorship

Senators Clash as Side Issue.

During Senator Smith's questioning of the witness an uproar occurred when Senator Louis A. Murphy [Dem., Ia.] asserted that Senator Smith was attacking the administration.

"I resent that!" roared Senator Smith. "It's getting so to be around here that you can't say anything without being accused of attacking some one higher up. Haven't we got the right to criticize any more? President Roosevelt will find before he leaves Washington that I'm the best friend he has."

A burst of mingled cheering and groaning greeted the assertion, some time later, by Senator Byrd that proposed amendments to the AAA, sponsored by Prof. Tugwell, would make "Secretary Wallace the Hitler of American agriculture!"

Many Spectators Present.

The smiling and composed Tugwell entered the committee room a few minutes before 10 o'clock. He was immediately surrounded by photographers and by feminine fans who emitted little gasps of admiration at the professor's undoubted good looks The high ceilinged caucus room in

CALIFORNIA NEEDN'T BOAST, CHICAGO HAS A FIVE LEGGED FROG

News that a five legged frog had been found in California brought the disclosure yesterday that the Lincoln park zoo has a frog with an equal number of legs. Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo, revealed that the park has owned "Ichabod," a large five legged bullfrog, for more than a year.

"Ichabod is a big fellow with three perfectly formed hind legs and two normal front legs," said Mr. Young.

The frog has a ravenous appetite, consuming a half pound of beef hearts and livers a week, Young said. He is kept in the aquarium and is rated a good jumper.

Dog Guards Dead Master, Delays Removal of Body

A dog, patiently standing guard over the body of the Rev. William Bailey, 69, colored, of 1712 West Austin boulevard, frustrated attempts to remove the dead man for a time yesterday. It was only after the animal had been dragged away and tied up that police could remove the body to a morgue. Rev. Mr. Bailey died while crossing Goethe street and North Dearborn street.

North Shore Gets Rainfall, High Winds

Seven high tension wires were broken, one of them carrying 12,000 volts of electricity, at least 35 trees were blown down in Evanston and Wilmette, and several automobiles were damaged as the result of high winds which accompanied rain which fell in the north shore suburban area and scattered sections of the city last night.

The rainfall in Evanston was the first heavy downpour in the suburb since the beginning of the drouth. Several fallen trees blocked trafic in the suburb's streets until repair crews could remove them.

Cooler Today Forecast.

Scattered slight showers were reported in the city, and temperatures started downward with the rain. Weather Forecaster W. P. Day predicted that 65 degrees probably will be the maximum for today, with the prospect of clear skies.

Showers first struck the north shore about 7 p. m. A large area in Lake county had a full half hour of heavy rain, with some hail reported in Waukegan and Highland Park. The showers swept down the lake shore.

Hard Rain in West Suburbs.

The western suburbs of Cicero and Oak Park also had hard rains, as did Aurora, Elgin, and other towns to the west of the city.

Rains since Saturday have fallen in southern Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, southern Indiana, eastern and central Kansas, western and central Nebraska, northeast Oklahoma, North Dakota and the extreme northwestern portion of Minnesota.

Rains in the Missouri corn belt reached near cloudburst proportions. Poplar Bluff had 3.08 inches, Arcadia, 2.52 inches, and Hermann, 2.48 inches. In Illinois Hillsboro reported 2.08 inches, and Grafton 1.18 inches. Richmond, Ky., had a rainfall of 2.23 inches, and Cincinnati, 1.14 inches.

The rains came soon enough to save the corn crop, it was stated, but were too late to save the wheat and oat crops. Crop experts, touring the grain belt still filed pessimistic reports of the prospects for the small grains.

Temperature Reaches 84.

Temperatures in Chicago climbed steadily yesterday, and by 4 o'clock hit an official high of 84 degrees, recorded at the federal building. Today, however, was expected to be much cooler, with a maximum of only 65 degrees. The cooler weather is being brought by shifting lake winds.

The daily report on precipitation since Jan. 1 showed 4.75 inches for the Chicago area, which is 9.48 inches less than normal.

2,000 AT FAIR SHOW SEE A LION ATTACK NOTED TRAINER, KING

While an audience of nearly 2,000 spectators looked on, Cappy, a large Nubian lion, last night leaped upon Allan King, noted animal trainer at the Red Crown Live Power show in the World's Fair, tore a chair from his hands and slashed his right arm with its teeth. King saved himself by lashing the beast with a whip in his left hand.

All the 32 lions and tigers in the great cage were nervous because of a thunderstorm when King entered the arena carrying the whip and a chair. Choosing a moment when the trainer's back was turned, Cappy leaped from his pedestal and knocked King to the floor.

After beating off the lion with the whip, King left the arena long enough to have his wound dressed, and then continued the show.

KANE COUNTY'S FARMERS WAR ON AAA MILK PRICE

Hundreds of Kane county farmers, members of the Pure Milk association, in a massmeeting at Dundee put themselves on record last night as being opposed to the Agricultural Adjustment administration. They also threatened rebellion against their own parent organization. More than 1,000 men and women were at the meeting.

The meeting adopted a resolution demanding that the directors of the PMA withdraw from the AAA because the present milk prices in the Chicago market, established by the AAA, are insufficient. Another resolution recommended that all milk be raised to a flat price of $2.58 per hundredweight [5.33 cents a quart], until conditions due to the drouth change. This resolution was strengthened by an addenda that if the PMA rejects this recommendation that the Kane county organization should withdraw from the parent association. The meeting also agreed that the association should adopt no policy encouraging producers to make surplus milk.

Approval of the resolutions was practically unanimous.

There were representatives from adjacent counties present. They were expected to report to their respective groups on last night's action by the Kane county farmers.

During the week the sixteen Kane county locals of the PMA will vote on the resolutions adopted by the general group last night. On Saturday night the officers of the locals will meet with the district leaders in the Geneva courthouse to take final action.

William Faber of Plato Center, chairman, presided. Other officers present were George Damisch of Rutland, secretary, and Arthur Hartman, director on the PMA board from Kane county.

Find Explosive Materials in Bag on Plane

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—Twenty men fought their way tonight up Mongaup mountain, in the western Catskills, to pack down the seared bodies of six men and a woman, victims of the Saturday crash of the Chicago-bound air liner.

In the eerie light of torches they scrambled up the peak known locally as "Last Chance," with baskets, in which the bodies of the seven will be brought down the mountainside. It was expected that the party, composed of state troopers, county officials, and residents, would be back about 2 o'clock in the morning.

They expected to negotiate the thickets and come down on the plane from the opposite side from which it furrowed into the mountainside in a sudden storm. It was considered that this route was more easily negotiated than the almost impassable pathway up the mountain by the shorter side.

Seven Killed Instantly.

The seven occupants had been killed instantly, it was decided when officials had reached the scene of the crash shortly after noon today. Explosive materials were found in the bag of a passenger.

The dead were:

Bader, William Baxter, 31, of 602 Colvin avenue, Buffalo, chemical engineer, employed by Sement Solvay company. This was his first airplane flight. He was agraduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was married and had three children.

Barron, John Jr., better known as "Pat" Barron, 33, co-pilot, of Chicago; a flyer of seven years' experience with 2,000 hours of flying; recently transferred from the south.

Cass, William A., 28, of 57 Woodbridge avenue, Buffalo, assistant office manager of F. N. Burt company. He was a foster son of Mary Cass, general manager of the company. Had flown many times. He was a graduate of Dartmouth college, was married and had two children, a boy and a girl.

Coppins, Harold C., 42, of 88 Middlesex road, Buffalo, general superintendent of factories of F. N. Burt company, paper box manufacturers. Had flown many trips. He was married and had one child.

Holbrook, Clyde, pilot, 38 years old, of La Grange, Ill.; a veteran pilot with more than 10,000 hours of flying.

Huckeby, Miss Ada, 28, stewardess, of Chicago, a graduate nurse from the Jackson Park hospital, Chicago, reported sole support of her family, who live in Henshaw, Ky. Went into air service in August, 1933.

Pinsley, Harry, of 1 West 67th street, New York City, an employé of the Music Corporation of America, 745 5th avenue. His parents live in Chicago and he was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1931.

Crashes and Burns.

The nine ton ship, flying low through clouds and fog, dove into maple and oak trees within 200 feet of the summit, cut an eighty foot swath through the treetops for fifty yards, and then crashed to the ground, and burst into flames.

The bodies of three of those on board, Coppins, Pinsley, and Miss Huckeby, were thrown clear of the wreckage by the impact.

Fire consumed part of the fuselage and much of the wing and burned a 100 foot circle in the timber about the plane. One of the two engines weighing 1,200 pounds, was ripped from its supports on the crumpled wing and hurled thirty feet into the woods.

The party found two mail bags, one intact and one partly burned, but with most of the mail safe.

Among the charred remnants of other luggage they found Bader's Gladstone bag, which they opened. In

PRESIDENT MAY INTERVENE TO STOP A STRIKE

Provides for a Test of New Deal.

Silver Bill Passed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today took up the question of intervening in the menacing steel situation, in an effort to avoid a general strike.

Holding his first special conference on the steel strike threat, President Roosevelt called to the White House Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief; Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA; Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], head of the national labor board, and Charles E. Wyzanski, counsel for the labor department.

Plan Another Meeting.

The taking of a strike poll in steel plants at Gary, Ind., and the increased belligerency of steel union leaders, who have withdrawn to Pittsburgh, are believed to have prompted the White House meeting. No decision was reached at today's discussions and the President is expected to call his advisers together again soon, probably tomorrow. The White House denied reports that the President had already intervened in the strike vote at Gary.

Government intervention in the steel turmoil, however, was the principal topic of discussion, Senator Wagner admitted in response to inquiries. He declined to disclose the nature of the plan under consideration, however.

May Yield to Demand.

President Roosevelt heretofore has held scrupulously aloof from the steel squabble, and today's conference was the first indication that he may yield to the insistent demand for his personal intervention. Union leaders have continually declared that they will be satisfied with nothing less than a White House hearing.

The New Deal's first rebuff to organized labor may well be the outcome of any government intervention in the steel troubles, and this is one reason that the President has tried to keep away from it personally, observers here believe. Because the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers is endeavoring to force a closed shop on the steel industry, the administration cannot legally support it. But to rebuff it would not be politically advantageous to the President.

May Bring Pressure.

Senator Wagner admitted that the conference today did not take up the pending Wagner labor disputes bill, which would dictate labor decisions to industry. The omission of this measure from the talk was taken as another sign that the President is now planning to bring pressure on the unions rather than the employers. Previously the White House has waved the threat of the Wagner bill over industry whenever seeking to extract new concessions from employers.

Outside of the White House meeting today, Washington experienced a lull in the turbulent steel negotiations. Reports indicated, however, that Gen. Johnson had reached a decision not to accept an invitation to attend the steel union convention in Pittsburgh on Thursday, at which the strike question will be settled.

48,000 READY TO QUIT

Lodges of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers were starting to hold meetings last night to instruct delegates to the general conference at Pittsburgh Thursday. All twenty-three lodges in the Calumet area are ready to call a "holiday" next Saturday.

Although officials of the Fourth district, which includes Gary, East Chicago, Joliet, and Chicago, admitted they were reluctant to call the strike, they said delegates would be instructed to accept nothing less than union recognition by the steel companies.

Meetings of the various lodges, said to have a membership of 48,000 steel mill workers, were termed a "formality" by the union leaders. They asserted there was no doubt on the attitude of the workers.

"No vote action was taken at the district meeting in East Chicago on Sunday," said Ernest Curtis, district organizer, "because none was needed. The delegates, elected last April, have been instructed to vote for a holiday in case their employers fail to recognize them.

"There has been no indication on the part of the employers to recede from their original Steel Institute plan, and they have not offered to recognize the workers' union. Therefore we have no alternative but to reaffirm our original resolution."

Four lodges of the union in Gary either held their meetings last night or were to meet today to vote their reaffirmation of the national organization's policy. Other lodges had posted notices of meetings, but a few were so assured of their members' sentiment that the meeting was dispensed with. Notable among these were six lodges at Indiana Harbor.

Gary Local Approves Strike.

The first Gary local to meet on the matter was lodge No. 6, comprised mainly of employés of the Gary works of the Illinois Steel company. The local approved the plans for a national strike and designated Roy A. Kelsey as their delegate to the Pittsburgh convention. Officials of the union expressed the feeling that President Roosevelt's intervention might prevent a strike.

Reports were heard at the meeting that mills at Indiana Harbor yesterday were noticed bringing in three bus loads of outside men, presumably for work in event of a walkout. It was also rumored that another company had brought into its railroad yards few Pullman cars to be used as residences.

Strike Leader Arrives.

Proximity of the strike, or "holiday," as the Amalgamated refers to it, was brought to the attention of the steel company officers by the appearance of William Schoenberg, representative of the American Federation of Labor, who announced he was to take charge of the union negotiations in the area after the walkout.

"I still see one way that the strike can be averted," he declared, "and that is by a round table conference between steel officials and union representatives. The difficulties could easily be settled in this way."

While the great steel mills worked overtime under the rush of recent orders, there was little tension among the workers. Grocery stores reported unusual sales as wives of union men laid in supplies for the "holiday," and the plants were reported to have mounted floodlights on roofs and increased private police forces.

Expect No Violence.

Both union representatives and officers of the "company unions" were busy doing recruiting work. In opposition to the claim of the Amalgamated that nearly 50,000 of the total of 60,000 workers in the area were on their roster, the steel officers asserted the strike, if there was one, would not bother operations because only 15 per cent of the men would stop work.

Neither side said they expected any violence. It was recalled, however, that it took the Fourth division of the United States regular army to "keep the lid" on the area during the great strike of 1919. In charge of most of the area, in case of a strike, will be Mrs. Lillian Holley, sherif of Lake county and ex-jailer of John Dillinger, the outlaw. She will have some 20,000 workers to control.

DARROW REPORT LEAKS OUT; HITS JOHNSON HARD

Washington, D. C., June 11.—The second Darrow report to President Roosevelt was made public tonight by unofficial sources without awaiting official administration release. While it hardly fulfilled Clarence Darrow's prediction as chairman that it would be "hotter' 'than the first, it was a broad indictment of the NRA for allegedly betraying small business interests to monopolies in eleven of the fourteen additional codes investigated.

The National Recovery Review [Darrow] board held Gen. Hugh S. Johnson personally responsible for "sinister changes" in the retail trade code and declared him totally unsuited to be national recovery administrator. Gen. Johnson was charged with having surreptitiously altered codes in "an arbitrary exercise of power that seems to demand searching inquiry on even graver grounds than those of economic justice."

President Roosevelt has advised, "and most emphatically, that all codes, once adopted, should be free from left handed manipulations without authority and without notice, unless it is desired to cast the whole experiment of the National Recovery act into the hands of irresponsible dictatorship."

Dealing directly with the retail code, the report charges:

"The code, as drawn and adopted, was not the code that was sent by the administrator of the NRA to the President of the United States to become the guiding law of the trade. It was not the code that ever since has been in operation."

The original code, the report states, was opposed by only one man out of 203. This unnamed individual was described as "the representative of a large house in New York, well known to have powerful financial, political, and social connections."

BILLY RANIERI CALLS ROMANO HIS ABDUCTOR

Billy Ranieri, who was kidnaped in 1928, yesterday unhesitatingly selected from among a score of photographs of police characters one of Julio Romano, who is now being held by police in London, as one of the men who abducted him.

"That's the man," the boy declared. "I still remember him."

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty went before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan and won a writ which will permit him to take Andrew Cappelano, one of the convicted kidnapers now serving a 25 year term in Joliet penitentiary, before the grand jury in an effort to obtain an indictment against Romano. According to present plans Cappelano will be taken before the grand jury on Thursday.

Cappelano named Romano as one of the kidnaping gang when he and Angelo Pettiti were tried for the abduction. Extradition proceedings will be instituted when the grand jury returns a true bill, Mr. Dougherty said.

Meanwhile the prosecutor cabled London police to hold Romano pending the extradition proceedings.

LITTLE HOPE OF REFORM WITHIN MOVIE INDUSTRY

They'll Produce Whatever Pays the Best.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Hollywood, Cal., June 11.—[Special.]—There is little likelihood that the motion picture producers of Hollywood will be able to satisfy, through any self-imposed censorship in their own warring studios, the growing demand throughout the United States for a new standard of decency in this form of entertainment.

CECIL DE MILLE.

This is largely because of the decadence of recognized American standards of morals in this sex-obsessed kingdom of unreality, its surrender to the hack writing mockers of Broadway, and a philosophy founded on animalism, and also because of the wider impossibility of reconciling the demands of puritans and sophisticates, oriental and western, countryside and city points of view. It is also to be considered that 40 per cent of the income from pictures, the cream of the profit, comes from foreign patrons.

With demands for reform coming from the Catholic church, Jewish rabbis, the Federal Council of Churches, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Presbyterian assembly, Episcopal spokesmen, and others, attention is directed here to the fact that even this early in a campaign which seems heading for drastic action of some kind the inability of these critics to agree on good and bad pictures is indicated.

Two "Worst" in "Ten Best."

The General Federation of Women's Clubs at its recent meeting in Hot Springs declared that 55 pictures out of last year's output of 343 were unsuitable for the public. In their list of ten best pictures based on reviews from 343 critics in key cities they listed "She Done Him Wrong" and "Rasputin and the Empress." These are among the ten "worst" pictures mentioned in the report of Bishop John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles, official observer for the Catholic church. They are referred to as "concerned with the lechery of a fanatic monk and his two attempts at rape" and as a "rowdy farce with Boccaccian dialog." "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" was cited in the press as being at the top of the list of films reviewed by the Daughters of the American Revolution and recommended for both adults and adolescents. Yet here some of the trade press found this picture "demoralizing and hardly suitable for children or for Sunday showings in small towns."

Cecil De Mille, one of the few directors who takes his time about pictures and who has little trouble with censors, gave his views of the situation. He is now engaged in the production of "Cleopatra" on the Paramount lot.

"I will wager that not twelve inches will be cut by the censors," he said. "Speaking generally of the industry, however, one bad apple is likely to spoil the whole barrel. I take very seriously the responsibility of influencing the thought of 300 million people.

Stage Mirror of Life.

"We must remember that the stage has always been a mirror of life, truly, greatly at times. It does not direct life. Our girls, for instance, are using red finger nails. That will not photograp.. on the screen, therefore the movies cannot be blamed. It is symbolic of the time and came from somewhere else. The trouble is that life is losing integrity, in literature and in politics.

"Censorship of vulgarity—yes. We should have a strict police censorship. The greatest danger is the lowering of taste. Good taste in pictures answers all objections. During the sex mania right after the war, when I had to meet this demand in production, I gave plays showing triangles, but emphasizing the dangers of divorce. I satisfied the demand and taught a good moral lesson. So it can always be done.

"Censorship is bad. We can then only pour ideas through one mind. What sort of a mind can censor for this age? This is an age when the old gods will not answer. We do not burn witches any longer and we do not pull arms and legs apart in the name of the Savior.

"We have to get a new conception of God. I recall one censorship, when Joan of Arc was being produced. She was made to say in one scene, 'Father, why hast thou forsaken me?' A light on the cross was the answer as she went to her death. A woman on the board said that that line would have to come out because God had never forsaken any one. A minister present reminded her that these were the very words of Jesus.

"The church banned the 'Sign of the Cross' because of a dance by a slave girl in a scene where the Christian girl refuses to save her life by yielding to the Roman prince. It was meant to be suggestive and terrible, as showing the conflict between spirit and flesh and the triumph of the spirit. At a recent meeting of Catholic children it was found that 80 per cent of them had seen this picture and one speaker said that it was the finest lesson in overcoming. The scene of the Christian martyrs stumbling fearfully up the steps to the arena, the natural fears of people about to face death, was objected to because it was held that the martyrs went gladly to their death.

Hollywood Evils Magnified.

"It is this sort of thing that we can never agree upon. Life is the theme for us. It must be portrayed in a helpful, interesting way. Little Annie out in the meadow plucking flowers to give to her sick mother is not the theme, but something strong for the woman who has to meet the problem of her son's sweethearts later on, and for the girl who is wondering about experimental love. We need strong books and plays, but they must be in good taste always.

Sol Wurtzel, assistant production manager for the Fox company, pointed out that there is no "Hollywood" point of view, only the views of individuals in Hollywood.

"Reform movements do not bring results desired," he said. "It is the public that decides. The public does not always know what it wants. We held up 'David Harum' for five years, for only recently was the public ready for it. The gay nineties' flair began with 'She Done Him Wrong' and was followed by 'Little Women.' Mere box office does not guarantee another success.

"There is a swing back toward old and simple picture themes, but the public will decide for us. They turned down gangster pictures. We did not stop because we were told to do so. They are now beginning to razz scenes where the unwed girl has a baby. Sex must stay, but variety also must stay. It must be clean and inoffensive. 'She Done Him Wrong' results were analyzed wrongly. In the next West picture they threw sex at the public and it had a bad effect."

Assistant Producer Talks.

Now we come to a talk with an assistant producer with seven years experience in Hollywood, who shall be unnamed for obvious reasons. In a conversation with friends he said:

"Ideals? There are no ideals in Hollywood. At least, I have never met one. The effect of pictures on children? They never think of it. A picture is judged by the box office. If it makes tons of money it is a good picture. They lost a lot of money on "Alice in Wonderland" and decided that children do not want to see that kind of picture.

"Hollywood is a weird place to work. The executives have no regard to the personal lives of their secretaries and assistants. Insecurity is the great trouble. Each producer has his unit group of people around him. Out go the others when a new producer steps in. There is no hope of promotion. It is a crazy, fantastic game. All are hoping for the breaks. They will wait years to sell one story or make a hit in a part. People are wandering the streets broke who were making big money a few years ago. One production head has pulled down $250,000 a year for the last two years. Another has drawn from $50,000 to $100,000 a year for the last eight years, with only one box office success.

Cost $500 to $1,200 an Hour.

"It costs from $500 to $1,200 an hour to take a picture. Sometimes as in 'Operator 13' they will tear down a set and remake it at cost of hundreds of thousands. There is no sense of values here. These men are remaking American styles in dress and homes and sex ideas. The casting for pictures is often a racket.

"I will never let my children go to the movies. With producers and stars getting as much as $200,000 a year and little knowledge of what to do with it, what can the result be except a fantastic life? There is too much inbreeding here. It would be better if the pictures were produced in eight different towns in the United States. Think of all the novels being written in one town. Conversation which would be considered horrible elsewhere is considered commonplace here. There is perversion among the players, an undercurrent of sex talk everywhere. What sort of a community is this to influence American life?"

GRANTED DIVORCE

SARI MAR ELIA.

Because her husband was a Persian of noble birth, he felt that he had demeaned himself by marrying a commoner, Mrs. Sari Mar Elia, 21 years old, of 1531 North Clark street, told Judge Walter La Buy yesterday in the hearing on her bill for divorce.

They were married in Philadelphia in 1929, she testified in answer to the questioning of her lawyer, Norman Becker, and he deserted her four years ago, saying his family would never sanction the union. The husband, Pera Mar Elia, was not present in court, and his wife testified she did not know whether or not he had gone back to his native land.

Judge La Buy granted the divorce and gave the wife leave to resume her maiden name of Sari Sayad.

Predicts New Pictures Era with the Filth Taken Out

Columbus, O., June 11.—(AP)—A new era of pictures, in which there will be less "objectionable matter," was predicted by Dr. B. O. Skinner, state director of education.

He was commenting on a pastoral of Bishop Joseph Schrembs of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, which asserted "the salacious, lascivious films that are shown in our theaters offend every canon of good taste and common decency."

Bishop Schrembs contended that state boards of film censors, including that of Ohio, of which Skinner is ex-officio head, have made but "feeble efforts in deleting objectionable matter."

Seeks to Help Church.

To this, Dr. Skinner replied that the Ohio board "is doing the best it can," and said he is "thoroughly in sympathy with the general movement among both Catholics and Protestants to arouse public sentiment against indecent films."

At Cleveland Dr. Don D. Tullis, secretary of Federated Churches, representing most Protestant denominations in greater Cleveland, announced the organization's executive committee had approved the drive upon salacious movies announced by Bishop Schrembs.

Dr. Tullis' statement also said that "apparently the only way to speak to Mr. [Will H.] Hays and his associates is through the box office."

Movement Is Growing.

Philadelphia, June 11.—(AP)—Commendation for Cardinal Dougherty's stand against "immoral and indecent films," was heard today at the weekly meetings of Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal ministers.

The Methodists adopted a resolution commending "most heartily Cardinal Dougherty in his heroic stand against the corrupting motion pictures of our day, and join with him in requesting our young people to join the legion of decency and urge our people to boycott all motion picture plays."

At the Presbyterian meeting a proposal to take similar action was referred to a committee pending a report of the action of the Presbyterian general assembly held at Cleveland recently.

Last week Cardinal Dougherty sent a letter to the Catholic clergy urging members of the church to join the league of decency which is pledged not to attend immoral moving picture shows.

DAILY PUBLISHERS OPPOSE WAGNER BILL TO UNIONIZE LABOR

New York, June 11.—(AP)—Opposition to the Wagner labor bill in its present form was expressed today by the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. The board passed a resolution opposing its enactment.

This action was taken after a study of the bill by the association's committee on federal laws. W. F. Wiley, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer and chairman of the committee, issued a statement on the bill.

"Cognizant that there is widespread fear through industry," said Mr. Wiley, "that enactment of the Wagner labor bill with the amendments proposed by Senator Wagner will stagnate recovery by imposing unbearable burdens on employers, and believing that maintenance and operation of the daily newspaper publishers' code in labor adjustment will be jeopardized, and convinced that enactment into law of the Wagner bill will compel complete unionization of all newspaper publishing offices, daily or weekly, it is therefore the sense of your committee on federal laws that every effort should be employed either to prevent passage of said bill in its present form or to have it amended in such manner as to remove its threatening and dangerous aspects.

"The Wagner amendments would give to the proposed national industrial adjustment board the power to abrogate contracts, to nullify codes, to compel unionization of all industries, to force the abandonment of the principle of proportionate representation, to police industry, and to force its orders on any employer of its own motion or at the instance of a complaining labor representative.

"Employers are deprived of the right to bring a controversy before the board. By the terms of the amendments only employers can be held guilty of unfair labor practices."

COUNCIL WANTS CHIEF OF POLICE FOR WAUKEGAN

In a stormy session, the Waukegan city council last night passed a resolution stating that Edwin Ahlstrom, who has served as chief of police of the city for four years, was "endangering public peace and welfare by his illegal pretensions to office." The resolution was accepted 10 votes to 4.

At the same time, the council appointed Col. A. V. Smith, former Lake county prosecutor, as a special assistant city attorney with instructions to take whatever legal steps necessary to remove Ahlstrom and open his place for a successor.

Last May, when the council refused to approve reappointment of Ahlstrom, Mayor Peter Peterson announced he would make no appointment at all. The council countered by refusing to approve the payment of the chief's salary, and Ahlstrom took the matter to the Circuit court. Col. Smith said he would take the council's side of the case to the same court within a few days.

While the bickering over the police chief was going on, a committee of citizens presented a petition asking the council "to act in a more businesslike manner and cease quarreling so that Waukegan would not continue to be a laughing stock for Illinois." This was solemnly accepted.

High Diving Artist Is Burned in Freak Mishap

Auburn, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—Mrs. John Brady, 25, of Chicago, member of a high diving troupe, was burned critically today when a container of blazing paraffin used to waterproof their canvas diving pool was tossed out of their car by her husband.

OHIOAN STRIPPED IN STRIKE RIOT THREATENS SUIT

Wants Damages Settlement or Plans Action.

Toledo, O., June 11.—[Special.]—Counsel for Stephen Kardos, 22, of Toledo, who was stripped naked and forced to parade in the streets May 25 during the strike riot at the Electric Auto-Lite company's plant served notice on Lucas county commissioners today that unless a reasonable settlement is made a suit for damages will be filed against the county.

The notice was in the form of a letter from Attorney James Slater Gibson. He wrote the county commissioners that Kardos was set upon by a mob, assaulted in the vicinity of the Electric Auto-Lite plant, severely beaten and after his clothing had been torn from his body, he was paraded nude through the downtown streets of the city.

Charge Permanent Injuries.

The beating given Kardos, the latter's counsel informed the commissioners, by this mob has resulted in severe permanent injuries to him. Under the law of Ohio, the attorney declared, the one assaulted has a case of action against the county.

The county commissioners turned the letter over to Prosecutor Frazier Reams for an opinion. Officials in the prosecutor's office said they will not admit the county is liable for any action, pointing out that the law says the person assaulted must have been taken from the custody of an officer. In that case, the county is liable to $1,000 damages. Judicial opinions, they say, further limit the liability of the county.

Kardos is a former Auto-Lite employé. He said that on the afternoon of May 25 he was on his way to a circus when he was recognized by rioters and set upon. His clothing was stripped from his body and he was beaten. He tried to enter a taxicab and later sought refuge in a bus unavailingly. Police at the riot scene tried vainly to protect him.

Paraded Nearly 2 Miles.

The mob then paraded Kardos nude nearly two miles to the downtown district. A lone policeman in the interurban station saw the strange procession, Kardos, wearing only shoes and a tie, followed by a jerring, taunting crowd. He ran out and rescued the man, asking the mob leaders "What would your mother and sister think of this?" Kardos, still naked, was taken to the Safety building, past which the mob had paraded a few minutes before with their victim. After being given clothing, he was taken home.

No action was taken by city or county officials in the case. Questioned, the same reply was received, "we are investigating," or "we are awaiting reports."

Although the incident occurred more than two weeks ago, no warant for any of the mob leaders had been issued and the investigation, if there was one, apparently was fruitless.

Photographs Are Published.

Newspaper photographers took pictures of Kardos being paraded by the mob and these pictures were published in several newspapers. The victim's taunters easily could be recognized, but until Kardos' counsel wrote the letter today to the county commissioners, no notice officially had been taken in the case.

This is the first time any such incident has come into any Lucas county court and it is the first hint of legal action as a result of the strike.

ONE WORKER DIES AFTER BEATING IN ALABAMA RIOTING

Birmingham, Ala., June 11.—(AP)—Disorder in the Alabama industrial district today had claimed one life and caused serious injury to another worker as dynamitings, a gun battle, and fights punctuated the week-end.

Green Patton, Negro employé at the Tomas furnaces of the Republic Steel corporation, died in a hospital this morning from a beating allegedly administered by five white men last night.

A Negro employé of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company was in serious condition in a hospital from injuries suffered when dynamite blew up the porch of a friend's home.

Tension throughout the district was taut today as unrest increased among the 8,000 idle iron ore miners who have been on strike since May 4.

U. S. BUROCRACY REACHES A NEW 644,000 HIGH

190,000 of "Deserving" Outside Civil Service.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—With 190,000 Democratic campaign workers already on the federal pay roll, the political machine of the party in power is growing by leaps and bounds.

Every new alphabetical recovery agency created provides jobs for additional aggregations of "deserving Democrats," all exempt from civil service qualifications and regulations.

At the rate the jobs are being handed out under the supervision of that dual personage the Hon. James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, it will not be long before practically the entire Democratic organization from state leaders down to precinct workers will be on the federal pay roll.

Reaches New High.

With 644,100 persons employed in the executive branch of the government, the federal burocracy has reached a new peace time high. Of these there are 190,000 who are not under the merit rule, 80,000 more than during the Hoover administration. In addition approximately 150,000 employés in the classified service have been replaced in the last year, to a considerable extent by Democrats.

About 60,000 Democratic party workers have been "taken care of" in the alphabetical recovery agencies, none of which is under the merit rule. Under this basis a conservative guess is not less than 100,000 more berths for FRBC [for Roosevelt before Chicago] Democrats will be provided by the legislation the President told congress last week he will seek to round out the New Deal with a multitude of social welfare institutions.

24 Million Beneficiaries.

There are now more than 24 million persons who are receiving either entire support or aid of some sort from the federal treasury. With the extension of the New Deal in the directions envisaged by the President, it is possible that the number of such pay roll beneficiaries will be increased to half the population or more.

The prospect of more than 300,000 party workers on the federal pay roll and half the population enjoying government financed benefits of one sort or another suggests to the politically minded that events are moving in the direction of the perpetuation of the Democratic party in power.

The principal recovery agencies and the number of non-civil service employés in each are:

Home Owners' Loan corporation	13,798
Tennessee Valley authority	9,798
Farm Credit administration	7,678
Agricultural Adjustment administ'n	4,533
National Recovery administration	3,694
Public works administration	3,579
Reconstruction Finance Corp.	3,202
Civil Works administration	377
Home Loan bank board	300
Emergency Relief administration	188
Surplus Relief corporation	183
National Labor board	137
Federal Coördinator of Transportation	123
Federal Alcohol Control administration	93
Commodity Credit corporation	66
Office Special Adviser Foreign Trade	39
National Recovery Review board	29
Central Statistical board	13
Export-Import banks	4

The National Civil Service Reform league, in a report just issued, condemns unsparingly the Democratic spoils orgy.

Pledged to 25 Per Cent Cut.

"The Democratic party," says the report, "came into power in 1933 pledged to a 25 per cent reduction in the federal budget, a reduction which common opinion believed would be effected in large part through cutting down supposedly over-staffed government departments. It also came into power after twelve years' absence from the luscious plums of federal patronage, with a following which the dearth of opportunities in private enterprise had made even more than commonly avid for the reward of victory—government jobs. Thus at the outset the party leaders were faced with the dilemma of redeeming platform pledges of governmental economy, while at the same time satisfying the thousands of partisans who expected to receive a substantial reward for campaign services.

"Conflict of these two incompatibles had done serious damage to the merit system in the civil service. Ordinary government services have been cut and employés in the departments furloughed, laid off, or dismissed. Spoils raids have been made in the guise of economy, and pay cuts, payless furloughs, lay-offs, and the loss of the security once believed to be a prerequisite of public employment have left the morale of the rank and file at low ebb.

Yet More Created.

"Yet at the same time a score of new agencies have been created and have employed without regard to the civil service law nearly 60,000 persons at an annual cost of more than 75 million dollars.

"When President Roosevelt took office in March, 1933, there were 566,986 persons on the civilian pay roll of the federal government. One year later there were 623,559.

"Government is being called on to undertake the solution of nearly every economic, industrial and social problem. Long range plans with the most far reaching objectives are being laid. The administration of these plans, the supervision of great industries, the regulation of social habits, the investigation of private business is being intrusted very largely to politically appointed, political-minded subordinates who have never been required to demonstrate their fitness for such responsibility.

"The tremendous responsibilities which the New Deal has placed upon government are too heavy for the handling of such amateurs, whose greatest qualification is that they were 'for Roosevelt before Chicago.'"

Heiress Who Quit Prince Reveals Wedding in Mexico

Met in Hollywood

Newport, R. I., June 11.—[Special.]—Janet Snowden, the heiress who three weeks ago divorced Francesco Caravita, Prince di Sirignano, became Friday at Ensenada, Mexico, the third bride of William Sherman Gill, a Hollywood actors' agent. Mrs. Sherman Davidson, mother of the 18 year old former princess, announced the marriage today.

Gill, a former tailor shop employé, 45 years old, was divorced from Evelyn Fariss and in 1927 married Renee Adoree, French film star. Shortly after Reno ended this romance in 1929, Mrs. Mira Talbert, wealthy widow of a New York bank president, sued Gill for $1,200, which she said she had turned over him to buy an automobile. The court upheld Gill's contention that the sum was a gift to him. She admitted she was "fond of him."

Gill opened his screen actors' agency and met Miss Snowden when she leased a Hollywood home last winter and sought film success. She appointed Gill her manager. He sent her to a voice coach and obtained a part for her as an extra in one motion picture. She soon announced she had had enough of film romance, and left.

7,000 House Owners See Air Conditioning Show

A total of 7,000 home owners and members of engineering societies attended the first annual air conditioning show in progress at the Chicago Lighting institute in the Civic Opera building, Dr. E. Vernon Hill, director of the exhibit, said yesterday. It is being sponsored by air conditioning engineers. Admission is free and the attendance is being checked with an "electric eye." The exhibit will continue to June 16.

ITALY'S 'HUMAN FIREFLY' DOES A FADEOUT IN ROME

ROME, June 11.—(AP)—Italy's famous electric woman has flickered out.

During two months under strict observation at the Rome psychiatric clinic to which Guglielmo Marconi, as head of the natiaonal council of research, had her brought from Trieste, Anna Monaro failed to produce the rays of light that amazed the doctors in Trieste.

The Psychiatric clinic announced this morning that government agents took the woman back to Trieste yesterday. The doctors here were disappointed at the failure of the "human firefly" to shine in Rome, but they said other doctors in Trieste would continue to look for illuminations.

2,500 KILLED BY HURRICANE; TOWNS IN RUINS

Landslides Follow Storm in Salvador.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, June 11.—[Via Pan-American Airways Wireless.]—(AP)—A death toll in excess of 2,000 was reported by relief workers today after an airplane survey of the sections suffering most severely from last Thursday's hurricane. Reports from Honduras indicated that more than 500 had perished there.

Whole Salvadorean towns were wiped out by landslides after the heavy rains, L. C. Calloway, Pan-American Airways airport manager, reported after accompanying Salvadorean air corps flyers in a survey.

The government planes found that villages on the coast from La Libertad to La Union apparently were hardest hit, all of them being virtually destroyed.

Lakes Rise Far Over Banks.

Lake Guija and Lake Coatepeque rose far over their banks, sweeping away all signs of life along their shores. All agriculture appeared to have been wiped out.

The funnel of a steamboat was seen sticking out of the water in the Lempa river, with bodies floating around it.

In an effort to prevent as much suffering as possible, import duties on wheat and other cereals were abolished and food prices were fixed at those charged before the hurricane.

The airplane survey took in only territory near the capital, which still is without egular communication facilities with the interior and with the outside world. Electric light and power service here was restored over the week-end, and arrangements for a limited water supply were made.

Hundreds Stranded on Highlands.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 11.—(AP)—Heavy rainstorms throughout Honduras have caused many deaths, reports to the capital today said, and hundreds of persons who were able to escape from the rising waters of the rivers are stranded on the highlands.

[While the scattered reports reaching Tegucigalpa made no estimate of the number of dead, a radio report received by the United Fruit company at Boston from a wireless operator at Guatemala said that the entire village of Ocotopeque had been wiped out and 500 persons killed.]

Tegucigalpa, while cut off by the storm, suffered less than the outlying districts with only two persons drowned.

The Ulua river rose more than 45 feet above its normal stage and spread out over the Lalima district. The Blanco and Hunuya rivers flooded their areas, and the Cortez district and Ilama in the west were badly flooded.

At Pimienta many inhabitants who fled before the rising flood waters reached a small hill, only to be drowned there as the water rose over the top.

QUADRUPLETS SQUALL IN THEIR INCUBATOR; ALL GAIN STRENGTH

Sac City, Ia., June 11.—(AP)—The Wycoff quadruplets squalled lustily in their improvised incubator tonight, while neighbors swamped Larry Wycoff, highway worker, with offers of assistance for his family of nine children.

The quadruplets, from two and a half pound Lorraine Delaine to four and a half pound Lester Dean, all were reported much stronger, and Dr. G. H. Swearingen, who delivered them Saturday, was increasingly hopeful that all would survive.

The Wycoff home, where the 30 year old mother was reported in satisfactory condition, was crowded with Sac City residents, who brought offers of clothing, food, and other necessities to stretch the father's $16 a week salary to care for the new arrivals.

4 of Quints Lose Weight.

CORBEIL, Ont., June 11.—(AP)—All of the Dionne quintuplets except Marie, the smallest, lost some weight since yesterday, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, their physician, reported today, but their condition was called good and that of Yvonne, the heaviest, was "much improved."

The five baby girls were two weeks old at 4 a. m. today. Their total weight was 10 pounds 8½ ounces, compared with 10 pounds 11¾ ounces yesterday, a net loss of 3¼ ounces.

TUGWELL TELLS SENATOR HE IS NOT A RADICAL

Claims He Qualifies as Farm Expert.

Senator Smith grabbed a place in the picture by shaking hands with Tugwell. In marched the "jury," the committee of senators. Before long it was to be evident that a majority of jurors were emphatically in favor of the defendant before any evidence had been taken.

A movie camera began to grind and the microphone of a radio broadcasting system was placed before the witness as Chairman Smith began the interrogation. Most of the audience might better have stayed home and listened to the radio. Tugwell talked in a quiet, conversational tone, which could not be heard more than ten feet.

Describes Early Life.

He described his raising in a small New York state village, a community in the fruit tree district, and his education at high school and college. He became interested in the plight of the farmers early in his college career, he said, and determined to devote his energies to working out a solution of their problems.

"What do you consider the functions of an undersecretary of agriculture?" asked Senator Smith.

"I haven't made up my mind," responded Tugwell, calmly. "I was not consulted about the creation of the position nor my nomination. There are constant emergencies arising in the department of agriculture and an additional executive would seem to be needed."

"Now, I maintain that agriculture differs from all other occupations in that it cannot be reduced to a science," said Senator Smith. "You can't control nature. Practical experience is needed and farming demands one who has had varied experience in farming itself. Can you qualify as to that practical experience?"

Thinks He Can Qualify.

"That's an embarrassing question," replied Tugwell. "You asked me if I can qualify. I think that I could."

He agreed smilingly with the chairman that experience was needed in handling farming problems and assented to the propostion that academic training was not enough. Somewhat nonplussed by this attitude, Chairman Smith turned the questioning over to Senator Byrd. The latter referred immediately to a speech made by Tugwell before the American economic society in Washington, in 1931, which has caused so much speculation among congressmen.

"Frankly, I can't understand some of the language used in that speech," said Senator Byrd.

"That address was made to a group of economists and intended to be technical," said the professor with the soothing attitude of a teacher coaching a backward child. He embarked upon a lecture intended to explain the speech which left the faces of the committee blank with nonunderstanding.

Questioned as to Theories.

"Well, all that is about as clear as the original," commented Senator Byrd at the end. "Can you tell us definitly if you favor a planned economy or national planning?"

"Not in the sense that you think of them," was the easy reply.

"Did you say that 'the future was becoming visible in Russia'?"

"You must remember that that speech was made in 1931," was the answer. "The country was in the midst of a depression. The government was not doing anything to meet the emergency."

"Do you repudiate anything in this speech?" Senator Byrd wanted to know.

"I repudiate nothing," was Tugwell's answer. "I was speaking purely as a scientist. I recommended nothing. I was interpreting conditions."

He continued, declaring that his views concerning the constitution came from Supreme court decisions. He was not in favor of changing the constitution except by legal means.

"You say in this speech that certain sections of the constitution ought to be destroyed," he was reminded.

"I said they probably would be," the witness corrected, "I believe that the constitution is flexible enough to allow us to meet the exigencies which have arisen in the last year without the necessity of amendments."

There followed a long series of questions involving Tugwell's definition of national planning.

"If you mean by 'national planning' the drawing of a blue print with fixed plans for years ahead, I don't believe in national planning," Tugwell said, "and by planned economy, I meant nothing more or less than the system which has already been inaugurated under the AAA and the NRA."

Senator Bone jumped into the questioning.

"Do you believe in powerful bureaus regimenting the activities of the government?" he inquired.

"That's a very difficult question to answer for a mere candidate for an undersecretary," evaded Tugwell with the same deftness he displayed throughout the hearing.

"I believe that government ownership will eventually happen," interrupted Senator Wheeler, "if any one thinks I'm overriding the constitution in believing this, let the committee make the most of it."

Bankhead Aids Witness.

Here also, Senator Bankhead, sponsor of the cotton control bill, most drastic of all the New Deal regimentation schemes, displayed a sympathetic attitude for Tugwell. He asked a few questions, phrased so as to bring out the witness' avowed respect for orderly procedure in government.

Senator Byrd took up the question of Tugwell's assertion that certain amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act had been merely "clarifying."

"The insinuation has been that we tried to minimize the importance of those amendments so as to get them through," said Tugwell. "The charge is that the secretary of agriculture is usurping power in issuing licenses, establishing quotas, and so forth.

"This charge has been made against us in several courts and we have been upheld. There has been as yet no Supreme court decision. But we have the right to go ahead and proceed upon the low court rulings.

"I say you can't use these powers until congress gives them to you," said Senator Byrd.

"I agree," responded Tugwell. "Our excuse, however, is that these courts have given us the right to believe that we already have such powers."

Debate Effect of Amendments.

"You clearly said that these amendments did not increase the power of the secretary of agriculture," argued Senator Byrd. "But now you come to congress asking for legalization of what you have already done. These amendments enormously increase the power of the secretary. Wallace will be the Hitler of American agriculture if they go through!"

Whoops from the crowd greeted this statement. Senator Wheeler was irritated at this display.

"If you want to turn this meeting into a political racket, just say so," he told Senator Byrd.

Senator Smith then took up the grilling of the witness.

"I object," he said, "to a system which has for its ultimate purpose the permanent regimentation of the farmer, I am willing to go along in an emergency with temporary rules but I am against giving the control of the farmers of the country to a group of men in Washington. This legislation fits in with national planning and planned economy, so-called."

Murphy Stirs Near Riot.

Senator Murphy here created a near riot by remarking, audibly, to Senator Wheeler:

"What he's doing is attacking the administration!"

"I resent that!" bellowed Senator Smith. "I resent that dirty insinuation. I challenge any man here to throw the least aspersion on my democracy. You say you are free born American citizens and yet you want to suppress the right of men to express themselves. Any one who wants to stop the right of free speech in this country is unworthy of the name of an American citizen.

'It's getting to be here that you can't talk up in a meeting unless you express a sentiment in accord with some one higher up.

"You can't impute to me an enmity to the President because of what I have said," responded Senator Smith. "It will be proven before he leaves Washington that I'm the best friend he has in the capitol."

Back to the Professor.

Senator Bailey took over the examination of the professor.

"Did you say in this speech that as long as business remains unhampered, it will corrupt government at every point?"

"Yes, sir," replied Tugwell. "And that corruption of government by business will not cease until government becomes industry and industry becomes government?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then that is your goal?" pursued Senator Bailey. "Not quite," responded Tugwell. "I had in mind then something in the nature of the NRA."

"Do you consider that the NRA makes industry government and government industry?"

"Yes, sir."

Q. How far is that removed from the Russian system? A. There is no comparison of the NRA to the Russian system.

"You must remember," pleaded Tugwell at this point, "that the speech which has been here referred to was made in 1931, long before I had any responsibility in the government or had been confirmed as assistant secretary of agriculture."

"Do you recognize the rights of the minority?" was Senator Bailey's question.

"What I've been working for is the democratization of industry rather than a political dictatorship," was the answer. "The NRA provides for voluntary coöperation of industry. It is not national planning. There is only industry's own planning."

Tugwell lost his composure for the first time after a series of following questions. He had been on the stand continually under examination for more than three hours at this time.

"You're trying to get me to say that I believe in the Russian system and I don't!" he cried.

"That is," he amended, a moment later, "I don't believe in it for us."

Begins to Show Strain.

The strain was obviously showing upon him.

"The senator insists upon misinterpreting my opinions," he objected a little later. "I assure you I have no intention of doing anything which congress does not authorize. I didn't invent the industrial revolution or the Russian revolution. I mentioned these things in my speech, yes. The senator doesn't seem to understand the difference between a scientific treatise and a political speech."

"Did you say that 'the states are wholly ineffective instruments of control' in that speech?" pursued Senator Bailey, mercilessly.

"Yes. That is my view," Tugwell answered.

Senator Murphy asked a series of short questions.

"Ever been behind a plow?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir."

"Know how hard it is for a farmer to make a dollar?"

"I do."

Raised a Prize Calf.

"Did you ever raise a prize-winning pig or calf?" interrupted Senator Bone, suddenly.

"I raised a prize-winning calf," revealed the witness.

"Was the President advised of your qualifications when he nominated you?" was another question.

"He usually knows what he's doing," was Tugwell's reply.

"In taking this office, will you swear to support the constitution?"

"Yes, sir," replied Tugwell. "In fact, I have already done so."

"With no mental reservations?"

"No, sir."

"You said in this speech," commented Senator Gore, "that there were lessons we could learn from Russia."

"We could learn what not to do as well as what to do," replied Tugwell.

"According to the press," remarked Senator Murphy, "you have a supermind. How much did you have to do with the AAA?"

"I worked on it with fifty others," replied Tugwell.

Queried about his connection with other emergency acts, he admitted playing a part in the drafting of the tarif reciprocity act and one or two other acts, but insisted his activities had been confined mostly to the agricultural department.

"Is there a brain trust?" asked Senator Murphy, solemnly.

"No," was the answer, just as solemn.

"Well, we're really shocked to learn that you're a conservative," commented Senator Wheeler.

"I'm a conservative in the sense that I'd really like to conserve those things in American life which I grew up to respect and love," responded Dr. Tugwell, thus proving he wasn't a bad political orator himself. And that was practically the end of the big show.

STUDENT OF 1879 FINDS NEW DEAL HANDICAP TODAY

Professor, 71, Compares Social Theories.

Bloomington, Ind., June 11.—[Special.]—In a commencement address bristling with criticism of the New Deal, Dr. Frank A. Fetter, 71 year old professor emeritus of Princeton university, pointed out to the University of Indiana graduating class today how much greater are the complexities of the present social life and political system than were those that confronted graduates a half century ago.

An authority on political economy, the speaker successively held professorships at Indiana, Leland Stanford, Cornell, and Princeton universities. He was born and reared in Peru, Ind.

Comparing the year of 1879, when he entered the University of Indiana as a student, to 1934, he declared that, though the country had then just emerged from the most severe industrial depression and unemployment period in the memory of man, industry was better able to withstand the shock of financial panics and depressions than it is now.

Forces of Monopoly Gathering.

"But even in 1879 there were already signs on the business horizon of the forces of monopoly destined within a half century to overwhelm tens of thousands of small enterprises and reduce their owners to the status of wage employés of larger corporations," Dr. Fetter asserted.

"Though in 1879 the depression had persisted six years, as compared with the last four years and a half, the actual degree of unemployment and distress was doubtless far less then than now. All business then was nearer the soil and industrial plants far more decentralized. The pyramid of industry had a broader base and a more stable equilibrium.

"As a consequence there were more opportunities for young folks to start for themselves in the professions or business with some chance of succeeding. The ratio of possible employers to each college graduate was far greater than now.

Fears Effect of AAA Control.

"Agriculture, in which competition has persisted most fully until the divine or diabolic intervention of the AAA, has not only continued in the last four years to employ as many people as before but has further borne the brunt of reëmployment and recovery by giving employment to two million additional workers dismissed from the urban industries."

Though a change was certain to come, Dr. Fetter pointed out that many promising social reforms become a plague instead of a blessing, and that the "New Dealer in every age sows with high hopes often only to reap a harvest of barren regrets."

"Today in Washington as elsewhere," he said, "the minor socialites of a particular brand of the New Deal declare that the abuses of capitalism could not have been avoided, that they were a natural and inevitable development, and that they can not now be corrected excepting by some vague scheme of national planning which can be conceived only by the trustful brains of the brain trusters.

"This version of the New Deal is mostly the old deal of special privileges to some classes at the expense of the rest of us. Their brilliant proposal is to create prosperity by replacing an economics of production and plenty with an economics of willful restriction and scarcity. To those of us brought up in the liberal and progressive political economy of the past generation, this all seems like what Alice saw through a looking glass."

He declared that if the present so-called capitalistic system breaks down, it is destined to be replaced by an autocratic oligarchy of big business.

"For more than half a century the growth of great industrial corporations and the concentration of a more or less irresponsible financial control have been steadily overshadowing and destroying our system of private property and individual enterprise. Unless our people will and choose otherwise, big business will destroy free American life."

Jeweler Seeks Injunction to Block NRA Curb on Trade

National Recovery administration code authorities of Providence, R. I., and Washington yesterday continued their efforts to prevent a Chicago wholesale jeweler from manufacturing a chain tie clip. The jeweler, B. B. Manaster, president of the Crest Specialty company, 619 West Washington boulevard, after four days of negotiation with the New Dealers announced that he will seek the protection of the United States District court to maintain his business.

Action by the code authorities constitutes an infringement of the jurisdiction of the federal patent courts and illegal restraint of trade, Manaster declared yesterday in a statement issued by his attorneys, Clarence Thresedy and Charles Cannon. The attorneys asserted that the code groups were being used by an eastern jewelry manufacturer to create a monopoly for his own products.

Seek U. S. Injunction.

"We are going into the federal courts here to ask for an injunction to prevent any interference with Manaster's business," the lawyers stated. "We will also ask for an order to prevent his persecution by the code authorities."

The controversy between Manaster and the New Deal began last Friday when he received both a letter and a telegram directing him to "fill no further orders on chain tie clips until further word." Both messages bore the signature of NRA code groups for the medium and low priced jewelry manufacturers.

The letter asserted that a protest had been made by the Baer-Wilde Manufacturing company of Attleboro, Mass., to the code authorities design bureau—an NRA organization with which jewelers are allowed to register original designs and receive protection from their exploitation by other jewelers for one year during which patent proceedings might be completed. The protestor, it was stated, charged that the tie clip made by the Crest company was a copy of a clip registered with the bureau.

Manaster denied that his clip was a copy of that made by the Baer-Wilde company. He produced records of the United States patent office to prove that chain tie clips had been manufactured since 1886, and charged that even though the Baer-Wilde company had registered their design with the design bureau, it was not an original idea and therefore not taboo for other jewelers.

Challenges Code Authority.

After a consultation, Manaster dispatched a telegram to the code groups challenging their authority to order discontinuance of his manufacturing by telegram without granting him a hearing. The telegram also asserted: "The matter in question strictly concerns the alleged patent infringement of which the District court has exclusive jurisdiction."

In reply the code groups denied that patent courts had jurisdiction of the case and stated that Manaster might have a hearing "if he wished," but added that he would be held "accountable for violations after receipt of your original notice."

"Baer-Wilde company is headed by Lawrence E. Baer who is one of the vice chairmen of the national code authority for medium and low priced jewelry manufacturers," said Manaster. "He is endeavoring, under the skirt of the NRA, to create a monopoly for his company.

"He has notified all our jobbers that his concern has exclusive rights to the tie clasp and thus has intimidated them. We intend to continue manufacturing our tie clasps. This is merely a conspiracy to suppress honest competition."

HUSBAND KILLS SELF 12 HOURS AFTER WIFE DIES

Frank Smetana, 65 years old, 2300 South Central Park avenue, joined his wife, Mary, in death yesterday. Mrs. Smetana died in her home at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Smetana was overcome with grief over his wife's death, and at noon yesterday sent his sons, Frank Jr. and Charles, to make arrangements for Mrs. Smetana's funeral. When they returned home two hours later, Smetana excused himself.

He went into the basement. A moment later the sons heard a shot and found Smetana with a bullet wound in his head. He died shortly afterward in St. Anthony's hospital. He and his wife will be buried together.

FOUR ALLEGED REDS ARRESTED AT CONSULATE

Four alleged communists, one of them a physician, were arrested by the police yesterday as the leaders of two groups of men who tried to force their way into the German consulate at 520 North Michigan avenue to urge the release of political prisoners held by the Nazis in Germany.

Two visits were made by the demonstrators, both of them frustrated by the police. In the first, fifty men appeared and one of them, Dr. Martin Zeisler, who has an office at 3254 Lawrence avenue, was arrested. In the second, fifteen men appeared and Lieut. Make Mills arrested three of them. They are Eric Becker, 3116 South Halsted street; Ben Rubin, 1137 North Francisco avenue, and William Galatsky, 208 North Wells street.

LUMBER INDUSTRY CODE IS ASSAILED BY LEADERS HERE

Meeting Applauds Terms of 'Inadequate,' 'Peril.'

The NRA code of the lumber industry, considered one of the most vital pieces of New Deal machinery, was handled roughly by manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer alike yesterday when it was pushed out into the spotlight of a public hearing at the Drake hotel. Three hundred lumbermen from all over the country, who are attending conventions here, sat in at the hearing, which was part of the first annual meeting of the code authority.

Just before the hearing modifications were announced in the organization of the code authority to provide proper representation of the industry. Previously the thirty members of the ruling and price fixing body were all members of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, which compasses about 60 per cent of the industry.

Membership Is Increased.

The membership was increased to 44 to provide for six additional members representing small enterprises and other members from divisions of the industry not previously given representation. The national control committee was also enlarged from five to eight members.

At the hearing there were sharp exceptions taken to the view expressed during an interview by John D. Tennant of Longview, Wash., who was reelected as chairman of the code authority. He declared that the industry as a whole is well satisfied with the results of the code.

"The lumber code is still a going institution," Mr. Tennant said, in opening the hearing. "We believe it is much stronger than at any time since the President signed it last Aug. 19. The unrest concerning the code is based more on rumor tha on fact."

Chicagoan Launches Attack.

But the first man to accept the invitation to utter criticism and suggestions asserted the code, likening it to a ship, was tossing dangerously on storm swept waters, "because it took on too much cargo to start with." He was M. G. Truman of the Marsh & Truman Lumber company of Chicago. Mr. Truman said he spoke in behalf of specialty wholesalers.

"Drop the fixed discount and let us make our own discounts as in the past," he said. "That will giv the ship a chance to right itself."

He recommended production control in accordance with consumption and attacked fixed prices.

"Fixed prices promote bootlegging in the lumber business just as surely as prohibition fostered bootlegging in booze," Mr. Truman asserted.

Assailed as Inadequate.

Ralph J. Hines, president of the Edward Hines Lumber company, one of the largest in the country, came out against control of production and assailed the code as being inadequate A young man, he received hearty applause from the lumbermen.

"The lumber code troubles are largely caused by the multiplicity of government bureaus we have to go through," Mr. Hines said, "and the length of time it takes us to get a decision."

He declared "chiseling" is prevalent, and that little headway is being made against the practice.

"There is no real enforcement," he said. "The few examples that are pointed out to us are little ones, and 'way out somewhere where nobody cares about them. The small mill has had the big advantage ever since the code went in."

Assails Price Cutting.

J. M. Woollett, president and manager of the Aberdeen Lumber company of Chicago, was the second witness to find a parallel between the code regulation and the prohibition law.

"Overwhelming price cutting throughout the industry is corrupting men's moral integrity," Mr. Woollett told the code authority.

Mr. Woollett further declared that violations of code prices are now so numerous as to make government policing impracticable.

A retailer, Stanley Moore, whose family has been in the lumber business for 70 years, took the floor and after giving his name said angrily:

"I'm from Waterloo, Iowa—but I don't know where I'm at!"

He went on to assail the practice of manufacturers "selling right over my head" to consumers who receive the 8 per cent discount allowed wholesalers. Certain large consumers are permitted to come under the classification of wholesalers—including the government, he said.

"As long as this goes on, I don't see how the code can work," the retailer asserted. "The dictionary defines a wholesaler as one who sells to a retailer in the same business."

Bearing letters from 25 log buying mills making him their spokesman, R. E. McIntosh, president of the Seaboard Lumber company, of Seattle, Wash., joined in the attack. He declared his group was convinced of the "utter futility" of attempting to write a set of rules fair to all.

"If there were a group of supermen that could do it, we would need a hundred times as many of them to enforce it," Mr. McIntosh said.

C. D. Johnson's View.

Toward the end of the four-hour session, C. D. Johnson, a manufacturer of Portland, Ore., was asked his views on the code.

"When you are all done discussing the code, you have an industry that has dropped from 37 billion to 12 billion board feet a year," Mr. Johnson said dryly. "The question is, what the hell are you going to do about it."

The conventions of the lumber men, which start today, are those of the National Lumber Manufacturers association, and the American Forest Products Industries, the promotional organization of the trade.

'IT'S BIG LAUGH,' BLOOM SAYS OF JOHNSON'S NOTE

New Yorker "Discourteous," NRA Head Says.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—"It's a big laugh," was the way Representative Sol Bloom [Dem., N. Y.] described a letter today from Administrator Johnson of the NRA, claiming the New Yorker had been "discourteous" about NRA workers "smoking and idling."

Bloom, cracking back at the Blue Eagle chief, made public a letter he had written to Representative Beedy [Rep., Me.], enclosing a letter from Johnson. The letter read:

"I am informed that you entered the mail division of NRA Saturday [June 2] and proceeded, noisily, to reprimand various employés for permitting 'smoking and idling,' threatening to make a speech about it in congress to 'wipe out the whole of NRA.'"

Calls Action Discourteous.

"This administration has the strictest orders to show to all congressmen the courtesy and respect due their rank and responsibility, and you were shown both, but I regard your action in the matter as discourteous to me and unwaranted. It is not your business to discipline or reprimand an executive organization.

"If you have any complaint to make about employés here, the place to make it is to me, and my door is always open to congressmen."

Bloom, laughing about the matter, related that he went to the commerce department building looking for the tarif division.

"I was directed to a place on some floor and when I got there I ran into Carroll Beedy, who also had been trying to find the tarif division," Bloom said.

"There were about two dozen people sitting around doing nothing but smoking. We asked them where we were. They could not tell us.

Roper Sends Guide to Them.

"Finally I borrowed a telephone and called Secretary Roper, who sent a man to us to pilot us to the foreign tarif division."

Bloom said he had forgotten all about the incident until he received the Johnson letter, which he sent to Beedy with following letter:

"My dear colleague:

"Enclosed please find a letter that will make you laugh, with or without comments."

Asked whether he had or was going to answer Johnson's letter, Bloom laughed and replied:

"Of course not; it's absurd."

"I will say," he added, "Johnson ought to show the same courtesy to other people he says in his letter he has shown to congressmen."

DEFENSE GAINS CONTINUANCE OF ROGALSKI TRIAL

The trial of George Rogalski, 14 years old, for the abduction and murder of Dorette Zietlow, 2 years old, whom he left to die in an abandoned stable, was postponed until next Monday by Judge Francis Allegretti in the Criminal court yesterday.

Defense Attorney Thaddeus Toudor asked for the continuance and at the same time indicated that the defense of the boy would be that the baby met death through accident. Rogalski will first be tried on the kidnaping indictment and later on the murder charge.

"I wish your honor would visit the scene of this accident," the attorney said. "Insufficiency of the evidence will be the basis of my case."

Judge Allegretti said he would decide on this suggestion Monday.

Rogalski appeared unconcerned and smiled at the judge as he was brought before the bench. He looked around the courtroom for his father and mother and smiled again when he saw them.

NEW PRINCETON COURSE TO END GRAMMAR SINS

Princeton, N. J., June 11.—[Special.]—Dangling participles, split infinitives and other common errors in grammar to which many Princeton undergraduates have become addicted are scheduled for oblivion by virtue of a new compulsory course in English for freshmen to be started next year at the university.

This was announced today by Robert K. Root, dean of the faculty, who hopes to produce Princeton graduates proficient in narration, exposition, description, and argumentation.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

PHONE REFUND OF $20,700,000 TO START OCT. 1

Final Decree Entered by Federal Judges.

funds due will get checks in the mail beginning Oct. 1. All payments will be made before June 1, 1935, except where complications arise.

7. The company will send notices by mail to the last known addresses of former subscribers who have refunds due and they will need only to identify themselves properly to collect.

8. Where notices are returned undelivered by the postal service the company will use its best efforts to find the persons entitled to the money.

9. Where the claimant is dead the company will make payment to the heirs or the estate without special probate court action.

10. Out of town claimants will be handled specially.

11. No assignment of claims will be recognized prior to Jan. 1, 1935, and there are other provisions to protect the beneficiary against sharpers, assignments, garnishments, or any collection charges.

12. The telephone company is to stand all the expense of the distribution at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

13. The Illinois statute of limitations of three years for the recovery of overcharges from a public utility is to apply, making the last date for the filing of any claim in this case May 31, 1937.

The Hearing in Court.

At the hearing yesterday after Attorney Haight had presented his report Corporation Counsel Sexton said the city was satisfied with the provisions. Then Attorney Kenneth P. Burgess, general counsel for the telephone company, informed the three judges he wished to offer some testimony. U. P. Cleveland, vice president of the company in charge of the accounting department, was called to the stand.

Mr. Cleveland said the former estimate of $30,000,000 as the full amount of the refund was high. He said it embraced what the company expected to lose if the rates were reduced in 1923, but not what they would have to refund the subscribers. He said the overcharges and interest would amount to $20,700,000.

The company has copies of every collection ticket and there are 45,000,000 of them, each of which will have to be handled five times in making the refunds, Mr. Cleveland said.

400 Employés at Work.

He testified that the tickets weigh 115 tons and are stored in the Western Electric plant at Hawthorne, where the work of figuring out the refunds will be done. About 400 employés have been started on the work, he said, and it is expected the labor will involve the time of 2,000 clerks for about one year.

After Mr. Cleveland completed his statement Attorney Burgess said the telephone company now had no objections to the provisions of the final decree. Attorneys Robert H. Farrell and William C. Claussen, representing the attorney general and the Illinois commerce commission, also gave their approval.

Judge Evans then asked Corporation Counsel Sexton if he believed the city was adequately protected. Mr. Sexton replied that the city is receiving far more than it ever expected and the solution was most satisfactory.

Fee Matter Submitted.

Attorneys Goldstein and Haight submitted to the court the matter of fixing their fees and also the fees of Attorney Adcock, who is now a federal referee in bankruptcy. Judge Evans said the city need have no worries on the score of paying the attorneys, as the court would retain jurisdiction of the case for that purpose.

The two lawyers, in their report, said they with Attorney Adcock had put in more than 31,000 hours of work on the case. Their suggestion was that the court award them a percentage. They said that "in view of the large accruals of interest in the fund this can be accomplished without impairing any of the principal to be refunded, taking only a small portion of the accrued interest."

Judge Evans said the court would take their suggestion under advisement and would fix the fees later. Except for that feature, the long litigation was at an end.

The case grew out of an order by the Illinois commerce commission in 1923 calling for a 15 per cent reduction in rates on the four classes of coinbox service. The company obtained a federal injunctioin against enforcement of the order and won the case twice in the lower courts, only to have it reversed at last in the Supreme court.

Prisoner Gets 13 Spades, and It's Just for Fun

Des Moines, Ia., June 11.—(AP)—Earl Nelson, Negro, whose address is tier No. 9, county jail, received 13 spades while playing with three other prisoners, he reported to the Des Moines register today.

"Sometimes we play for a tenth of a cent a point, but we didn't happen to be then," he sighed.

COUNTRY IS SPANNED IN 14 HOURS BY BIG PLANE CARRYING 14

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—A big T. W. A.-Douglas transport plane landed at Newark airport at 9 a. m. today, having brought fourteen passengers from Los Angeles in 13 hours 50 minutes—a new record for that type of ship.

Jack Frye, vice president in charge of operations for the T. W. A.-Douglas, piloted the plane from Los Angeles to Kansas City. Only a month ago Frye completed a record flight between Los Angeles and Newark by bringing a mail plane across the continent in 11 hours and 31 minutes. He carried no passengers at that time.

L. G. Fritz of Kansas City was at the controls during the last lap of today's record flight.

The transport plane left Los Angeles yesterday at 3:10 p. m., Pacific standard time, and reached Newark at 8 a. m., eastern standard time. Three stops were made—at Albuquerque, Kansas City, and Columbus. The ship spent less than twelve hours in the air. Although the elapsed time was 13 hours 50 minutes, the actual flying time was only 11 hours 58 minutes.

CRIMINAL COURT JUDGES TO PICK THEIR OWN CHIEF

CRIMINAL COURT.

Theron Warren, attempted rape, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Anthony Ross, larceny, 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

The Criminal court judges, at their regular weekly meeting, adopted the rule yesterday that only judges regularly assigned to that court for a full year period should have a voice in the election of the chief justice of the court.

The new rule calls for the election of the new chief justice at a meeting to be held on or before July 10. The assignment of judges to the Criminal court for the next year will be made next Friday by the executive committees of the Superior and Circuit courts.

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan yesterday announced that he will be able to keep the criminal courts going at top speed throughout July. However, he said, he needs volunteers for the month of August, and he expects to hear from several judges this week. So far Judge Walter La Buy is the only judge who has volunteered for summer service.

Yesterday, while playing ping-pong with guests in his home, he lost his footing, fell, and broke his leg.

Tells Escape from Death; See Verdict Today.

John J. French, the ride victim who lived to tell the story, took the witness stand in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court yesterday and pointed out the two men who left him for dead on the shore of the Little Calumet river last Jan. 6.

He identified Edwin J. Cusack, a suspended policeman, and James McCarthy as his assailants. McCarthy is a brother of George McCarthy, who is being tried before Judge Sullivan with Cusack, French, and two others on an indictment charging hi-jacking of an interstate shipment.

Tells Story of Ride.

French turned government witness and testified against the others in the hi-jacking case. That was the reason, he said, why he was taken for a ride. He hobbled to the witness stand on crutches yesterday. His right leg had to be amputated below the knee because of one of the wounds he received at the time he was left to die.

"I was picked up in a poolroom at 47th and Federal streets by Cusack and James McCarthy," he related under questioning by Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd C. Moody. "McCarthy owed me some money and he said we would drive out to Harvey, where he would get it and pay me.

"We stopped at 145th street and Ashland avenue in Harvey and all got out of the car. I walked down to the bank of the river with Cusack, who said he was looking for some one. We went back to the car, and while McCarthy talked to me Cusack hit me from behind with a blunt instrument.

Tells of Gun Attack.

"They rolled me down the bank to the river. I looked up and saw Cusack standing there with a gun in his hand. McCarthy said: 'Give it to him.' Cusack stood on the bank and fired six shots at me.

"I stood up, but two of the bullets hit me in the arm. Then my right leg was struck and I fell into the the water. I laid there, with just my nose out, for what seemed to be hours. They watched me for a while and finally drove away."

French said he managed to stagger to a nearby highway where a woman motorist stopped to aid him just as two county highway police drove up.

2 Shot as 'Unloaded' Gun Goes Off in Girl's Hand

A pistol that "wasn't loaded" went off last night in the hand of Miss Violet Wojieszek, 19 years old, 1730 West 19th street, while she was attending a party in the home of Casmir Leonard, 21 years old, at 1705 West 19th street. The bullet pierced the girl's hand and then lodged in Leonard's leg. Both were taken to the hospital.

MRS. HARRIMAN TAKES STAND TO ASSIST HUSBAND

Banker Denies Share in Illegal Moves.

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—Despite an ailing heart, Mrs. Joseph W. Harriman took the witness stand today in an effort to save her husband from conviction for falsifying books of the defunct Harriman National bank.

Mrs. Harriman, whose hair is white, spoke in gentle voice during the brief period she was on the stand. She looked pale and wan, but her eyes were clear and she showed an earnestness to help the case of her husband, who had just quit the witness chair after a four day ordeal.

Money to Buy Bank Stock.

Mrs. Harriman testified that $200,000 had been borrowed from the Harriman bank in her name, but that she saw none of the money. It was used, she said, to "help the bank buy bank stock for my husband's account." She asserted her husband handled all her business affairs.

During his four days on the witness stand Mr. Harriman had testified that he left detailed operations, such as those involved in the indictment, to his vice presidents, particularly to Albert M. Austin, executive vice president, who was indicted with him.

Says Aid Handled Campaign.

He testified that he was absorbed entirely in entrenching the bank among its depositors by persuading them to buy Harriman bank stock. At the same time, he said, he directed Mr. Austin to conduct a "stabilization campaign" to make the bank stock investment attractive by taking off the market all the stock offered. It was in this stabilization campaign that the admitted irregularities occurred.

The New York clearing house took charge of the Harriman bank in July 1932, nine months before it was closed according to testimony by former Municipal Court Justice John R. Davies

Soviet Flyers Complete Third "Air Train" Flight

BATISK, North Caucasus, U. S. S. R., June 11.—(AP)—Soviet flyers completed their third successful long flight with an "air train" today with the landing here of a plane towing two gliders. The trip from Moscow, a distance of 807 miles, was made in six hours flying time, with one stop on account of weather conditions. Soviet aviation officials look upon towed gliders as a practical means of long distance freight hauling.

WEST PARK BOARD OFFICIALS FACING CONTEMPT TERMS

Harry Josephs, president of the west parks board, and nine park commissioners must either go to jail for six months for contempt of court, or rehire Bernard Burgerson, a concrete construction foreman, who was discharged in March of 1933.

That ruling was made yesterday by the Appellate court, upholding the decision of Superior Judge Charles A. Williams, made a year ago.

Burgerson, who had been in the employ of the west parks since 1905, was first laid off in 1932. He secured a writ of mandamus compelling the commissioners to reinstate him and pay him $4,000 in back salary.

In March of 1933 he was laid off again, the commissioners pleading that it was in the interests of economy. Again Burgerson went to law, and Judge Williams held that the commissioners were in contempt of court. They appealed and the Appellate court decision was written by Judge John M. O'Connor.

Attorneys for the park board did not indicate whether they would carry the case to the state Supreme court.

RIOT CALL ENDS CRASH DISPUTE; POLICE MAULED

An argument between Albert H. Klinger, a truck driver living at 5600 Lowe avenue, and Edward Van Broeck, a motorist, 613 West 48th place, became so violent last night that an entire neighborhood became involved and a police riot call was necessary to quell the disturbance.

No one was hurt when the truck crushed a fender on Van Broeck's car in front of the Lowe avenue address, but three Englewood policemen were severely battered in the riotous aftermath.

The argument began when Klinger, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 217 pounds, allegedly left the accident scene and drove his truck into an alley back of his home. Van Broeck called Policeman William Steffen and Anthony Durkin and followed. Klinger, it is charged, hit Steffen on the chin and knocked him down, then hit Durkin in the eye with the same result.

Some of the neighbors called for more policemen, while others leaped into the fray. One more policeman, Fred Johnson, was put out of service before 30 officers cleared the alley and arrested Klinger.

"Make Hair Grow while the sun shines"

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is morerapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the specialist in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you.

The glamorous BARBARA STANWYCK, starring in Warner Bros. forthcoming picture, "THE LOST LADY"

asks Barbara Stanwyck

[OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1933]

Dear Miss Stanwyck:—

The fact that Old Gold is easy on the throat is important to every smoker . . . man or woman. It means that one may smoke Old Golds from sun-up to sundown, without throat discomfort.

But Old Gold's smoothness has an additional appeal to women. The absence of artificial flavoring in Old Gold not only makes it a smoother smoke . . . . but a cleaner smoke . . . less apt to stain the teeth or to leave objectionable odor in the clothes or on the breath.

We do not say that Old Gold is the only good cigarette for the fastidious woman smoker. But we do say there is no purer or finer cigarette made.

Sincerely,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—The net of it is this, Miss Stanwyck: No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

EXPECT 1,500,000 MARK TO GO AS FAIR MARCHES ON

Cavalcade of 500 Autos Brings Ford Throng.

Attendance at A Century of Progress continued its forward progress yesterday when the number of visitors at the Fair surpassed that of the preceding Mondays since the opening of the new Fair. At midnight yesterday the turnstiles had recorded the entrance of 40,670 persons to the grounds up to that hour. Rain during the evening materially reduced the expected attendance. The total attendance last Monday was 26,138, and for the preceding Monday, 24,627. The attendance on Monday a year ago, at the 1933 Fair, was 75,682.

The official attendance for Sunday was 108,688, bringing the total since the opening of the Fair to 1,420,089. Fair officials believe that the million and one-half mark will be passed today. Last year this mark was not reached until June 18.

Illinois Leads Attendance.

While the attendance on week days this year has not equaled that of the same days last year in many cases, the Saturday and Sunday attendance this year has been greater than last year.

According to the official attendance register at the Sears-Roebuck building approximately 80 per cent of the visitors to the Fair since the opening on May 26 are residents of Chicago and Illinois.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, declared that the major problem of the Exposition was to attempt to bring the visitors into the grounds in an even flow.

"Last year we experienced the difficulty of handling large crowds on week-ends towards the end of the Fair," he said. "This was due probably to the fact that the Chicagoans wait until Saturday and Sunday to visit the grounds."

Maj. Lohr said that the Exposition officials expected the midweek attendance to rise after June 20, when the schools have closed for the summer and the vacation period is on in full swing and the expected large out of town attendance begins.

Cavalcade of 500 Cars.

A cavalcade of approximately 500 automobiles, bearing 2,500 dealers of the Dearborn branch of the Ford Motor company and their guests, arrived from Dearborn, Mich., yesterday evening, and will be guests of the Ford Motor company at the Fair today. The cavalcade, escorted by Michigan and Indiana state police and a detail of South park motorcycle police, drove up Michigan boulevard to Jackson boulevard and thence to State street and the Palmer house.

Members of the party stayed at the hotel during the night and will attend the Fair in a group today. They will spend the morning at the Ford exhibit on the grounds and will be addressed at noon by W. C. Cowling, general sales manager of the company. Afterward they will tour the Fair as their whims direct. Members of the party are from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Gen. Haller a Fêted Guest.

Gen. Joseph Haller, retired Polish war hero, was received as a guest of honor at A Century of Progress yesterday. An informal reception was tendered him by Fair and city officials. He was received at the 14th street gate by an artillery detachment from Camp F. D. Roosevelt on the grounds and was conducted through an army inspection by Col. Morris Keck and Capt. James D. Brown.

After his inspection of the troops, Gen. Haller was taken for a tour of the grounds and then attended a luncheon in his honor in the Trustees' lounge in the Administration building. Attending the reception were President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, and representatives of a number of Polish societies in Chicago.

Following the luncheon Gen. Haller returned to his suite at the Drake hotel. He said that he would return to the Fair today to visit the Hall of Science at his leisure.

French Sea Flyers Coming.

Capt. Paul Codos and Lieut. Maurice Rossi, French aviators, who recently flew from Paris to New York in an attempted nonstop flight to California, will fly to Chicago to visit A Century of Progress Friday, it was announced yesterday.

The two air aces will arrive at the Municipal airport on Thursday evening, where they will be met by a delegation headed by Rene Weiller, French consul general in Chicago.

On Friday afternoon they will fly over Chicago between 1 and 2 p. m., and at 2:30 p. m. will be received at the 14th street gate and will be escorted to the Court of Honor, where they will be greeted by President Rufus C. Dawes and other Fair officials.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Flag day will be observed on Thursday by the Daughters of the American Revolution in the Colonial village. Ceremonies will begin at 11 a. m., when Admiral W. T. Cluverius will speak. A painting of the birthplace of Betsey Ross, showing Gen. Washington and Robert Morris viewing the first flag, will be on exhibition.

Fourteen free shows are given daily in the theater of the Hall of Photography. The first show is at 1 p. m., and they are given at intervals until 10 p. m.

The largest tuba in the world is used in the daily concerts of Palmer Clark and his 30 piece orchestra on Swift bridge. The bell of the instrument is 4 feet in diameter.

All of the major exhibitors, including Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, General Electric, and other industrial concerns, report that attendance at their buildings has been in excess of that expected.

A marriage license was issued yesterday at the county clerk's office to Joseph Sophie and Marie De Maeschalck of the Belgian village. They will be married in a public ceremony Saturday afternoon on the public square of the village.

A party of about 6,000 persons from the twin cities of St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, Mich., will visit the Fair next Sunday. The excursion is sponsored by a hosiery mill of St. Joseph, with the cooperation of the chamber of commerce, the merchants' organization and other groups.

A tour sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Pekin, Ill., will bring 800 persons in a party to Chicago on Friday morning to visit A Century of Progress. The group will bring along two bands and will be met at the railroad station by the Englewood Kiwanis Club band, which will lead the parade in the grounds to the Court of States, where a program will be held.

Cartoonist Orr to Be Honor Guest of Paul Reveres

Carey Orr, TRIBUNE cartoonist, will be guest of honor and speaker at a dinner sponsored by the Paul Reveres, patriotic organization, to be held Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the main dining room of the Hamilton club. Mr. Orr will illustrate his talk with his art.

VILLAGE OWNERS AND FAIR CHIEFS END DIFFERENCES

At a meeting of foreign village owners and Fair officials yesterday minor differences as to methods of ballyhoo and the kind of merchandise to be sold in the Fair villages were ironed out. According to Nathaniel A. Owings, in charge of Fair concessions, the officials agreed to give the village owners more latitude in placing signs advertising the respective villages.

Kinds of merchandise sold in shops in the villages last year was a topic that was the subject of much dispute. The general rule was that merchandise sold on individual stands about the grounds could not be sold in the villages. At the meeting yesterday it was agreed that merchandise peculiar to the nation represented by the village may be sold in that village.

John McMahon, manager of the Streets of Paris and chairman of the village owners' committee, reported that the fifteen villages on the grounds reported increased business during the last week.

CASHIER ROBBED IN STATION.

Two armed Negroes held up William Frey, 7628 Colfax avenue, a Pullman company cashier, in the Grand Central station yesterday and robbed him of $1,000.

FAIR PUTS OWN CONCESSION MEN UNDER NRA CODE

Fair officials yesterday ordered that the NRA code conditions be extended to embrace all employes of concessions operated by the Fair. The code was put into effect last year for almost all employés when the Fair police, guides, and office employés were placed on a forty hour week.

Capt. M. B. Daniels, in charge of concessions operated by the Fair, who issued the order yesterday, said that the concession employés may come within the amusement parks' code, which will allow workers to be employed fifty-four hours a week and a six day week. The employés of the concessions will work these hours and if it is decided later that they do not come within this code they will be allowed time at the rate of a forty hour week, he said.

Because of the extension of the code to the concession employés, Capt. Daniels revealed that the Wings of a Century pageant hired nineteen additional men at a pay roll increase of $400 a week.

Other concessions operated by the Fair are the Sky Ride, Fort Dearborn, Lama Temple, and the Enchanted Island. Capt. Daniels said that the question of private concessionnaires complying with the code is up to individual concessionnaires and the National Recovery administration.

Dr. Frederick W. Raymond to Head Defiance College

Defiance, O., June 11.—(AP)—Two years without a president ended for Defiance college today when the board of directors elected Dr. Frederick Wingate Raymond, 59, of Boston and Chicago, to the presidency. Dr. Raymond long has been prominent in Congregational church circles, a writer of religious literature and leader in young people's work.

HALL OF RELIGION DISPLAYS FAMED ART OF ANTIQUITY

Treasures Depict Ancient History; Opens Today.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Max Baer and Primo Carnera, modern heavyweight prize fighters, are mere pikers when compared with their Minoan fisticuff ancestors 3,500 years ago. It any one doubts this comparison he need only go to the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress and study the figures of ancient embattled athletes which were wrought by some mysterious craftsman on a solid gold rhyton, or vase.

Also, one may see on the same rhyton figures in repousse of another sport which out-thrills even collegiate football of the good old flying-tackle days. The ancient Minoan crowds, no doubt, liked flying action of human athletes—if that ancient artist in gold really depicted what he saw. There on the vase, beaten through sheets of solid gold by the uncanny craftsman, are figures of lithe, sinewy bull jumpers hurtling their bodies over charging beasts.

Unsurpassed Antique Art.

Art from ancient Egypt and Mesopotamian countries of the same era was dull, stupid and static, but this artificer of Crete—a slave, perhaps, of his king in whose tomb on an eastern Mediterranean island the pieces displayed were only recently discovered—was able to depict plastic action unsurpassed in antiquity.

Just why these bull jumpers and ancient pugilists have such prominence in the hall of religion was explained by Fahim Kouchakji, owner of the collection—including the famous Chalice of Antioch, exhibited in the north hall of the religious building. Mr. Kouchakji said the sports depicted had some unknown religious significance. This, he said, is inferred from the fact that they were buried in a tomb with an ancient Minoan king. It also was pointed out that the two Minoan pieces were executed by the Cretan artist at least two centuries before Joshua and the Israelites entered the Holy land.

Those ancient pugilists, Mr. Kouchakji said, fought to a standstill. Their heads were protected by stout leather helmets and their fists bound with hard leather thongs. Three minute rounds, such as Mr. Baer and Mr. Carnera will fight would have been far too unexacting for those religious pugilists of ancient days, and a tap on the shoulder by a referee would not be sufficient in Minoan bouts to "break a clinch." Referees in those early Cretan fights carried a whip or staff either to be used in clinches or to put more snap into some stalling "Gorilla" Jones of ancient Crete.

Ancient Peace Pact Depicted.

The gold cup, or second Minoan piece, depicts an ancient peace pact, presumably made between disgruntled farmers and the state. On the one side are the appeased farmers armed with flails and pitchforks. On the other is the representative of the king backed by a well trained army. Between the two groups is the sacrificial fire above which daggers are held aloft at arm's length. The crisis between this ancient holiday association and the state must have been acute, Mr. Kouchakji assumed, otherwise its settlement would not have been sealed in the symbolism of a golden chalice.

Learned archeological journals have praised the Kouchakji collection while many students of Mycenaean and Cretan art have written that the chalice and rhyton are superior to the famous Vaphio cups in a museum at Athens.

Formally Open Hall Today.

The hall of religion will be opened with formal ceremonies today at 3 o'clock. All the major religions of the country are represented in the 1934 hall, and this afternoon the invocations of dignitaries of 25 faiths will be made over the presentation of what leaders say is the most costly collection of religious art ever assembled.

A feature of the 1934 hall is the display of a $3,000,000 collection of Catholic art from the galleries of Columbia college, Dubuque, Ia.

POCKETS PICKED 3D TIME, PRISON GUARD PROTESTS

Fred Van Horn, a guard at the Statesville penitentiary, is getting tired of having his pockets picked by inmates at the institution. He entered the office of Warden Frank Whipp yesterday and said:

"Well, it's happened again. On Feb. 28 I lost $18 cash by getting my pockets picked while on duty. On March 26 I lost a gold watch. And today they got $14 cash. What sort of a place is this, anyway?"

Warden Whipp explained he was unable to refuse to take in prisoners who didn't have a good moral character, but added he might reason with the boys and ask them to quit stealing from guards.

FIND SEVEN DEAD IN PLANE WRECK ON A MOUNTAIN

it they found several bottles of picric acid, an explosive, and several bundles of literature on high explosives, government data on the subject, and navy specifications for "explosive D."

Coroner V. G. Burke said the bottles were samples, and with them was literature of a chemical company in Syracuse. A thorough investigation of the explosive was promised before any exact conclusions were drawn as to the cause of the crash.

Picric acid long has been known as an explosive, but as an unreliable one. Its action and power often are unpredictable. When heated it is highly unstable, and when combined with other substances, particularly iron, it is a violent explosive. It belongs to the same chemical group as tri-nitro-toluol, or "T. N. T."

Clock Points to 8:05.

Among the shattered instruments they discovered the face of the pilot's clock, with the pointers at 8:05 o'clock. Officials of the air line said that the chronometers were all set on eastern standard time.

As they reconstructed the fatal flight, Holbrook, finding bad weather ahead shortly after passing through Newburgh, whence he had radioed "Everything O. K.," about 35 minutes after leaving Newark, had turned eastward to avoid the higher mountains and storms ahead.

But clouds had settled down over the whole region. Holbrook, attempting to stay beneath them, found his plane being squeezed between the steadily rising hills and the dark blanket above.

Everywhere about him the hills stretched up to between 2,500 and 3,000 feet and their tops were lost in cloud. There was no time for the radio, so hazardous was the flying. Under ordinary conditions pilots report their position every twenty minutes. Thirty minutes after his last report Holbrook flew his plane into the mountainside, according to the stopped clock.

200 Feet Too Low.

"Two hundred feet higher and they would have been safe," said one of the discoverers as he gazed at the scattered wreckage. But the top of Mongaup mountain is 2,800 feet high and, as it was, officials believed Holbrook was flying blind in the steadily increasing mist.

The first intimation that the plane had reached the vicinity of Mongaup came early today in a report to the state police that it had been sighted near Debruce, about five miles from the mountain. W. H. Hallock and Lee Lord, private pilots of Wurtzboro, Sullivan county, volunteers in the hunt, undertook an air search to check these reports.

Soon after 11 o'clock Hallock sighted a brown scar in the dark green of the mountainside. He dropped down as close as possible and circled. Sure that he had found the plane, he flew to Livingston Manor, about twelve miles south, landed, and called the state police at Debruce and then Earl Ward, American Air Lines manager at Newark.

Fleet of 15 Searching.

Since early morning a fleet of 15 machines, including two from the navy's aircraft carrier Saratoga, had been systematically searching a region west of the Hudson nearly 100 miles square. Ward notified naval authorities by radio, jumped into a plane with Robert Hazen of the department of commerce and started at once, planning to land at Liberty.

Two of those on board were to have been married soon. Miss Huckeby had told friends that she was making her last flight as stewardess and had made plans for her wedding. Mr. Pinsley also was engaged to be married soon. The three other passengers were married and had families awaiting them in Buffalo.

Climb for Hours.

It was after 3 p. m. when the first searching party, guided by Hallock, succeeded in making its way to the scene of the wreck. For hours they climbed through a thick tangle of underbrush, across gullies and streams up the mountainside before they reached the scorched and broken tree tops that marked the plane's path.

Bits of bright red fabric, pieces of the metal wing it had enclosed, and parts of airplane fittings were scattered for more than 100 feet.

PILOT'S WIFE ASKS BODY.

Mrs. Clyde Holbrook, wife of Clyde Holbrook, pilot of the ill-fated ship, remained in their home at 14 North Poplar avenue, LaGrange, after directing that her husband's body be brought to Chicago.

Paul Grieshaber, fiance of Ada E. Huckeby, stewardess of the plane, from his home at 5741 South Loomis street, stated he might fly to the scene of the accident. Grieshaber, a clerk for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, said that he and Miss Huckeby had planned to wed in the autumn.

Parents of H. P. Pinsley, an orchestra booking agent, were heartbroken in their home at 4221 West Congress street. Pinsley's father, Samuel Pinsky, said his son was not on his way to Chicago, as reported earlier, but was flying from New York to Buffalo. W. H. Steen, head of the Chicago office of the Music Corporation of Chicago, of which Pinsley was an official, said his friend had been bound for Buffalo to visit Mary Brian, motion picture star, who was making a personal appearance in a Buffalo theater. Steen denied that Pinsley was engaged to Leah Ray.

PILOT ONCE GIVEN MEMORIAL ON FALSE WAR DEATH REPORT

Buffalo, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence H. Watt recalled today that 18 years ago a memorial service was held for Clyde Holbrook, killed in the crash of his airplane in the Catskill foothills, after he had been reported killed while fighting over the German lines in France.

Mrs. Watt, in world war days lived in Youngstown, Alberta, Canada. Holbrook, from Hanna, Alberta, a nearby town, was reported by the Canadian government to have been shot down in flames, she said, and on June 13, 1916, a memorial service was held in Youngstown.

But Holbrook had managed to land his plane when forced down in battle, and although wounded, later escaped from a German prison camp.

PLANE PLUNGES INTO ARGENTINE LAKE; 5 KILLED

JUNIN, Argentina, June 11.—(AP)—Five persons, including four from the United States, were killed today when a Pan-American-Grace airways plane, flying from Buenos Aires to Santiago, Chile, plunged into Mar Chiquita, a small lake near here. Five other passengers of the tri-motored craft were injured.

The dead are: Charles F. Lindenberg, Los Angeles, pilot; Samuel B. Eisenmann, 7. of Teaneck, N. J., co-pilot; James Ralley, Irene, Tex., radio operator; H. Greig Veeder; American engineer living at Buenos Aires; and Senora Maria Milla Martinez, Santiago, Chile.

For four hours the survivors clung to the wings of the plane before they were rescued by a launch laboriously dragged to the obscure lake from this city. The plane, two hours out of Buenos Aires, was fighting its way through fog and rain squalls.

Farmers on the shore of the little lake said they heard an explosion overhead.

DOCTORS URGED TO FIGHT LEGION HOSPITAL PLAN

Political Bloc Called Way to Beat Project.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 11.—[Special.]—The 98,041 members of the American Medical association were urged today to enter politics actively and, by their votes and influence, protect their government, "already burdened with indigency rampant in every direction," against further huge expenditures for the American Legion's hospitalization program.

The move to form a "physicians' bloc" in American politics was fathered by Dr. Edward H. Cary of Dallas, past president of the association. He made the recommendation in the official report of the committee on legislative activity, delivered before the house of delegates, legislative assembly of organized medicine, at the association's annual convention which opened here today. The report is subject to official acceptance tomorrow.

Long a Sore Point.

The veterans' bureau policy of furnishing free medical care to veterans, regardless of their ability to pay for it, long has been a sore point with the medical profession, but today's suggestion of direct political action was the most radical step yet advocated in opposition to it.

The association has opposed furnishing aid to war veterans of means on the double grounds that it is unjust to private physicians and community hospitals, and that it tends to pauperize the veterans themselves.

Dr. Gray pointed out that in the past the association had called the attention of congress to the abuse of the hospitalization privilege by the financially independent veteran, who received transportation to the hospital and $85 a month while he was there. The latter payment, the report remarked rather acidly, "rendered it very difficult for the doctor to cure him."

Goes Beyond Others.

The veterans' bill, as passed in February by congress over President Roosevelt's veto, goes beyond any previous legislation in that it provides treatment free for nonservice connected disabilities. The report commented favorably on the elimination of cash payments to veterans while in the hospital, and to the provision requiring an oath of inability to pay for private treatment on the part of the veteran.

The A. M. A. report commends leaders of the American Legion who have opposed excessive governmental expenditures for hospitalization of veterans suffering from non-service connected disabilities, and able to pay for private treatment. It also has a kind word for the plan of the Illinois department of the Legion, under which district, county and post surgeons constitute a medical commission to pass on claims for hospitalization.

"For the present," the report says of the administration of the new law, "there has been no effort to bring about increased hospital facilities and without an increase in such facilities, the evil effect upon the profession will lessen, because many of these hospitals will be diverted into domiciliary homes.

Fears Serious Difficulties.

"On the other hand, if the oath required by law, wherein the veteran swears his inability to defray necessary expenses, is treated lightly, we will be confronted with a serious situation. We should now help to create a situation of merited scorn for the veteran who is willing to cheat and accept gratuities from his government, already overburdened with indigency rampant in every direction.

"We are convinced that if medical men throughout the country would become interested in the candidacy of those who, regardless of party, hold views in harmony with our profession, it would not be long until we would have in congress a very positive influence."

Delay on Health Insurance.

The association held its fire, for a day at least, on another question of medical practice which threatens to split the ranks of organized medicine. This was the question of health insurance.

On Sunday the board of regents of the American College of Surgeons, which ranks second only to the A. M. A. in point of membership and age among American medical organizations, announced its sponsorship of a prepayment plan for health insurance to provide families of moderate income with medical care, under strict supervision by the medical profession.

Today in an executive session of the house of delegates, Dr. Charles J. Whelan of Chicago brought forward a drastically worded resolution attacking the action by the college regents. Consideration of the matter was deferred until tomorrow.

The stand of the medical association on the matter was made plain in several of the reports presented today, however. Dr. Dean Lewis of Baltimore, outgoing president of the association, loosed a veiled thrust with the declaration that "Cheap medicine is often the most expensive," and the board of trustees in their report of the activities of the association's bureau of medical economics, pointed out what they consider a number of defects in health insurance proposals.

Take Slap at Tugwell.

While the report of the board of trustees was emphatic in crying the need of amendments to strengthen the federal food and drug act, it recognized the attempt of Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell of the brain trust to set up the secretary of agriculture as prosecutor, judge, and executioner of violators of the act as the principal reason for failure of the original Tugwell bill.

RIVALRY BLAMED FOR BOMBING.

WOMAN'S SEMINARY TO GIVE DEGREE TO PRESIDENT'S MOTHER

Bethlehem, Pa., June 11.—(AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, will receive an honorary degree from the Moravian seminary and college for women tomorrow.

She will be named doctor of letters at the 191st commencement at which 21 young women will be graduated.

The wife of the President will accompany Mrs. Roosevelt to Bethlehem. Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan, will be the commencement speaker.

CHARGE 7 MORE WITH FRAUD IN APRIL PRIMARY

Seven election officials who served as judges and clerks at the April primary election were placed under bond of $2,500 each by Judge J. G. Van Keuren in the County court yesterday after John F. Cashen Jr., special prosecutor of vote fraud cases, filed complaints charging them with contempt of court.

Five of the men were officials in the 56th precinct of the 27th ward. They are George Briggs, 623 West Madison street, Republican judge; Fred Brown, 20 South Canal street, Democratic judge; Robert I. Burns, 15 North Des Plaines street, Democratic judge; Joseph O. Murray, 608 West Madison street, Democratic clerk, and George F. Boyd, 610 West Madison street, a clerk.

The other two men under arrest who worked in the 18th precinct of the 26th ward, are Henry J. Fedele, 710 West Grand avenue, Republican judge, and A. J. Berquist, 509 North Union avenue, Republican clerk.

The men are charged with making a false canvass of votes, changing and erasing on the tally sheet during the calling of votes, allowing electioneering in the polling place, permitting unqualified persons to handle ballots and allowing persons to vote illegally.

The conviction of three other election officials found guilty on charges of contempt of court and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail was upheld yesterday in a ruling handed down by the Appellate court. The three are Frank Kotwas, John Basner, and Frank J. Nies, workers in the first precinct of the 13th ward in the Nov. 8, 1932, election for municipal judges.

Two newly elected judges of the Superior court, Judge John Charles Lewe and Judge David M. Brothers, were inducted into office yesterday.

Judge Brothers, father of Judge William V. Brothers of the Circuit court, had the oath of office administered by Daniel A. Carey, clerk of the election department.

At the ceremonies for Judge Lewe the Hon. Phillip J. Finnegan, chief justice of the Criminal court, presided, and an address was given by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Cornelius J. Harrington was also sworn in as judge to fill a vacancy on the Circuit court bench. Six judges, elected to full terms in the Superior court, will not take office until the first Monday in December.

12 PLEAD GUILTY TO VIOLATIONS OF SMALL LOAN ACT

State's Attorney Courtney won a victory in his drive against loan sharks yesterday when twelve men pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the small loan act and were fined $100 and $50 costs by Judge Walter P. Steffen in Criminal court.

The defendants also surrendered notes totaling $50,000 representing wage assignments. These were turned over to Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney, who explained the principal of the notes had been paid, but the high and illegal interest charged kept the borrowers in debt.

The state scored its victory despite an adverse ruling several months ago when books and records of the companies involved were ordered returned.

Those fined yesterday were: Albert B. Way and James Miller, of Neal & Co., 400 South State street; Frederick Mattko and Earl Gronert, of Gardner & Co., 180 West Adams street; Herman Hoeflech and William Cutcliffe, of Walker & Co., 540 Old Colony building; Harry G. Leonard and Raymond Ashbacher, of Leonard & Co., 111 West Jackson boulevard; Norman F. Hoshell and F. Jasper, of Daniels & Co., 31 West Van Buren street; George Payne and Fergus Wallen, of the Burnside Finance company, 9255 Cottage Grove avenue.

They Taste Better!

We like telling you that Luckies are made of only clean center leaves. For the clean center leaves are the mildest leaves—they cost more—they taste better. And we're proud of the fact that these choice tobaccos receive the benefit of Lucky Strike's famous process—"It's toasted" for throat protection. But here's a point that's just as impressive: Luckies are round, firm, fully packed with long golden strands of fine tobacco—no loose ends. That's why Luckies "keep in condition"—why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out. Truly, Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat.

3 JAP WARSHIPS GO TO NANKING IN CONSUL MYSTERY

Official Missing 3 Days; Situation Serious.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 12.—[Tuesday.]—Two Japanese cruisers and one destroyer sped toward Nanking today and the disappearance of the Japanese vice consul, Eimei Kuramoto, from the Chinese capital last Friday night took on a more serious aspect. The destroyer Ashi left Shanghai bound for Nanking yesterday morning and the light cruiser Tsushima followed late last night.

Meanwhile the cruiser Idzumo, flagship of the Japanese China squadron, which had been at Hankow, also was ordered to Nanking. Since one Japanese destroyer already is anchored at Nanking the Japanese will have four warcraft on the water front there tomorrow.

Jap Officials Meet.

As a result of instructions received from Tokio high Japanese army and navy officials met here yesterday. The conference included Capt. T. Sato of the naval office, Lieut. Gen. Yoshimichi Suzuki of the war office, Rear Admiral Teyiro Sugisaka, and legation officials. Immediately following the conference authorization was given Yakichiro Suma, the Japanese consul general at Nanking, to deal with Chinese officialdom as he thought best regarding the incident.

The Japanese government regards the incident as most serious, according to Tokio reports published here last night.

"When a protest is lodged it will be couched in strong terms demanding assurances of better protection for Japanese nationals in China in accordance with international law and recognized treaties," it was stated.

Chinese Resent Jap Action.

Chinese authorities have searched Nanking and its environs thoroughly since Kuramoto's disappearance, but have found no trace of the vice consul. It was announced that a reward of $5,000 would be given for information of his whereabouts, "dead or alive."

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's paper, Chen Pao, declared that Chinese authorities are doing their best to find the missing Japanese official. It said demands of Japanese residents for drastic action and the dispatching of war craft to Nanking are uncalled for.

The Chinese leader's paper also disputed the Japanese denial of the suicide theory on the grounds that the body had not been found. Following evidence of Japanese dissatisfaction with China's efforts to find the missing official Chiang's paper yesterday however urged the Nanking government adopt a frank and earnest policy.

"If Kuramoto was kidnaped or killed the government should admit and not conceal it," the paper said. "Since China is a weak country, and the incident occurred in the national capital, it creates a difficult situation. Hence China must be frank and take all possible steps to avoid serious complications."

Japanese Excited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 12 [Tuesday].—The disappearance of the Japanese vice consul, Eimei Kuramoto, from the Nanking consulate last Friday night assumed major proportions today, according to the Japanese press. Official quarters, however, continued reticent and a spokesman reiterated that the government has not protested, and is merely watching developments.

HITLER'S FRIEND SAILS TO ATTEND FETE AT HARVARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 11.—By hopping aboard a freight plane at Cologne for Cherbourg, France, to catch the liner Europa, Ernst F. Hanfstaengl, head of the Nazi foreign press department today succeeded in reaching the ship which will take him to the United States in time for him to participate in the twenty-fifth reunion of his class at Harvard.

When Hanfstaengl, an intimate friend of Chancellor Hitler, made no effort yesterday to use the last of the customary transportation facilities for reaching the Europa before she sailed, it was indicated he would not go to America.

A controversy arose last spring following an announcement that he had been invited to act as aid to the alumni marshal at the reunion of the class of 1909. It was announced later that he had declined the honor.

Lessons in Jewish Religion Dropped in German Schools

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STUTTGART, Germany, June 11.—Jewish religious instruction for Jewish pupils has been stricken from the curriculum in Wuerttemberg schools. In the past, school children were given lessons either in the Protestant, Catholic, or Jewish religion. Now Jewish children must take private lessons if their parents want them to study their religion.

Hitler to Train German Teachers in Nazi Camps

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 11.—German school teachers will spend part of their vacations in Nazi encampments, it was announced today by Minister of Culture Bernhard Rust. The official purpose, according to Rust, will be "national, political, scientific, and bodily schooling."

The question of remodeling schools according to Nazi ideas has been discussed now for more than a year in the ministry, and a decision has been reached that before everything else means must be found to create a Nazi corps of teachers. The minister of culture consequently considers that the "national political aspect of the annual encompments will remain the primary consideration."

Trial Period for Teachers.

Rust also asserted that to be a leader not only in school, but in life, it is necessary to undergo constantly a recurring trial of one's whole personality and constant application of one's whole energy.

"Presence in encampments will provide such a trial period for the teacher," he said.

In order to make the plan feasible the summer vacation has been extended to two months and other vacations in the year shortened proportionately.

Meanwhile, Minister of Labor Franz Seldte, leader of the Steel Helmet war veterans' organization and thorn No. 1 in the flesh of radical Nazis has discovered that a younger generation is taking the campaign against reactionaries or supposed reactionaries rather seriously. As his car was passing a column of Hitler Youth near Magdeburg yesterday it was greeted with boos of derision. A preceding machine, carrying his guards, was stoned.

Youth Fires Revolver.

The minister had just made an address before 3,000 loyal steel helmet comrades in Little Schoenbeck, nearby. He ordered both cars to halt and stepped out into the road only to be met with a volley of insults. One youngster drew a revolver and fired in the air. An unofficial and unverified version of the affair has it that the revolver was fired at the minister.

Today Seldte lodged a complaint and was assured measures would be taken to punish the offenders and prevent such occurrences in the future. A storm troop leader and several storm troopers accompanied the Hitler Youth, but are reported to have done nothing to check the insults.

Arrangements were made on the spot to prevent any news of the matter leaking out until an official statement could be made today. But the Nazi party organ in Magdeburg demonstrated no more respect for Seldte than the Hitler Youth. It published this morning an account of the affair but no word of reproof for either the the young Brown Shirts or their leaders.

POLICE CAPTAIN SHOOTS WINDOW CRASHING THIEF

Acting Captain Andrew Barry of the East Chicago avenue police station, making a personal inspection of his district early today, shot and wounded a window smashing thief at Michigan avenue and Superior street. The man identified himself as John Sutherland, 29 years old, 230 East Superior street, a former druggist. He was shot in the left leg and taken to the Bridewell hospital.

According to police, Sutherland smashed the display window of Kramer's dress shop at 737 North Michigan avenue and was removing gowns from the window when Capt. Barry came along. Sutherland fled in spite of the captain's warning to halt and was shot.

CHAIRMANSHIP OF DEMOCRATS OFFERED KANSAN

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—The Washington Post says that Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, has been offered the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee.

The Post quotes Helvering as saying, however, he "hadn't heard" about the offer and that he would not take the job "if it is offered to me." Senator McGill [Dem., Kas.] said he had heard Helvering's name prominently mentioned.

Fascist Rioting Brought Up in House of Commons

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 11.—Legislation declaring Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist Black Shirts and similar organizations illegal is probable. On the other hand stricter police regulation of indoor meetings is certain as a result of rioting at last Thursday night's Black Shirt meeting, at which a number of persons were ejected with unnecessary brutality and several were injured.

Sir John Gilmour, home secretary, today was presented with 12 questions in the house of commons as to what he intended to do to prevent such disorders in the future and how he proposed to deal with armed, uniformed organizations which threaten the stability of the state.

After some little preliminary sparring, he declared:

"I am sure I am voicing the feelings of the house and of the country at large when I say that scenes of disorder on the scale recently witnessed will not be tolerated. If they continue it may become necessary to arm the executive authority with further powers for the purpose of preserving public order.

"I am not concerned today with apportioning the blame between Fascists and communists. It is the function of the government to preserve law and order and it would be failing in its duty if it allowed either a party of the right or the left to disturb the public peace. We certainly are not prepared to allow our responsibility for the maintenance of order and the preservation of our free institutions to be usurped by any private or irresponsible party, no matter what their avowed aim or object."

Black shirt brutality and the necessity of government action will be the subject of a full dress debate in parliament on Thursday. The government's policy will be discussed by the cabinet on Wednesday.

PREDICTS SAAR WILL REMAIN IN HANDS OF LEAGUE

Socialist Chief Scoffs at Nazi Claims.

This is the second of a series of articles on the Saar, one of Europe's trouble spots. A Tribune correspondent has just completed a survey of the district.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin, June 11.—Despite the intensive campaign being conducted by Germany to win back the rich Saar Basin, Max Braun, Socialist chief and leader of the separatist forces, confidently predicts that the Saar will remain a protectorate of the league of nations.

In the face of repeated threats of death, the last of which was openly published in the Munich Illustrierte Zeitung, Braun has launched a vigorous counter attack on the Nazis with the help of a large section of the Catholics, the French and even some of the German monarchists in this region.

The Socialist leader labeled as ridiculous the claims of the Nazis that they will get 93 per cent of the votes in the plebiscite on Jan. 13, 1935. The truth, he said, is that 35 per cent of the voters are for Chancellor Hitler, 35 per cent against him, and 30 per cent are wavering.

The aim of the separatists is not so much to win over this undecided 30 per cent but rather to delay the plebiscite until the Nazi terrorist campaign ceases. They also want concrete guarantees that if the Nazis win, those who voted against them will not be persecuted.

Declaring that his forces were forgetting about Marxism for the present and concentrating on the plebiscite, Braun said:

"It must never be said that we are fighting Germany. We are German. Before the adventu of Hitler we too wanted the Saar returned to the fatherland. Even now we know that the status quo cannot be eternal. But we will fight the National Socialist dictatorship to the end. We are fighting for democracy and freedom."

Seek Fair Play.

Asked what guarantees he wanted for the plebiscite, Braun replied:

"We simply want fair play. We insist on some definite guarantee against molestation of enemies of the Nazis if the latter should win, such as a lapse of two years before they actually take control. This would allow those fearing trouble to regulate their affairs and leave. If the Nazis win there will be at least 20,000 emigrants."

Braun believes that economic considerations more than political will influence the undecided 30 per cent of the voters against returning to Germany.

"Many of these people are small property owners who have possessions to protect," he explained. "They fear inflation of the mark, which they once escaped by adopting the franc as their currency. Also 60 per cent of our exports go to France.

"We have been told in so many words by the French that if the Saar becomes German politically they will lower a 'steel curtain' against our products."

Canada Cancels Tax Free Rights to Soldier Settlers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11.—Canada's 30,000 soldier settlers are to lose their privilege of tax free land under a bill approved in the house of commons today. Municipalities in western Canada have found the burden too heavy.

HEAR 'WASTE' OF $5,000, BUT VOTE ANOTHER $20,000

Nazi Quiz Methods Horrify the House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—It was a horrified house of representatives that learned today exactly how its special Nazi investigating committee is spending the taxpayers' money.

THOMAS HARDWICK

Agast, the members heard Representative Lindsay Warren [Dem., N. C.] describe an "ugly situation" involving the pay roll of the Nazi committee. Indignantly they listened while he read off the list of high salaried experts hired by the committee to ferret out sources of subversive propaganda in the United States.

Then, quite calmly, they voted another $20,000 out of the treasury so the committee can go on ferreting and spending without interruption this summer.

Cost $5,000 So Far.

Already the Nazi investigation has cost some $5,000, the house was told. The special committee has another $5,000 still remaining out of the original $10,000 granted it several months ago at the beginning of the inquiry. But it will need the extra $20,000 to complete the work already begun, according to Chairman John McCormack [Dem., Mass.], although at the outset it was assured that the investigation would not cost more than $25,000 all told.

As chairman of the accounts committee charged with handling the house contingent fund from which the new $20,000 will come, Mr. Warren said he felt it his duty to apprise the house of the manner in which the Nazi committee has spent the money originally given it.

"Here is what has happened," he said, "and I think it is an ugly situation. The public and the house have a right to know about it. The special committee has hired a 'counsel' and is paying him $555.55 a month. That salary compares with the $30 a month paid by the senate banking and currency committee to Ferdinand Pecora, whose ability by now is unquestioned."

Hire 13 Investigators.

In addition, Mr. Warren went on to relate, the Nazi probers have hired 13 special investigators. Two of them receive $250 a month and expenses, eight receive $225 a month and expenses, one receives $165 a month and expenses. Two stenographers receive $137.50 a month and one messenger receives $20 a week.

When the committee members appeared before the accounts committee to request the additional $20,000, said Mr. Warren, they stated that one or two "associate counsels" might be found necessary.

"We now find that an 'associate counsel' has already been appointed at a salary of $388.89 a month retroactive to May 1," he added.

The Nazi probers also found it necessary to have a secretary for their committee, Representative Warren went on. So they took the $90 a month janitor of the house immigration committee and made him secretary at a salary of $330 a month.

Highest He Ever Saw.

"This is the highest pay roll for any investigating committee I have ever seen in my long experience in this house," said the chairman of the accounts committee. He explained that the resolution authorizing the additional $20,000 was brought in so that the house itself might decide whether more funds are to be turned over for the Nazi inquiry.

Scarcely had he finished speaking when Rep. Charles V. Truax [Dem., O.] arose. Bristling and belligerent, he bellowed:

"Gentlemen, it is apparent that this money has gone to favor friends rather than to help the American people. Instead of granting more money, we ought to abolish this committee."

Then came Rep. Donald H. McLean [Rep., N. J.] with the announcement that he, as a member of the accounts committee, was heartily in favor of refusing the additional $20,000 sought by the Nazi investigators.

"After a," he declared, "this investigation will just result in the compilation of voluminous reports in the cellar of the capitol, where they will collect dust for all time."

LANGER TAKES STAND; DENIES FUND SOLICITING

Tells Using Workers to Get Circulation.

Bismarck, N. D., June 11.—(AP)—North Dakota's chief executive took the witness stand in federal court today to defend himself against government charges that he and four associates conspired to block operation of relief and recovery legislation by soliciting funds for support of the administration newspaper from workers paid with federal funds.

Gov. William Langer, a candidate for the Republican nomination for a second term at the state primary June 27, denied that other defendants had a part in plans to establish the Leader as an administration newspaper. The government charges federal employés were solicited for contributions to support the publication.

Moved Funds to Beat Seizure.

Contributions to the paper, which he considered the property of the Republican party of North Dakota, Gov. Langer added, were purely voluntary. He ordered the relief committee to "clean it up immediately" when he learned federal employés were being solicited. Gov. Langer is a member of the Nonpartisan league, Republican party faction whose indorsement he has for renomination and reëlection.

Questioned by Defense Attorney J. M. Hanley, Gov. Langer testified he had transferred funds of the Leader to his personal account, because the publication fund was threatened with garnishment. He added that he himself had contributed to the paper's support.

He knew of no instance, he testified, where employés' salaries were reduced for failure to contribute or increased because they contributed.

Gov. Langer was the last of five defendants to take the stand. Preceding him were Highway Commissioner Frank A. Vogel; R. A. Kinzer, former secretary of the federal relief organization in the state; Oscar J. Chaput, business manager of the Leader, and Harold McDonald, solicitor for the newspaper. The governor himself is former head of the state federal relief setup.

Tells How It Worked.

Asked by Hanley to explain the solicitation plan, Gov. Langer said:

"I had had a good many years' experience with the organization of newspapers since the league first came into power in 1915. I knew there were four or five things essential if the newspaper was to be a success and bring before the people of North Dakota the real purposes of the administration. It must have proper financing and the right kind of management and would have no value unless it had an enormous circulation.

"I knew of no way to get the circulation and get financing unless I got all the employés to subscribe and sell subscriptions."

He added he felt the "employés who had positions under the state government owed enough support, as a duty to the government, to go out and secure a large circulation for a weekly newspaper.

"I felt if they sold an amount equal to five per cent of their annual salary it would not be asking too much."

REPUBLICANS REPORT DEFICIT OF $203,688 AS OF MAY 31 LAST

Washington, June 11.—(AP)—The Republican national committee today reported to South Trimble, house clerk, that its treasury deficit on May 31 was $203,688.

The quarterly report, filed by George F. Getz of Chicago, treasurer, showed contributions received between March 1 to June 1 totaled $5,084, and expenditures amounted to $14,789. Cash on hand was $2,950.

The largest contributors were: Silas H. Strawn, Chicago, $1,056; George Deb. Keim, Edgewater Park, N. J., $500; Edward J. Bermingham, Chicago, $500; C. H. Worcester, Chicago, $250.

The report does not cover the pledges to make up the deficit at the recent meeting in Chicago of the Republican national committee.

BY HAL FOUST.

The consolidation of Chicago's park systems will bring about a new era in the design of the public recreational grounds as well as in their political management, George T. Donoghue, general superintendent, said yesterday in announcing that a program will be developed for revamping the hundred miles of driveways that meander in the city's 6,000 acres of park area.

"These present driveways," said Mr. Donoghue, "were laid out in imitation of rustic lanes of sylvan beauty. They presented a good imitation, in the horse and buggy days when the public enjoyed leisurely rides through the shaded parks. But in this era of automobile transportation park driveways have become trafic arteries. Aesthetics are still a consideration, but efficiency and safety are primary considerations.

Meandering Lanes Outdated.

The meandering lanes have no place in this modern trafic scheme. The reverse curves suited to 10 mile an hour travel in a buggy are a serious hazard when negotiated at thirty or thirty-five miles an hour.

"The new consolidated board has not as yet taken up this job of remapping the parks and their drives. The consolidation act has not as yet been legalley upheld by the Supreme court. However, a program for straightening the driveways will receive early consideration."

Otto Jelinek, south park trafic engineer, has been working on such a program for the last year. A few minor improvements have been made but the city's parks are still wasteful in excessive mileage necessary to travel on their trafic outlets and, more important, in losses in accidents.

General Loss Pointed Out.

"In addition to the accidents due to these winding driveways," said Mr. Jelinek, "the motoring public suffers a material loss in the delays and in the added cost of motor operation over the excessive mileage. Furthermore, the public loses the benefits of its playgrounds by having them cut up by these wandering pavements.

"Through the economies effected by the consolidation, it may be possible to finance extensive improvements in the park drives. The work is really more expensive than it might seem because the large old trees must be saved in realigning pavements."

CITES INCREASE IN KIWANIANS AS PROSPERITY SIGN

TORONTO, June 11. — (AP) — A marked increase in the membership of Kiwanis International for the first five months of 1934 was reported today by President Joshua L. Johns of Appleton, Wis.

"This indicates that the economic conditions in the United States and Canada show improvement," he declared. "Our organization reflects the condition in more than 1,850 communities in Canada and the United States. Since last January our membership has been increasing at the rate of 1,200 each month. Our total membership now exceeds 83,000 in Canada and the United States."

CAMAY COMPLEXION

So get yourself a Camay Complexion—a skin beautiful to look at and soft as satin to touch.

Then your friends will confirm what your mirror will tell you—that you're a much better-looking girl than you were before—a more alluring woman.

For the Soap of Beautiful Women will lift the veil from your loveliness, will clear the drabness from your skin, and reveal the beauty that today is hidden.

A CAMAY COMPLEXION AND ANOTHER BEAUTY CONTEST WON!

You probably think that Beauty Contests are only for starry-eyed blondes and piquant brunettes.

But—truth is—you, and every other woman in the world, are in a daily Beauty Contest. Friends—strangers—everyone you know and meet is a judge of your attractiveness. And the impression people get of your looks and your charm depends so much upon a clear, lovely skin. With a Camay Complexion you'll win approval and praise.

"A number of friends have asked me how I keep my skin so soft," said a young dietician. "I've told them that all my complexion care can be summed up in one word—Camay."

Try Camay—and convince yourself! You'll be sorry if you don't—for you'll be cheating your skin of the gentle care of as fine a beauty soap as can be made.

CAMAY BUBBLES ARE BEAUTY BUBBLES

Camay's lather is a beauty lotion in itself! For Camay is a blend of the purest of beauty oils chosen for one reason only—because they are good for your skin! As each drop of water mingles with the pure, white soap, Camay's gentle lather is formed—fragrant Beauty Bubbles, freshly made each time you cleanse your skin. That is why Camay, the Soap of Beautiful Women, is the perfect beauty soap for your complexion!

MR. WALLACE CONFESSES.

At last Secretary Wallace has made public admission of the fact that next winter will see a menacing shortage of foodstuffs. As he put it in his Minneapolis address, "greater trouble will come next winter with a shortage of roughage."

That is what farmers have been telling THE TRIBUNE and THE TRIBUNE has been telling Mr. Wallace in detail for six weeks or more. It is what such crop experts as B. W. Snow have been saying since last autumn, when they observed the lack of subsoil moisture. In the face of these repeated warnings the secretary, with burocratic stolidity, went ahead with his mad program of acreage reduction. Of course there is going to be a shortage of roughage, and of course the shortage is going to be far more acute than it need have been precisely because Mr. Wallace adhered to his doctrin of destruction when every dictate of prudence demanded that he bring his experiment to an abrupt conclusion.

Cornstalks are roughage, but Mr. Wallace's program has provided 20 per cent less of them than the cattle on American farms would otherwise have had to eat. In a pinch straw can be used as roughage, but Mr. Wallace reduced the quantity available. Hay is first quality roughage, but Mr. Wallace encouraged farmers to plow up their best hay lands to make the most of their limited corn acreage, with the result that the hay crops in many sections are not what they might be.

Mr. Wallace is not responsible for the drouth, but he is responsible, and wholly responsible, for the fact that the devastation of the drouth has been as severe as the government crop reports show it to be. He says he now finds that farmers are withdrawing their offers to sell their cattle for relief purposes, and this astonishes him in view of the gloomy prospects for winter feeding. He ought not to be astonished and he would not be if he could hear what the farmers are saying. The AAA has so bedeviled and bemused them with its contradictions, its sinful destructiveness, and its incapacity to take account of changing weather conditions that farmers are no longer willing to accept the Wallace leadership. They are coming to believe, with all the justification in experience that men can have, that the department of agriculture is their worst enemy. They can struggle through a drouth, but they cannot survive a drouth and Mr. Wallace.

INTERSTATE COMITY.

The conference of Indiana and Illinois officials for working out an agreement to harmonize regulation of motor trucks ought not to fail. The Indiana law permits a forty feet length of truck and trailer; the Illinois law thirty-five feet, and Indiana trucks have been arrested recently while in our state. It would be desirable, of course, for Indiana and Illinois to have uniform laws and regulations, but until that is accomplished a rule of comity should be adopted. It is advantageous for both states to have free passage and it should not be unnecessarily obstructed. Arrest of trucks which conform to the laws or regulations of their domicile is not desirable from the viewpoint of public service, and it suggests the shakedown. There should be an agreement between the authorities which will prevent this evil, pending the effort to enact uniform regulations.

A SHIPFUL OF LARD.

Readers who scan THE TRIBUNE'S columns very closely may have noticed that the tanker Willhelmina cleared from the port of Chicago last week with a full cargo of lard for the United Kingdom. Exports of lard from the world's greatest meat packing center have been a matter of course for years, but we are wondering how many readers noticed that a tankship was employed. There was no mistake in the information. The lard was actually pumped into the vessel's water-tight cargo tanks under fairly high temperature and will be unloaded in the same manner. Then after additional refining it will be packaged for sale to the British public. We are aware that tallow to be used as soap stock is quite frequently moved in tank cars or tank vessels, but if there have been any previous tankship oversea movements of edible lard they have not come to our attention. It may be of interest to note that the vessel arrived at Chicago with a cargo of bulk peanut oil.

Through a long list of acts and resolutions dating from the transportation act, through the Hoch-Smith resolution down to the present George resolution, congress has clearly shown that it holds the theory that the transportation burden of the country can be adjusted at will by a regulatory body. The commission was instructed through the transportation act to regulate the financial condition of the carriers through rate advances, in the Hoch-Smith resolution to relieve industries in distress by the transfer of freight burdens from one commodity to another, and through the proposed George resolution from one section of the country to another. All through the period THE TRIBUNE has maintained that ingenuity, such as has been exhibited in the bulk shipment of lard, will defeat all such efforts.

Brains can be handicapped by burocrats but they cannot be destroyed—except by massacre.

MANSLAUGHTER IN THE AIR.

Some one is responsible for the loss of seven lives in the crash of the American air liner in the Catskills and, whoever that some one is, he should be punished for his crime. The word is used advisedly.

The passenger who boards a plane does so in the belief that all that can be done to make his trip safe has been done. He assumes that weather conditions are favorable. He assumes that his pilot has every instrument at his disposal to make for safe flying. He assumes that his pilot has been carefully instructed in the rules of safety and told to take no risks, however slight. The passenger has no independent judgment in these matters. He is wholly dependent upon the judgment of those operating the plane. If his confidence has been misplaced some one should be held responsible.

The exemplary punishment of the guilty will do more to promote safety in the air than a thousand exhortations.

Let it be assumed that the accident in question took place, as some witnesses have suggested, because the clouds were hanging low over the mountains and the pilot chose to follow the mountain passes below the clouds. In doing so the plane crashed into a mountain-side. If those were indeed the facts, some one in a position of authority should have known them and should have prevented the plane from taking off or ordered it to turn back.

The judgment of the pilot alone cannot be trusted. He is a man accustomed to taking risks. He knows how to use a parachute. His passengers have no parachutes, and if they had them wouldn't know how to make use of them.

Some one, we repeat, is responsible for the deaths and should be punished for manslaughter or criminal negligence. That would go a long way toward discouraging the taking of risks of which the passenger is unaware and which he is wholly unprepared to meet. No passenger's life should be sacrificed on the altar of a time table or for the sake of speeding the mails to their destination. As some air line officials are not fully prepared to act upon this principle, it is necessary to use the criminal law to teach it to them in a form which any one can understand. Theirs is a personal responsibility which they must not be permitted to evade.

THE IMPENDING BATTLE OF LONG ISLAND.

Max Baer, who is supposed to be getting the chance of his life Thursday in the Long Island bowl when and where he meets Primo Carnera other than socially, would clear up some perplexities if he would make up his mind whether he is Tarzan, Harpo Marx, Karl Marx, or Napoleon. Max is the play boy of California and other parts, irrepressibly bubbling with fun and generally unable to keep himself in hand.

Mr. Carnera is a serious minded man whose whole purpose when he takes off against Mr. Baer will be to retain the heavyweight championship, partly because it is profitable and partly because Mussolini will not understand it if he does not. Sunny Italy expects all of Carnera to do his duty and if the big fellow expects the land to remain sunny for him he must keep both the bacon and the prestige. Mr. Carnera, therefore, being a serious minded man, cannot be killed by Mr. Baer's comedy. He will not be diverted by it from the business in hand and if Mr. Baer does a few Harpo Marxes he may find himself soaring out to sea playing Harpo's favorite musical instrument. It might be art but it won't be pugilism.

Mr. Baer has turned out to be one of the ring's oddest fish, odder probably than Chicago's own favorite Kingfish. He may be just a big jolly boy who does not know his own strength, but he has absorbed so much Hollywood that it might be well for him to let a stunt man double for him when the show gets to the ring action.

DROUTH AND THE CANADIAN SEAWAY.

The prolonged and severe drouth is beginning to affect transport not only on the inland waterways but upon the lakes. What should interest the people of the midwest, north and south, is the bearing of this condition upon the Canadian seaway project. The treaty providing for this lopsided enterprise failed of consent in the senate at this term, but it is reported will be brought up at the next session. The drouth should warn congress that if this treaty is passed it will forever prevent our keeping the channels of the Mississippi at the necessary depths in future serious drouths.

Editorial of the Day

COSTLY OVERSIGHT.

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

One of the essential factors of a well planned advance is provision for sudden but orderly retreat. The AAA advance on agricultural surpluses hardly can be said to have had such provision. Those who planned it apparently never dreamed that the basic need for production curtailment might disappear in the course of a few weeks. No one knows for sure that it has, but there are ample signs that production curtailment is not the most pressing agricultural problem at the moment. Nature, the big boss administrator of agriculture everywhere, has accomplished in a few short weeks what the AAA might have taken years to accomplish. It has drastically reduced the crops of wheat, oats, and other small grains and will take a substantial slice out of the corn crop.

The administration at Washington, in consequence, is left with an emergency problem on its hands—a problem of readjusting its plans and relieving human needs. The past record of Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins constitutes pretty reliable assurance that those farmers who need relief will get it, and without the usual amount of government red tape and delay. There appears no good cause for fear of actual human suffering.

But the money cost of this hasty readjustment of plans will be great. Already the brain trusters are talking in terms of hundreds of millions of dollars again. Some leading politicians predict that the drouth may call for a direct outlay of as much as a billion dollars. Because the AAA plans contained no well thought out provision for a hasty retreat in an emergency that was not foreseen, the government is going to have to pay farmers millions of dollars to offset the effects of the millions of dollars it already has paid them as a bribe for destroying foodstuffs. When a government gambles with nature it usually pays well for its lessons.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A HITCH-HIKER who killed the soft hearted and likewise soft headed motorist who had picked him up and given him a free ride explains the affair by saying he had an urge to kill which he just couldn't resist. Maybe so, but it ought to give to all of us gentle philanthropists who drive around the country in our gasoline buggies a most urgent urge to step on the accelerator whenever we see a hitch-hiker standing by the road wiggling his cute little thumb.

MUCH AS THE INVENTORS boast of all they've done and are doing every minute in the way of new machines, gadgets, and robots, it does seem they have done nothing whatever in the way of improving suicide. People still jump from high places as they used to do thousands of years ago from the pyramids and the Tower of Babel. Leaping from the seventeenth story window consequently is very old stuff and without a trace of originality.

As for suicide by shooting oneself with a pistol, that was probably originated by the inventor of the pistol after he got tired of seeing people pick it up and point it at him and saying, "Oh, it isn't loaded." So there's no scientific advance or no tribute to the inventor's genius when somebody shuffles off the mortal coil with a gun. Turning on the gas is many years old; it began probably five minutes after illuminating gas was first distributed in pipes, and has had no improvements since. But further deep pondering on the story of the young hitch-hiker who killed the auto driver who gave him a ride suggests a new way to commit suicide—pick up a hitch-hiker. Of course, the first half dozen may disappoint you; they may turn out to be innocent, good natured lads who won't do anything worse than club you over the head and shove you out of the car. But keep on picking up hitch-hikers and finally you'll get hold of one who has the urge to kill. Then you can die with the happy consciousness that you're the pioneer in a new way of committing suicide.

NOW MUSIC COMES.

Now music comes, High Priestess of the earth,
In solar veils of lavender and blue;
She walks where every season has its birth,
Where hearts unite in silences, and through
The rain-drenched voices of the singing leaves
Where phalanxed poplars guard spring-heavy woods;
Her throat is bound, and marble-graven grieves
When we are closed to cadence of her moods.

She builds with crystal, consciousness-designed,
Beside still rivers bridged with arching stone:
The borders in her universe of mind
Are vortexes of cosmic overtone.
The Priestess, Music, helps the soul to reach
Its own high voice, and gives the silent, speech.

THIS COUNTRY is getting back to normalcy; the Democrats have ordered another census taken. The Republicans always did that when congress found that the boys back home were howling so loud for jobs that they were liable to get off the reservation if the old plum tree wasn't given a pretty hard shaking right away. The Democrats have set up so many job bureaus that it looked for a while as if they wouldn't need to take a census every few months. But census taking is one of the old reliable, tried and true ways of quieting the boys down and giving them nice pleasant employment, and the Democrats had to come to it. The Republicans ought to sue 'em for infringement of copyright.

BED SORES.

NURSES who care for cases with bad fractures or prolonged, exhausting, enfeebling illness dread bed sores almost above everything else. They add greatly to the seriousness as well as to the discomfort of any case. Not infrequently a man with a bad fracture requiring prolonged bed care will get a bad repair because bed sores complicated his illness. In more than one case of typhoid fever, profound sepsis, or suppurating pleurisy bed sores have turned the scale against recovery.

To prevent the complication, those rendering nursing service try to keep the skin very clean. They smooth the sheets and bedding and keep crumbs out of bed. Rings and pads are used to lessen the pressure made on bony regions.

In addition to washing the skin of the endangered areas with soap and water, some apply alcohol as a lotion and some use solutions of tannic acid. The theory on which tannic acid solution is used is that it will tan and toughen the skin.

The method is harmless enough, but it has not proved satisfactory for two reasons. In the first place, it is the pressure on the small blood vessels and capillaries under the skin rather than the pressure on the skin itself that makes the bed sore. In the second place, tannic acid solution applied to unbroken skin has very little effect. The procedures for relieving pressure and for keeping the skin clean, as measures of protection, are thoroughly well worth while and should always be carried out whenever there is any reason for doing so.

Dr. E. O. Latimer suggests a new use of tannic acid in connection with bed sores. His suggestion is that it be used as a cure rather than as a preventive. However, he would begin using it when the bed sore has progressed no further than as a threat. He writes: "Treatment is instituted at the first sign of tissue disturbance, preferably before the skin is broken."

He uses a freshly made 5 per cent solution of tannic acid in water. This is either sprayed on the area every hour or else it is applied by means of gauze saturated with the solution, and to which new solution is added often enough to prevent the gauze from drying. During this twelve hour period it is well to keep the skin dry and warm by putting an electric heater or an electric light under the bedding. At the end of about twelve hours the sore will be covered by a thick, tanned layer and, after that forms, there is no reason for using the tannic acid solution further. The tannic acid treatment of burns is one of the great surgical advances of recent years, and all of the many who have had experience with this method in that field will recognize this tanned covering when they see it, and will know its significance. Under such a covering a bed sore will heal better than under any other circumstances, and it will be freer from pain and other discomfort.

If a bed sore is badly infected the sore should be somewhat sterilized before tannic acid solution is used. If, after the coat has been formed, the sore becomes badly infected it may be necessary to make openings in the densely tanned layer.

To prevent bed sores from becoming infected, Dr. B. Fantus suggests that in place of simple tannic acid solution the following be used: A 20 per cent solution of tannic acid in a 1 to 1,000 solution of acriflavine in water.

GALL BLADDER.

O. H. H. writes: Gall bladder trouble has been my weakness, as you may remember, and I have been a voracious woodchopper as a means of cure or, at least, of keeping in good condition. Last summer I spent three months chopping wood on the Massachusetts coast and came home feeling fit for a hard winter's work. I did work hard in the college where I am employed, and the result was that in December I found I was feeling rotten. Nothing I did by way of exercise was of avail and in February I tried to clean the walks of snow and had such a difficult time getting my breath afterwards that I called the doctor. He gave my digitalis and remained with me an hour. He forbade my going upstairs, and had me go to bed and stay there for a week. It was difficult for me to eat anything because I could not breathe afterward. This went on for three weeks and I felt that all my real work on this earth was over. I was very weak. Then one day the doctor concluded I was not secreting any hydrochloric acid in my stomach and ordered 20 to 30 drops at each meal. In about two days I ate with a relish and had no attacks of short breath. In about a week he had me come down to his office, where he inserted a long rubber tube into my stomach to the entrance of the gall bladder and drained that. He repeated twice that first week, twice the second, and once the third week, and then once a month. For the last three weeks I have been feeling like a lark again. I eat anything, digest it well, work hard, have no shortness of breath, and seem to be as good as new. He says I will have to take the hydrochloric acid as long as I live and he says I may live to be one hundred. I am now 63. To say that I have new life and new hope is putting it mildly. Don't you think that many another sufferer from gall bladder trouble and shortness of breath might be helped by hydrochloric acid?

Friend of the Insured

ENDOWMENT POLICIES.

Chicago, June 1.—[Friend of the Insured.]—What is the reason that endowment life insurance costs so much more than all other policies? Is it considered one of the best policies to buy?—D. O. M.

Under an endowment policy the company's liability not only involves payment upon death but also the full amount of the policy at the end of the endowment period should the insured survive. Therefore, the annual premium on such policies is necessarily much higher excepting for very long endowment periods, where the rate may be only slightly higher than that charged on an ordinary life policy. The best type of policy to buy can only be determined by the individual requirements and responsibilities of the insured.

THE GUARD AT TOLEDO.

Cleveland, O., June 6.—I wish to express my appreciation of your splendid editorial, "The Guardsman," in your issue of May 28.

I was in command of troops at Toledo and appreciate the coöperation of the newspapers in giving the public the facts.

Our task is made difficult through the lack of respect for law enforcement bodies, due mostly to failure of judges to do the thing they hold up their hand and swear they will do when they are elected to office.

The National Guard today is subject to instant call from both the President and the governor, and when so called will do their duty impartially and with due regard for the rights of law abiding citizens.

There is evidence that, regardless of our combat activities in this riot, the soldiers killed no one, and out of over 300 arrested only one was a union man. Of the two deaths, one man was killed by a home made bomb and the other by a rifle bullet of a kind not used by troops. We are thankful for these facts.

L. S. CONELLY,
Brigadier General.

LOW COST HOUSING.

Chicago, June 4.—The federal government has assigned $25,000,000 to be spent in Chicago for large apartment buildings. The term low cost housing is frequently applied to these projects, but this term is strictly a misnomer and is misleading. The New York state board of housing reports that 4,630 rooms of so-called low cost housing in New York City cost $1,200 per room. Figures published by Real Estate magazine denote a cost of $1,000 per room for 1,631 rooms constructed in Chicago.

Building costs now closely approximate those of the 1926-1929 average. An estimated cost of $900 per room, therefore, is legitimate. But this is certainly not low cost. Allowing $150 for land, as against $240 for the New York housing and $200 for the Chicago buildings, totals $1,050 for each room. Allowance of 4 per cent to cover amortization and interest is $3.50. To service a room costs approximately $6 under favorable conditions. Let us assume only $5.75 for this purpose, or a total charge of $9.25 per room per month. This estimate is somewhat low compared with all reliable estimates thus far published. Even the most optimistic promoters agree that $6 per room is the maximum rental that can be asked. On this basis an actual loss of $3.25 per room per month is indicated, and the cost figures used may be regarded as unduly conservative.

The government will donate $5,000,000 outright and the city of Chicago is expected to assume the financial burden of the remaining $20,000,000. Every one of the 425,000 owners of residential property in Chicago is vitally interested in the assumption of this debt from the viewpoint of taxation, if not from competition. Likewise every depositor in a closed bank, whose assets comprise 50 to 75 per cent of mortgages and mortgage bonds. But either directly or indirectly, almost every citizen in Chicago is interested in these housing projects from a financial standpoint.

Question: Are such obviously uneconomic proposals and additional financial burdens really desired by a majority?

W. S. MANSFIELD.

THE HAPPY MEDIUM.

Chicago, June 11.—Mr. McGilovick is too severe upon the English troops that were beaten by the Germans at San Quentin. They were very badly routed and it was necessary for all the allies, the French, the Portuguese, and the Americans, to rush to their aid, and we were very glad to do so.

Mr. Lindsay also is open to criticism. The English did spend, and still spend, too much time in formal drill and too little in field maneuvers, and in consequence their efficiency as soldiers suffers much. There is a happy medium between the English and American methods.

ETIENNE ANNE MARIE DE MONT
St. Louis.

NEW ORLEANS, FOR EXAMPLE.

Chicago, June 6.—Mr. McGilovick, in letting his anti-British feeling get away from him, has pricked my national pride. If I recall my history correctly, I believe the Canadians stood under fire well enough to repulse the American invaders during the American revolution and the war of 1812. The English seem to have taken care of themselves for the past four hundred years or so, and usually manage to come out on top. As for the Scotch, though they have been beaten and sometimes even forced to retreat hastily, so have all other troops. I'll wager even money that the Black Watch or the Gordon Highlanders can hold their own against any equal body of men equally armed, any time, any place.

In closing, let me say that I think the new Fair wonderful.

READ HISTORY, PATRICK!

Chicago, June 7.—Patrick McGilovick has gone widely astray about the Scots. Surely he knows that Scots never throw anything away; they even eat their cigaret butts and then go out and massacre the Irish. We Americans are not too happy when Pat puts his foot in his mouth by criticizing Canadian ability to "stand well under fire." We know, alas, from several experiences in 1812 that they always stood long enough to see our American backs in hurried retreat on the few occasions we met them on the field of battle. Read history, Pat, read history! Then go back to Erin and kiss the Blarney stone once again!

PARENTS' LIABILITY.

Chicago, June 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a person between the age of 18 and 19 buys an automobile and runs down a person, are his parents held liable or is he alone liable, inasmuch as he owns the car? 2. Is a person allowed to own a car between the age of 18 and 19? W. T.

1. The parents would not be liable on the bare facts stated.

2. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

3 Day Fiesta Closes as New Terrorist Bomb Explodes.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 11.—The three day fiesta in honor of the abrogation of the Platt amendment detonated to a close today. While happy-go-lucky crowds whirled and chattered on the Prado, celebrating they did not know exactly what, the latest terrorist bomb exploded, killing two persons and injuring seven others.

The outrage carried its own justice, however, for the two killed were the planter of the bomb and his woman companion. The scene of the explosion was a corner in the heart of the business district, not far from the capitol. Police believe the bomb planter was in the act of tossing the bomb when it went off prematurely, blowing its author almost in two. The bomber's companion was so mutilated that she died a short time later.

Bomber a Communist.

In the dead man's pocket were found papers identifying him as José Trujillo, and showing membership in the communist group here. But the blood spattered walls and one more gaping hole in the sidewalk did not halt but rather served to stimulate the final evening of the celebration.

Probably not one person out of a hundred understood what the Platt amendment was. But for years politicians have been preaching the evil domination of a greedy Uncle Sam, and now people were told that their patriotic leaders had driven the colossus of the north into retreat.

It served as explanation enough. Moreover, there were bands, flags, free movie shows. Through narrow side streets, up and down the broad Prado, across and around Central park streams of Cuba's citizens streamed and swirled.

What a Scene!

Soldiers in khaki puffing importantly on large cigars. Faces ranging in hue from white through saddle colored to shiny black. Men in starched suits of white linen; men in sweaty rags. Women sauntering consciously, their best dresses swaying from their hips. Toothless slatterns with claws outstretched for a chance centavo. Policemen with pistol holsters conspicuously displayed.

And everywhere ragged, scuttling urchins. Everywhere bands and orchestras. Your Cuban must have music even though it be only a whiny guitar and a yowling singer.

A band of rowdy students races along the street. These are the trouble makers. Police eye them grimly, soldiers on the street corners grip their guns and give their sagging cartridge bandoliers a suggestive hitch. Emulating the students, a band of 200 or 300 hoodlums pelt through the crowds, pushing people out of the way, yelling insults and making automobiles and street cars stop. Police and soldiers let them go. Anything to avoid trouble.

Trouble in the Air.

Despite the music and the chattering and dancing, there is trouble in the air. All sounds of merriment are there, but something in the harmony strikes false. The crowd smiles, but it is not happy. It sings, but there is a hysterical quality about its voice.

Out in the harbor are three gray ships, the U. S. S. Richmond, flagship of the American navy's special service squadron, and the destroyers Jacob Jones and Talbot. They are trouble shooters of the Caribbean sea. Platt amendment or no Platt amendment, there they swing at anchor.

"Any trouble yet?" asks one stroller of another.

By Bob Becker

20 Types of Alfalfa

June 11, 1934.

THERE are some interesting experiments on one of the oldest crops in agriculture being conducted here on the experimental farm. Approximately 20 acres have been planted to 20 different strains or types of alfalfa, that rich country cousin of the clovers which makes such a valuable farm crop.

Some of the alfalfa seeds which have been planted here on the farm came from Montana and Utah, others from Arizona, and several of the seeds are from plants whose seeds were imported from Peru, Turkistan, Russia, Canada, and Chile. Earl Sieveking, whose idea it was to try out these alfalfa strains, visited the farm a few weeks ago to supervise their planting.

It was decided to use the new strains of malting barley, Oderbrucker and Wisconsin 38, as the nurse crops for some of the alfalfa, and flax and oats for the remainder. All of these were planted, but the poor barleys were given a bad licking by the chinch bugs last month. Therefore, these crops lost their jobs playing nurse to the aristocratic alfalfas. The idea is, of course, that the barley, oats, and flax grow quickly and can be harvested before the alfalfa begins to require sunlight for its growth in late summer.

Alfalfa needs land that is sweet. It doesn't thrive on sour land. Therefore, the soil has been prepared for these crops by the addition of lime. Moreover, the soil is inoculated in order to produce bacteria that cling to the alfalfa roots in little balls or nodules. These bacteria breathe the air in the soil, using the oxygen and the hydrogen, but leaving the nitrogen in the soil in a form that the plants can use.

Alfalfa is not a new crop to farmers in this region, or in most any crop-growing section of the world, but some strains have more possibilities as a feed for dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep, and horses, than others. In fact, this crop was known back in 490 B. C., when the crop was brought from Persia into Greece and later into Italy.

The Spaniards brought it to America in the 16th century, and as crop explorers make their trips, new strains are constantly being found for trying out in the United States. We are trying some of the newest along with several that now are highest yielding in various states.

In the list are Turkistan, from that country; Ladak, a new type from Montana; Hardigan, a Michigan type of Grimm; Hairy Peruvian from Peru via Arizona, Chilean from Chile via Arizona, Canadian variegated, Cossack from Russia, Utah Blue Jay Grimm, Montana common, Kansas common, Utah [Bee Hive] common, Colorado common, Idaho common, Idaho certified Grimm, Dakota 12, Lyman Montana Grimm, Minnesota and Michigan Grimm, Oklahoma common, and Blackfoot certified Grimm from Idaho.

The kinds of alfalfa or other crops that are growing in the soil make no difference to the Muscovy ducklings these days because every day is "cruising day" to these little fellows. I have been watching them cruise around on their little "fresh water ocean," which is nothing more than a galvanized tank sunk into the ground. What a picnic they have! They paddle up and down this tank at top speed as if to show off their prowess to their mother, a chunky old hen with that typical bright red mask of color which the Muscovy has on its face. The Muscovy ducks have a place to themselves in the barnyard, a fairly large inclosure with plenty of shade so that the ducklings can get together in a cool spot and take a nap whenever they want to.

ILLINOIS' SUPPLY OF GRAIN, FORAGE SHORTEST EVER

First Drouth Cash Ready for Farmers.

Coincidental with a report by the federal and Illinois departments of agriculture that Illinois is now confronted with the shortest supply of grain and forage it has probably ever experienced, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission launched a program to relieve the drouth stricken areas in the state.

The relief program was announced by Wilfred S. Reynolds, secretary of the commission, on receipt of assurance of a $500,000 grant from the federal emergency relief commission for the work. The fund will be used during June in 31 counties, designated by the department of agriculture as secondary drouth areas, to supply seed, feed, or work for cash wages to impoverished farmers.

Loans for Farmers.

A special fund is to be set aside to make loans to farmers who have commercial herds and who need the loans more than any other form of relief. Leonard R. Condon of Rockford was named assistant to J. H. Lloyd, state drouth administrator, to assist in the purchase and distribution of seed and feed.

The crop survey of the state and federal agricultural departments was issued at Springfield. It reported conditions in the state during the month of May, but did not take into consideration further deterioration since June 1.

The spring sown grains, tame hay, and pasture prospects are the poorest on record, according to the report. The crop of oats is expected to be 50 per cent below average and spring wheat and barley even more unpromising. Insufficient moisture for germination has ruined or caused uneven stands of corn, it was stated.

Short Crops Last Year.

Agricultural Statistician A. J. Surratt pointed out in the survey Illinois farmers have been faced with extremely unfavorable conditions all spring, with frost adding to the great damage caused by the drouth and chinch bugs swarming over the state and ruining crops that survived the other elements.

"The poor prospects this year are further aggravated by short crops last year and by a long feeding season due to poor pastures last fall and this spring," the statistician said.

"Except where rains have occurred within the last few days, crop prospects are declining daily. Present indications are that the hay crop will amount to about one-half the average production. Pasture conditions declined 34 per cent during last month and, except for a few areas in the south, are furnishing practically no feed.

"Stock water shortage is serious in some districts. Many farmers are turning their live stock into oats and hay fields owing to poor pastures. This will add further to the prospective shortage in feed grains and hay. Peach and apple yields will likely be small.

Spotted Corn Stands.

"Practically all of the corn is planted—95 per cent of the crop had been planted two weeks ago. While stands are spotted in every spection the crop is fully up to average in many parts of the state. Though soy bean planting as a means of replenishing the hay supply has been delayed pending more rain, a record acreage will be planted if sufficient moisture is forthcoming to insure germination."

Especially in the northern part of the state are farmers in dire straits for the need of hay to feed their starving stock. In many cases after fodder and feed have been exhausted herds have been turned onto public highways and railroads' right of way. For the first time in 40 years railroads are permitting stock grazing if herds are well attended.

Meanwhile, from Urbana came reports yesterday that Illinois farmers were preparing to strike the last blow in their fight to save as much of their corn as possible from the chinch bugs. Serious infestation has been reported in seventy counties.

Hordes Advance on Corn.

Farm advisers attending their annual summer conference at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, said vast hordes of the bugs were moving out of the small grain and into the corn.

Most of the activity in the chinch bug fight is now centering in the utilization of Illinois' share of the $1,000,000 which the federal government has appropriated for the buying of creosote, to be used in barrier building to protect the corn fields.

Supplies of creosote must be obtained this week by Illinois farmers, if barriers are to be built in time, Prof. W. P. Flint, college entomologist, said. Approximately 80,000 gallons, enough creosote for one fifth of the infected Illinois territory, is now on way to delivery, Prof. Flint said.

STALIN COMMANDS REDS TO SPEED GRAIN HARVEST

MOSCOW, June 11. — (AP) — Strict orders were issued today by Josef Stalin as secretary of the central committee of the communist party and by the council of people's commissars concerning the harvesting of grain on state farms in middle Asia, the Caucasus Crimea, and southern Ukraine.

The communists and young communists were enjoined to guard the crops carefully and see that they are delivered to the granaries; directors of state farms were ordered to make all possible use of harvesting combines and ignore complaints that such machines are not suitable for cutting short grain.

The use of all other kinds of available machinery was commanded and directors were instructed to have all machinery, including threshing machines, in good repair before July 5, and to enroll and regiment their workers immediately.

Periods ranging from 15 to 22 days were fixed within which the harvest must be completed. All grain must be threshed within 1½ months after it is cut.

There were heavy losses last year as the result of the poor organization of the state farms and every effort is being made this summer to avoid the repetition of those experiences.

LONDON UPSET; THAMES VALLEY IS GETTING DRIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 11.—A serious deficiency in London's water supply was revealed today by Lord Desborough, presiding at a meeting of the Thames conservancy board. He said the Thames' flow of water in May was the lowest ever recorded for that month and announced the deficiency in rainfall in the Thames valley in the last twelve months is equal to a body of water 6,600 miles long, 250 feet wide and 10 feet deep.

Lord Desborough asserted that if the flow of water recedes much more extreme steps will have to be taken.

Meanwhile London's "use less water" campaign is now well under way and public vehicles are plastered with notices warning the public to economize.

Drop Vagrancy Charges Against Public Enemies

Vagrancy charges against a dozen public enemies were nol prossed before Judge Howard Hayes in the Felony court yesterday because of the recent Illinois Supreme court decision which held the new "reputation" vagrancy law unconstitutional. The cases had been pending for almost a year. Among the defendants were Anthony [Tough Tony] Capezio and Louis [Little New York] Campagna, former bodyguard of Al Capone.

MAGGIE CLINE OF 'THROW 'IM DOWN' SONG FAME DIES

She Sings of McCloskey 75,000 Times.

Fair Haven, N. J., June 11.—(AP)—Maggie Cline, who thrilled variety hall audiences in the nineties with her rendition of "Throw Him Down to McCloskey," a song she had bought for $5, died at her home here today. She was 75 years old, but had been in good health until four months ago when she suffered a stroke.

MAGGIE CLINE.

Seventy-five thousand times, by her own estimate, did Maggie Cline—in private life Mrs. John F. Ryan—sing the praises of the wild McCloskey and his historic fight. It was the wow song of its day, but as Maggie said years after her retirement in 1917 she "could never live it down."

J. W. Kelly wrote the piece and offered it to Maggie in 1890 for two dollars. As she told the story afterwards she gave him five with the injunction not to forget the boys in the back room. She was playing at Tony Pastor's in New York.

The roaring refrain in which the audience always joined, was:

"'Throw him down, McCloskey,'
Was to be the battle cry,
'Throw him down, McCloskey,'
You can beat him if you try,
In future generations
With wonder and delight,
They'll tell on history's pages
Of the great McCloskey fight."

The original protagonist of the song was named McGinty, but there was another McGinty song in vogue at the time, one who went down to the bottom of the sea. So Maggie dropped McGinty's name and substituted for it the name of McCloskey, a fine upstanding Irishman of Haverhill, Mass., her home town. And in doing so she made him as well as herself unforgettable.

Miss Cline also sang McGinty frequently and the crowds would shout stoutly:

"Down went McGinty to the bottom of the sea, Dressed in his best suit of clothes."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Happy Days

BOY, 3, CRUSHED TO DEATH AS CAR UPSETS IN CRASH

County's Trafic Toll for Year Mounts to 530.

Robert Francis, 3 years old, 6557 Bishop street, was fatally injured, and his uncle, Samuel Franceschini, was severely cut on the head and left shoulder last night when the car in which they were riding overturned after it was struck by another car at West 66th street and Laflin street. Rose Francis, sister of Robert, 6 years old, was slightly injured.

The children were riding in the rear seat of their uncle's car when it was struck by the speeding car driven by Lester Bauers, 17 years old, 6831 South Laflin street, according to police. The Franceschini car was hurled against a light standard and overturned. Robert was crushed between the body of the car and the sidewalk and died as he was being taken to the Englewood hospital.

County Toll Now 530.

This death and three others yesterday increased the toll of trafic deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 530. The other victims:

Clarence Schoop, 32, 5549 South Peoria street. Died in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries he received June 5 when he was struck by a car at South Ashland avenue and 67th street. Victor Hedgren, 7233 South Hermitage avenue, driver of the car, was ordered to attend the inquest.

Stanley Jaskowski, 38 years old, 3107 South Seventh avenue, Maywood, baker employed in the Edward Hines hospital. Died of injuries received when his car crashed into another driven by David Paoli, 1321 South 15th court, Cicero, at Fifth avenue and Roosevelt road, Cicero, Sunday.

Albert Halberson, 62, 2712 West North avenue, died in St. Elizabeth's hospital of injuries received Dec. 4 when he was struck by a car near his home. John Gueber, 2624 North Ridgeway avenue, the driver, was ordered to attend the inquest.

Former Grid Star Hurt.

Thomas A. Clark, 24 years old, former half back on the Northwestern team several years ago and at present football coach at St. George's High school, Evanston, was injured last night in an automobile accident at Cicero avenue and Greenleaf street, Niles Center. Two others were also hurt. They were Arthur C. Ehlers, 32, of 1021 Ramona road, Wilmette, a glass dealer, and Thomas Driessen, 17, of Kaukauna, Wis., a student. All were taken to St. Francis' hospital. Clark and Ehlers probably internally injured. Clark was driving one car, and Driessen, a hitch-hiker, was riding in Ehlers' car.

DIVORCE JUDGE RETAINS FAITH IN MARRIAGE

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, the man who estimates that he has heard 38,000 divorce cases, yesterday reaffirmed his belief in the institution of marriage as he was sworn in to begin his 26th year on the bench.

"I still believe marriage is worth while," the jurist said. "I hold that it can be successful if each party recognizes the other's rights, and respects them."

The oath of office was administered by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer in Judge Sabath's chambers. Only a few friends were in attendance.

JENKINS SUICIDE NOTE RULED OUT AS LEGAL WILL

John Elliott Jenkins, broadcasting equipment manufacturer, who shot and killed himself Saturday in his apartment at 105 East Delaware place, left an estate estimated at $3,500. This was revealed yesterday when his widow, Mrs. Alexandra Carlisle Jenkins, famous actress, appeared before George B. Weiss, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, and was granted letters of administration to the estate.

Jenkins, who was senior partner of the firm Jenkins & Adair, Inc., 3333 Belmont avenue, left a note willing his estate to his mother, Mrs. Mary Otis Jenkins, 2652 Prairie avenue. The note, however, has no legal standing as a will because it was not executed with witnesses, Mr. Weiss explained.

In the note Jenkins wrote, "This is my will. Not unmindful of my wife, Alexandra, I leave the wreck of my estate to my mother along with my deepest apologies."

A coroner's jury decided that Jenkins committed suicide while despondent after testimony had been given that he and his wife were estranged. Jenkins and his wife occupied separate apartments at the Delaware place address.

Three wills were admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin. The wills are those of:

CLEMENTE DEVITA, died Dec. 8, 1933. Estate $15,000 to widow, son, and three daughters. Hannibal Muscato, executor.

NEVA B. SHIDLER, died May 30. Estate $5,500 to sister and two nieces. Laurence S. Parmelee, executor.

JAMES M. WILLIAMS, died May 4. Estate $5,000 to son, daughter, and grandson. First National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, executor.

HORSE RUNS AWAY ON DRIVE; INJURES TWO RIDING IN BUS

A. J. Pearson of San Francisco and his wife, who are in Chicago to see A Century of Progress, were injured yesterday when a runaway horse crashed into the side of a motor bus in which they were riding at Lake Shore drive and Diversey parkway.

The horse, owned by the 122d Field Artillery, was being led with a halter for exercise, when it broke away from the groom, Jack Marcus, 3930 West Monroe street, and galloped up the drive.

When the horse struck the bus, its front feet were plunged through the glass of a window where the Pearsons were sitting. Pearson was cut on his head and arm, and Mrs. Pearson was cut on her left arm, and in several places about her face.

The horse broke both fore legs and was destroyed by Lincoln Park Policeman Harry Hawalka.

CALUMET CITY TAVERN KEEPER SHOT TO DEATH

Peter Esser, 39 years old, 503 Ingram avenue, Calumet City, regarded by police during prohibition as one of the big booze bosses there, was shot to death early today while standing at the bar in Joe Brunner's saloon at 337 Plummer avenue, in the suburb.

The assassin fired a blast of slugs from a shotgun through a screen door. The charge struck Esser in the back and killed him instantly. Three companions standing beside him and Brunner, behind the bar, while in the general range of the blast, were unhurt.

Homewood county highway police and Calumet City police were of the opinion that Esser's murder probably was the result of enmities engendered during the bootlegging era. Esser, since repeal, had been operating a saloon at 300 State street, Calumet City.

CAR STOLEN SIX MONTHS AGO IS FOUND IN CANAL

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 12; recovered, 20; stripped, 3 [from police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

State's attorney's detectives yesterday recovered a car stolen six months ago from the drainage canal at 113th street and Cicero avenue. The car was raised from the water and towed to the Criminal Courts building.

John Mills, 22 years old, a member of a band of automobile thieves who have confessed to stealing 103 automobiles, directed authorities to the place. He said he stole the car Nov. 3 last and drove it to the banks of the canal after deciding to get rid of it. He released the clutch, he said, and the car rolled down a 75 foot embankment and plunged into the water.

Authorities announced yesterday that Daniel Galvin, 7639 South Ada street, a used car dealer, had been taken into custody as a member of the same ring and would be charged with receiving stolen property. He purchased stolen cars, the state's attorney's office said, for $20 apiece from the gang.

PLAN IMMENSE RALLY TO FIGHT HUEY LONG TAX

New Orleans, La., June 11.—[Special.]—Louisianans prepared today to fight the new taxation scheme, now being considered by the state legislature controled by Senator Huey P. Long, with the most formidable demonstration this state has seen in sixty years.

The demonstration, a gigantic statewide assembly of indignant men and women, will be held in Baton Rouge, the state capital, Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, in a park just a stone's throw from the legislative halls.

From New Orleans seven trains and 2,000 automobiles full of anti-tax delegations will migrate to the capital. From Shreveport, Monroe, Lake Charles, Alexandria, New Iberia, Lafayette and dozens of other centers in the state special trains and automobiles will carry tax protestants to the capital.

It is a veritable state-wide strike, not precisely against paying taxes, but against additional taxation, and some leaders of the movement talk openly of using "methods which will convince even Huey P. Long" that tax burdens are already breaking the backs of the Louisiana taxpayers.

MRS. FREDERICK BABCOCK'S WILL IS FILED IN EAST

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marcia Kettelle Prendergast, of 222 East Roosevelt road, Wheaton, Ill., is left an annuity of $4,800 under the terms of the will of her aunt, Mrs. Abbey Kettelle Babcock, filed here today. Mrs. Babcock, wife of Frederick R. Babcock, former Chicago lawyer and banker, died at Nice, France, last Dec. 5. In recent years she and her husband had been living in the east and abroad.

Mrs. Babcock provided another annuity of $1,500 for her sister, Mrs. Lulu M. Counselman of Los Angeles. The rest of the estate is to go to Mrs. Babcock's husband.

On his death the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago is to receive $100,000. The residue then is to go to the University of Michigan to promote the study of urological diseases. The will provides also that the principal of the annuity trust established for Mrs. Counselman is to go to the University of Michigan after her death. The trust for Mrs. Prendergast is to continue for the life of her four children and then go to the university.

SKEPTICS MUST PAY $275,000 TO SEE ROPE TRICK

LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—A psychiatrist here from India says he will do the magic rope trick in Albert hall for $275,000, but so far he has no takers.

The Magic Circle, a society that investigates phoney mysticism, recently offered $25,000 to any one who would do a genuine magic rope trick. Now comes Dr. Alexander Cannon, the psychiatrist. The doctor says he can do the trick for the original reward with $250,000 added for expenses.

Interested, the Magic Circle wrote Dr. Cannon and asked him if he would return the $250,000 if the trick failed. He replied, "No." The circle appeared ready to let the matter drop then, but the doctor wrote again and repeated his offer.

In the magic rope trick a fakir throws the end of a rope into the air where it appears to become anchored to nothing. Then a boy climbs up the rope.

Survives 2 Wars Unhurt; May Die a Bicycle Victim

John B. Kievlan, 56 years old, 337 Home avenue, Oak Park, veteran of the Civil and the Spanish-American wars, from both of which he emerged unscathed, became a victim last night of a slow moving bicycle. He was on his way to a meeting of Veterans of Foreign Wars when, at Lake street and Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, he was knocked down by a wheel ridden by Gilbert White Jr., 14 years old, 170 North Elmwood avenue, Oak Park. At the Hines hospital where Kievlan was taken, physicians said that his left hip had either been fractured or dislocated, but that in either case the injury might prove fatal.

Chloe Watson Bridal Party Is Announced

Garden Wedding to Be Held on June 30.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EIGHT bridesmaids and a maid of honor will precede Miss Chloe Watson down the garden path to the improvised altar where she will become the bride of Pierre Bouscaren on the afternoon of Saturday, June 30. The service will be read at 5:30 o'clock in the garden of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson of Winnetka. The honor maid will be Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, the bridegroom's sister, and the bridesmaids will be three Chicago girls, Miss Margaret Hamill, Miss Harriet Tilden, and Miss Grace Fitzmorris; Miss Anita Thompkins of New York and Miss Katherine Winer of Germantown, Pa., whose families have summer homes near that of the Watsons at Madison, Conn.; Miss Virginia De Vilbiss of Toledo and Miss Dorothy Goepel of Greenwich, who went to Dobbs Ferry with the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Bushnell of New Haven.

Henri Bouscaren will serve as best man for his brother and ushering will be the bride's brother, Cornelius Jr., a student of Yale; MacMillan Robinson, Hughes Dallas of New York, formerly of Winnetka; Theodore B. Bersbach and his brother, F. John Bersbach; Joseph Uihlein of Milwaukee, Roderick Blackhurst of New York, and Dr. Hubert Heublein.

Miss Louise Neff to Be Bride Today.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon in the drawing room of the Solomon B. Smiths' apartment on Scott street, Mrs. Smith's sister, Miss Lucille Neff, will become the bride of William M. Collins Jr. The Rev. Dudley Stark will read the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and the closest friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Smith, the former Barbara Neff, will be her sister's only attendant, and Thomas Pettus of St. Louis will serve Mr. Collins as best man. After the health of the couple has been drunk they will leave for a wedding trip to Jasper Park. Around the first of August Mr. Collins and his bride will return to Chicago to make their home here—a home that they will have to choose when they return.

Among the out-of-town guests will be Mrs. Pettus, Miss Elizabeth Palmer of New York, who went to Dobbs Ferry with Miss Neff, and the George Hepburns also of New York. Mr. Hepburn, Mr. Pettus and the bridegroom were classmates at Princeton. They were all present last night at the dinner the bride's aunts and uncles, the J. Arnold Scudders and the William M. Scudders, and her cousins, the Henry Hoopers, gave at the Casino.

Dayton-Beck Nuptials Today.

Another bride today is Miss Dorothy Dayton, daughter of the Burt J. Denmans of Wilmette, who will be married to Beresford Ellsworth Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Beck of Evanston at 8 o'clock in the chapel of the First Methodist Church in Evanston. The Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle will read the ceremony and a reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Peggy Belden of Minneapolis will be the maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Peggy Gillette, also of Minneapolis; Miss Jean Dunbar of Wheaton, Miss Joan Walker and Miss Ann Mills. Joseph Beck will serve his brother as best man, and ushering will be Karl Kempf, Sidney Butz, Ford Stoddard and Lawrence Denman, the bride's stepbrother. Mr. Beck and his bride will be at home at 736 Hinman avenue after July 1.

Describing what is probably one of the most complete collections of its kind in this country, Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett will lecture today at the Art institute on Norwegian and Swedish art. Rare Swedish wall paintings and hangings, peasant costumes, jewelry, furniture, weavings, and a Norwegian bride's own "hope chest" treasures have recently been put on display in the galleries just outside the Alexander McKinlock memorial court.

Miss Bartlett, who has traveled extensively in both Sweden and Norway, presented the Art institute not long ago with an old native house, complete with the furnishings, from the province of Dalecarlia, Sweden. Her lecture, which will be illustrated with slides, starts at 12:30.

Two Busy Week-ends for Lake Forest.

The next two week-ends will be among the gayest Lake Forest will have the whole summer and almost every hospitable house in the village and surrounding country will have as many house guests as can be accommodated for both week-ends.

The coming Saturday and Sunday will be the days of the flower show under the auspices of the Lake Forest Garden club in the Onwentsia indoor riding arena. Mrs. John Andrews King, chairman, says that it gives promise of being the most successful and brilliant ever given in Lake Forest.

Among the many interesting exhibits will be Mrs. J. Ogden Armour's charming little fountain garden. She is sailing Saturday for England, but she will have entries in the show just the same. We predict that the best seller of the flower market will be the pots of mint that Mrs. Lawrence Williams and Mrs. Laurence Robbins have arranged to sell, for mint juleps seem to be a very popular drink in warm weather, and even teetotalers find mint a pleasant addition to a glass of iced tea or lemonade.

The horse show will be the attraction the following week-end. There will be performances in the morning, afternoon, and evening on Friday, the 22d, and in the morning and afternoon on Saturday, with a grand ball that night at the Onwentsia clubhouse. The Front Views and Profiles

WE had heard that the producer of Lloyd Lewis' play about civil war times was to be at dinner, so upon arriving we greeted friends we knew, then looked about. There were two strange faces belonging to handsome, athletic looking boys in their early twenties, but nobody who looked as if he might be the producer. After a time we whispered to Mrs. Lewis and asked if he hadn't come after all. Yes, she said. The dark haired lad across the room we had just been talking to. He was the producer and the other—the one in the gray suit—was the director. They were John Henry Hammond and Joe Losey, and their play producing firm, which last year produced "Little Ol' Boy," an artistic success of the season in New York, was called "Henry Hammond, Inc." Then upon hearing that Producer Hammond—whose grandmother was a Vanderbilt, by the way—was Yale, 1933, we called for our cane and tottered out to the dining room, dinner having just been announced.

Producer—Concession—Careful—Description.

AT dinner Mr. Losey explained that production of Mr. Lewis' play is being held up because of the difficulty of finding the right actor for the leading rôle. The rest of the play is already cast and the youthful producers are searching desperately for the right principal, whose rôle will be that of a picturesque middle-aged senator from Kansas in civil war times. The one or two who obviously come to mind for such a part are under contract elsewhere.

MR. LOSEY told a story that concerned an incident in a play he directed at Radcliffe when he was still younger, heaven help us. Somewhere in the intricacies of the plot a child was born offstage and off-stage noises attended this interesting event. The head of the school was dubious as to the suitability of this incident in a play given by a girls' school. However, she finally acquiesced on condition that a Boston girl render the off-stage noises.

The crack reporter who passed the description on to us was the same lad who made a big discovery about the youthful prexy upon his arrival in Chicago to take his new post several years ago. It was that Mr. Hutchins, in common with the undergrads at the university, didn't wear garters. . . . We are unable to report either whether the no-garters fad still persists on the campus or whether Mr. Hutchins wears them now.

Jimmy Walker Sees Wife Start Career as British Film Star

LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—Squire Jimmy Walker of Dorking, England, said today he had no intention of returning to the gay life of a politician and playboy.

He imparted this information while he proudly watched his pretty wife, the former Betty Compton, begin a starring career in British movies.

Schloss	Minna Gombell
McKenna	Beulah Bondi
Jerry	Vince Barnett
Bill	Phillip Reed
Gloria	Mayor Methot
Ethel	Renee Whitney
Dixie	Virginia Sale
Dickie	Ronnie Cosby
Pat	Ed Garnan
Male Nurse	Gordon Elliott
Bonnelli	George Humbert

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: "Hospital cycle" movie.

ACTING: Excellent. Bebe Daniels is capable and charming in the title rôle. As Nurse Benton she has a secret sorrow—her husband is insane. Love interest centers 'round the rivalry between the brilliant head physician of the hospital and the philandering young surgeon, Dr. Connolly, for her hand. It's about the middle of the picture when Dr. Connolly learns the truth. Sidney Toler, as a fight promoter in the hospital because of a battle with his wife in which she had emerged victor, finally saves the day for Nurse Benton's happiness. How—I'll never tell you. All of these rôles are finely portrayed, with laurels going to John Halliday as the head physician.

STORY: Interesting, if not always entirely believable.

DIRECTION: Good.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, SOUND, ETC.: Commendable.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Considerable.

Produced by Majestic.
Directed by Alan Dwan.
Presented at the Castle theater.

THE CAST.

Olga	Sally Eilers
Wally	Ben Lyon
George	Harry Tate
Herr Doctor	H. F. Maltby
Real N. S. G.	Harold Warrender
Commanding Officer	Andrews Englemann
M. N. T.	Dennis Hoey
K. P. O.	Henry Victor

KIND: Slapstick melodrama.

ACTING: Ben Lyon as a zipper salesman and Sally Eilers as an actress masquerading as a countess do the best they can with pretty impossible rôles. Other players haven't much to do.

STORY: Negligible. Situations supposed to be funny succeed in being only blah.

DIRECTION: So so.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, ETC.: Unremarkable.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much.

See you tomorrow.

Free Ice Fund Aids Infants and Invalids; Camp Gifts Received

The annual work of THE TRIBUNE free ice fund is under way, and contributions to this project which sends ice to homes where babies, small children, and invalids who depend on fresh milk would not otherwise have ice, are beginning to be received. The fund is administered by the United Charities.

Contributions last received were:

Betty Jane Bliss	$ 5.00
Anonymous [in stamps]	.25
Total	$ 5.25
Previously acknowledged	$256.77
Grand total	$262.02

Meanwhile another TRIBUNE summer fund, the Camp Algonquin fund, which also is administered by the United Charities, is receiving support from new and old friends among TRIBUNE readers. The camp, located 45 miles northwest of Chicago on the Fox river, will open June 19, when the first group of mothers and children from congested and underprivileged neighborhoods of Chicago will begin a two weeks' vacation there.

A contribution to the Camp Algonquin fund was received from Joseph B. Vail, making the fund stand to date as follows:

Joseph B. Vail	$ 5.00
Previously acknowledged	164.31
Total	$169.31

Gifts to either fund will be acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper. They should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at the Tribune Tower.

Airy Tea Gowns Make Obdurate Shoppers Yield

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Tea gowns with a tropical airiness are abundantly available. Long, fluttery cool things of chiffon, made with angel sleeves, with long trains and flounces that will trail interestingly behind you as you wander about the house. They are undoubtedly the most irresistible soul satisfying things you ever discovered. The most hardened shopper will completely forget any budget at the first glimpse of their charm and loveliness.

You can buy the long nightgown and tea gown ensembles of pastel tinted chiffons, sleek, long satin slips with a contrasting coat of chiffon, or Spanish creations of filmy organza made with a thousand ruffles open down the front and quite the most ravishing tea gowns of the year. These new creations are doubling for dinner costumes when you stay at home on a hot night.

New colors to charm you are a deep mauve—it's grand over cool white satin—a rosy coral red that flutters just as enchantingly over flesh tinted slips as it gleams over white satin, and some pale yellow and cool cucumber green shades that will inspire you to buy at the first glance.

All white tea gowns are smarter than ever. This wave of white is evidently here for the summer. When you see the cool, frosty white chiffons worn over just as cool white silk or satin or chiffon underslips, you'll realize why this all white popularity is raging.

If you want something different, try the white chiffon coats over pale green slips, or a flesh or even a powder blue. Flowered slips of summer buds and green leaves are still other possibilities.

Philanthropic Club.

Members of the Chicago Philanthropic club are holding a breakfast today at noon in the Towertown club, 820 Tower court.

Here's a tip to the hot and tired business woman, or the woman who gets weary to the point of hysteria washing dishes and children's faces all day long. Hie yourself down to a certain store and invest a couple of dimes in a pint of rubbing alcohol, a special kind of alcohol in that it has the feminine accent of a delightful lilac perfume.

When you're completely bushed and can sneak time out for a bath, following this with a more or less brisk rubdown of the perfumed fluid, you'll be back on your feet in nothing flat and you'll be surprised to find your spirits soaring. It's just a little miracle worker, this body lotion.

If you've ever been very ill you'll remember the alcohol rubs with which you were coddled back to convalescence as the few bright spots in the drab period of sickness. Us, we're glad rubbing alcohol has come out of the sick room and planted itself firmly in the boudoir. Why not? It's a fatigue chaser, a nerve soother, a refreshant—and it's astonishingly cheap. It's a good beauty item if ever there was one.

Physical fatigue is bad enough for beauty, but when the nerves are playing some hot-cha discord on the bass of your neck and the spine your good looks just haven't a chance. When you feel this way, bribe some one in the family to give you a massage with your lilac perfumed alcohol; if there are no takers, do it for yourself and see how different you feel. On hot nights a little rubdown before you tumble into bed will be fine for you; all the sheep will be left out in the pasture. You should worry that they haven't been counted.

And when you have to pick yourself up at the end of a hard day to be charming and attractive and social, your lilac scented alcohol will be the star of the revival. You'll be refreshed and relaxed and ready to go.

Designer Tells of Geography's Affects on Style

Elizabeth Hawes Speaks at Luncheon.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Chic in New York isn't necessarily chic in Chicago or vice versa, proclaimed petite Elizabeth Hawes yesterday at a luncheon for her at the Merchandise Mart. This youngest of topnotch American designers, who skyrocketed to fame when she dared to invade Paris some years ago with a collection of American fashions, is here for several days to create clothes for young people. She stressed the importance of geography in style.

"My argument for American designs has been," she said, "that when you're living among American women and participating in what they are doing and thinking you are inevitably better prepared to plan clothes for them than if you're in another part of the world—say Paris. That's just why I was so delighted to come to Chicago—because you're not doing the same things we are doing in New York, or that San Francisco women are doing, and I can find out where the differences lie.

"Each part of the country is distinguished by typical styles that originate in the differing climates and activities. There are some styles that are all-American, of course. But geography plays a great part in fashion even within this one country."

To illustrate, Miss Hawes cited the passing of the afternoon dress from the fashion scene in New York, although it still is worn in other parts of the country. Paris, where women go from tailored daytime clothes directly into informal or formal evening garb, never knew this type of dress, she added.

The mode for fall is definitly toward greater luxury, she predicted, but the styles will be designed on more practical lines. The train on evening skirts is receding and the hemline for dancing frocks is being raised from floor length to the ankle level because it permits greater freedom, and women are wearying of extreme length in this phase of their wardrobes.

The wavering waistline is of a mind to descend somewhat, and will anchor itself for the fall season at the normal belt line or a bit below, in Miss Hawes' opinion. This feature will be eclipsed in importance, however, she feels, by the decline of the molded line through the hips, for the tendency seems to be unmistakably toward front fullness in skirts, although the fitted line will be preserved at the sides and back.

One of the activities that is demonstrating its influence on fashions in Chicago, declared the Vassar girl who started her professional career even prior to her college years, is A Century of Progress Exposition.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to stake him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money. Before turning it in she goes on a wild drive in the country and runs out of gas. A stranger who has followed her in a car takes her back to town, where she meets Jerry for dinner. The stranger, unknown to Cara, is Redman Harmer. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. Cara gets $2,000 for her car and gives half of it to Jerry. Jerry follows and meets her on the way.

INSTALMENT XX.

AN UNWELCOME GUEST.

They went down the great Peace river to Lake Athabaska, and thence down the Slave river to Great Slave lake, and there, leaving the little steamer, they turned northwest up a narrower river with an Indian guide Cara had easily found, in a big canoe with her canvas spread. This river had many bends, which the guide negotiated well. The water ran swift and was full of rocks and snags, but he kept out of the main current. Cara was in the bow with a light spruce paddle, and magnificently she managed her work. The Indian in the stern had a heavy maple paddle. Jerry Flint knew nothing of this kind of boat handling. All he could do was the sailing. He had on his old blue shirt and his ragged shorts of the Hamburg days, and looked just as beautiful as then, silhouetted now against the canoe's torn and patched canvas. They passed one deserted logging camp on the way and that was all. Rocky rivers ran and eddied into each other. Unsuspected fierce currents had to be navigated. "This is surely real wilderness!" he exclaimed to Cara. She replied jubilantly: "You wait!" They portaged round racing rapids in the heat of late afternoon. Then the river grew quieter, and wider, and a calm spread of water lay not far before them.

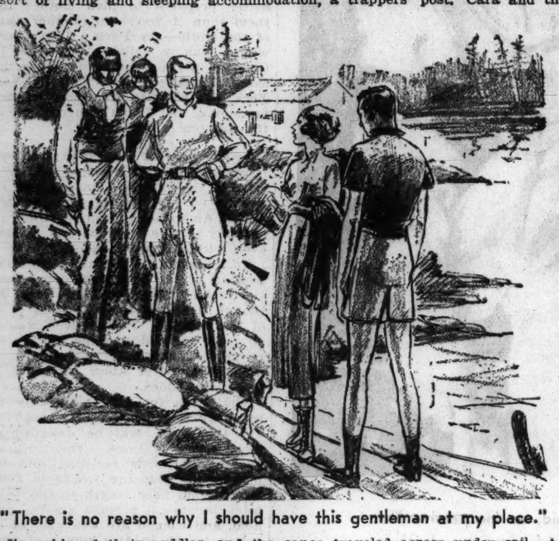
It was incredibly beautiful in this warm sunshine of late May. On its banks wild orchids clustered. Trees sentineled it. Straight across on the opposite bank was a sparse huddle of shacks, the inevitable store, and some sort of living and sleeping accommodation, a trappers' post. Cara and the



"There is no reason why I should have this gentleman at my place."

Indian shipped their paddles, and the canoe traveled across under sail. A group of two men, three horses, and a mule were outlined on the bank, standing motionless.

"And that'll be Mulligan," Cara added.

There was a sort of ramshackle landing stage that some one had knocked together long ago. She jumped out first, and walked straight over to the group on the shore.

She looked up into a hard, weathered face with eyes of intense blue. She stood alert, arrested, amazed. She knew this man! She said, "You!"

"Dan Mulligan, Miss Follette," he answered, "at your service — as before."

They stood looking at each other for a minute that was long enough to become curious and awkward. Then he looked past her and saw Jerry Flint.

"Yes, I've seen you before, Mr. Mulligan," Cara said.

Slowly they permitted themselves to smile at each other, and for a moment the swift drive in his car on the road into Toronto took on the nature of a minor escapade.

"Your car was returned all right, I hope."

"O yes. And she's sold."

"I hope you've made a pleasant trip here."

"Gorgeous. I expected to make it alone, but——"

"I say, somebody. Come and fetch this stuff."

Otis moved to obey.

Jerry Flint came towards them, staring at Mulligan. Was this the famous hunter of whom Cara had told him—this tall man with the unmistakable look of authority and power. "A rough lot, of course," Cara had prepared him for. This man held himself easily, and had already looked at his shorts and open blue shirt in criticism. Jerry nodded to him, and the hunter nodded back.

"Mr. Flint, Mr. Mulligan," Cara said. "You see, Mr. Mulligan, I brought a friend."

"I heard nothing about that, Miss Follette."

"No. We——"

"We joined up in Edmonton," said Jerry shortly, "and I decided to come along."

"Did you?" said the hunter slowly.

He made no move as to arranging the party, but stood looking at the young man.

"Got some tough trousers, I hope. The skeeters will simply bite you to death if you show them all that meat." And he laughed.

He kept his anger out of his laugh. "Joined up in Edmonton!" She hadn't really simply picked up a boy friend like that? Not Cara Follette? Not the windswept girl with the visionary eyes who had sat beside him in a fast car, who had gone searching beauty in old, far off countries and found it? He looked at her quietly.

"Excuse me, Miss Follette. I am to a certain degree answerable for you. I don't usually let a woman into my camp, and if I do I should see that she is protected in every way."

"'Protected,'" Jerry echoed in a hot, scornful voice with a sneer in it.

"Yes, sir. Protected. We may be in the wilds, but that is just where we take a lot of care of such women as we see here. If you are a new acquaintance of this lady——"

"No! No!" Cara exclaimed. "We're old friends. We met in Europe. Mr. Flint has been staying in Toronto, and has dined at my father's house."

"Thank you, Miss Follette," said the hunter gently, "but that is no reason why I should have this gentleman at my place. I pick and choose, you know. Mine isn't a dude camp."

And again his eyes assessed Jerry.

"What the hell!" Jerry began. She silenced him. For a moment or two she stood apprehensive, all the serenity of her new joy vanishing. Suppose Mulligan wouldn't. . . . These hunters were plain thinking men who knew their own minds. She looked for just a moment around her. The storekeeper was lounging in his doorway watching them. And no doubt there was accommodation of a sort there. It was a small, seldom used trading post—so much she knew, from the talk of the old Indian in the canoe. The lake grew more and more beautiful in the slow sunset. It was probably well stocked with bass and trout and inconnu. Did it matter—she began to think this—where she and Jerry were for this halcyon month of play together? And she looked up at Mulligan and had an instant feeling that he read her thoughts.

Still she spoke them: "If you can't take Mr. Flint, we'll stay here. It looks good enough, Jerry?"

"Good enough!" the young man acquiesced belligerently, but in his belligerence was a secret message of man to man, impudent, taunting, boastful, which Cara would miss, but which the other man caught as he was meant to do.

"I can put Mr. Flint up," said the hunter then.

"Thought you'd manage it," said Jerry.

"The difficulty is transport," the hunter addressed himself to Cara. "I'd only brought a spare horse for you. We'll have to divide up the stuff a bit. This boy'll fix it."

The Indian grunted assent.

"All right. Put the bed rolls on behind the saddles, Otis, and keep the feed bags on the mule. . . ." After that, still he addressed himself only to Cara. "Otis can have the mule. I'd brought enough for your comfort for the one night's camping, you see, Miss Follette. More comfort than you really need. . . . I've a nice safe mare for you. I'll give Mr. Flint my horse, and I'll take the other."

"Hope we're not troubling you," Jerry said sarcastically.

"No, Mr. Flint, you're not going to trouble me at all," the hunter answered. "And by tomorrow morning, when we and the horses have had some of our fodder, we'll be riding lighter. We shall make my place tomorrow afternoon."

Wheat Shreds Perform Magic in the Kitchen

BY MARY MEADE.

Some pillows are fat with goose feathers, while others sport batting or down. But the only sort we know of which makes really good eating is the plump pillow-biscuit which boasts 100 per cent flavorful shreds of baked whole wheat, and doesn't need even a pillow case to keep it in order!

For a good long time we've been bringing these biscuits of wheat shreds to breakfast as backgrounds for fresh fruit and jam, or modestly presenting them with cream and sugar. But a little item too few cooks know is that these same wheat shreds also do astoundingly good things to such pleasant dishes as vegetable casseroles, omelets, beef soup, dressings, muffins, pancakes, even candies and ice cream!

Starting modestly, here's a tip worth remembering about wheat biscuits. Don't decide whether or not you like them au naturel without first heating them in the oven. Humor them with just this much attention and they'll turn out deliciously crisp and sprightlier than ever in flavor.

We can vary even the morning service of shredded biscuits when the inspiration strikes us. Some choosey breakfasters request that their biscuits first be dipped in milk then drained and finally anointed with cream and sugar. Others maintain that the best stunt is to dip the biscuit quickly in milk, then drain, and fry it in butter. Serve these fried fellows up with a little cream. And, for the misguided folks who have a phobia for milk or cream, we suggest these same wheat biscuits dipped briefly in salted hot water, then dotted with butter which will melt down lazily into the hot shreds. These buttery pillows, by the way, make most superior "toast" pieces when split and heated in the oven.

Fruit toppings for wheat shreds may be various. Strawberries, peaches, bananas, or your choice of other fresh fruits make a starter. Stewed prunes or figs, baked apples, or generous slathers of jam top off other successful breakfasts.

And, if you haven't been porridged too much in your youth, then a hot cereal of wheat shreds, for some cool summer morning, will warm the proper spot. The trick is simple. Merely place the biscuits of wheat shreds in a small saucepan, add salted water sufficient to cover the pan bottom, and stir and boil until the mixture thickens. Serve this hot with milk or cream.

But much more exciting is the morning when come up—

FRIED WHEAT BISCUITS.
2 eggs, well beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
6 biscuits of wheat shreds
Sirup for serving

Mix together the eggs, salt, and milk. Dip the wheat biscuits into the mixture and fry in hot fat [375 degrees Fahrenheit] until golden brown. Serve with sirup.

Or, if you have a minute for preparation on the night before the breakfast in question, there may well be—

GRIDDLE CAKES FROM WHEAT SHREDS.
3 biscuits of wheat shreds
Sour milk to cover biscuits
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons sugar
Flour

Soak the wheat biscuits in sour milk just to cover, letting them stand over night or until soft. Add the beaten egg yolks, salt, soda, and sugar. Sift in enough flour to make the batter of griddle-cake consistency. Fold in last the stiffly beaten egg whites. Fry in the usual fashion.

Eggs also have a weakness for wheat shreds. Shredded biscuits which have been split, buttered, and heated, then topped off with scrambled, fried, creamed, or shirred eggs, make excellent eating.

Omelets which fold around crunchy wheat shreds likewise deserve honorable mention. When your next omelet is nearly set, sprinkle over it grated cheese and one biscuit of wheat shreds, finely crumbled. Over this spoon a layer of simmered tomatoes, which have been highly seasoned with sautéed minced onions, parsley, and chopped green pepper. Fold over the omelet and serve it with more of the hot tomato mixture laved over the top.

These wheat biscuits also make excellent crums, when we attack them with a rolling pin. For breading cutlets and their ilk, and for filling out between layers of cinnamon and apples in a brown betty, they modestly announce themselves as having no equal.

N. U. to Open Week of Senior Events Today

Commencement Exercises on Saturday.

Pre-graduation activities will begin at Northwestern university today. The commencement exercises will be held at Dyche stadium Saturday when 1,350 seniors will receive their diplomas. Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, will deliver the address.

Dental alumni will return to McKinlock campus today for the annual homecoming clinics in Thorne hall. Alumni and members of this year's graduating class will hold a dinner dance at the Hotel Knickerbocker tonight.

Tomorrow's activities will center around the law school, with the annual alumni meeting in Levy Meyer hall at 10 o'clock. Col. Henry B. Chamberlin, director of the Chicago Crime commission and president of the law school alumni association, will preside.

Two girls are in the graduating class in law. They are Bernice Spitalny, 1260 North Dearborn street, and Miriam Selker, 426 Briar place, and are the first feminine graduates of the law school in several years.

The baccalaureate service will be held at 7:30 Friday evening in the First Methodist church of Evanston. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist church will deliver the address.

The University of Chicago will award degrees and certificates in the chapel today. At 11 o'clock 388 advanced and professional students will receive their degrees. At another ceremony at 3 o'clock, 546 bachelor degrees will be presented.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, will address the second commencement of the Peoples' Junior college tonight at the Jewish Peoples' institute at 3500 Douglas boulevard. Diplomas will be presented to 45 graduates by Philip L. Seman, president of the college and managing director of the institute.

U. OF I. EXERCISES

Urbana, Ill., June 11.—[Special.]—"Our country is alive with those who would have us believe that their scheme for the improvement of living conditions of mankind would set the world straight if only everybody would accept them," declared Dr. Arthur Hill Daniels, acting president of the University of Illinois, at the sixty-third annual commencement exercises this morning.

"Two points of view—'Looking Backward' and 'Looking Forward'—both indispensable to sound thinking, were never more in need of emphasis than today," Dr. Daniels said in his final appearance before the student body. He will retire as acting head of the university July 1 and will be succeeded by Arthur Cutts Willard, acting dean of the college of engineering, who was named several months ago to the presidency.

A total of 1,700, 100 less than a year ago, were presented diplomas at the commencement exercises this morning. With 404 degrees awarded to students in the Chicago departments of the university—the colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy and the Illinois School of Nursing—at Chicago last Friday, this year's graduating class totals 2,104 students.

Youthful Frock Is Lovely with or Without Cape

WOMAN'S DRESS.

A dress like today's model answers almost every daytime need. It's very easy to make, as the pattern shows, in pictures, how each part is joined. A chiffon printed cotton voile, tub silks, novelty cottons, and silk crêpes are among the many suitable materials.

The pattern, No. 2875, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

Chloe Watson Bridal Party Is Announced

Garden Wedding to Be Held on June 30.

Brock Fuller and Parish Lewis will come from Milwaukee to judge with Maj. Harry Chamberlain of Fort Sheridan. Maj. Chamberlain, who was captain of the American team at the Olympic games in Los Angeles last year, will stage an exhibition of jumping at the show, and in addition to all the regular classes there will be a harness one in which Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr. and John R. Thompson will have entries from their famous stables.

Mrs. Dick is just back from the east, where she won several dozen ribbons and a thousand dollar cash prize driving her own horses in harness, so all the horse lovers of society are looking forward to seeing her entries in the Lake Forest show.

Miss Jane Darling May Be Debutante.

Whether Miss Jane Darling of Kenilworth joins the gay troop of debutantes next fall is still being decided. Jane and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Darling, have but recently returned from the east, where Jane's graduation took place at Ogontz. It seems that the formal presentation to society is being weighed in the balance with a year of travel and sports abroad. Meanwhile the family is preparing for a summer at home.

Miss Valeria Harris, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, is coming home today for a combined rest, sightseeing at the Fair, and shopping tour. After a winter of study, as the result of which she finished with first honors at Mount Vernon seminary, Valeria will soon be on her way to Michigamm, Mich. Here in this delightful camp where Shirley and Lorraine Logan are also going for the summer, Valeria will spend ten adventurous weeks in the out of doors. Instead of a debut in the fall she plans to return to Mount Vernon for the junior college course.

Mrs. David S. Cook has gone east to spend the summer with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker, at their country place, Fair Acres, at Stockbridge in the heart of the Berkshires. Dr. Arthur M. Walker of Swedesford road, Gwynedd Valley, Pa., will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walker while he attends his fifteenth class reunion at Williams college on Saturday.

Mrs. Patrick Valentine Going East This Month.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine is planning to leave about the 25th of this month for her summer place at Southampton, L. I.

Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett of Great Pine Farm, Great Barrington, Mass., is visiting her mother, Mrs. John W. Kendrick of North State street, while Mr. Blodgett is attending the 35th reunion of his Knox college class at Galesburg. Mr. Blodgett is a trustee of the college.

The College club is giving a luncheon for Mrs. James Ward Thorne Thursday. Mrs. Thorne will speak on her experiences in collecting the fascinating small objects that she has used in furnishing miniature rooms.

The first of two lecture-readings on "Modern Art at A Century of Progress" will be given by Mrs. Helen O. Roesing following luncheon at the Cradle today. Luncheon is served in the patio these warm days. The second reading will be given next Tuesday.

Mrs. John Chalmers of 6901 Bennett avenue is giving a luncheon and bridge party today for the board members of the Sunbeam league.

Stubbornness Not an Instinct in Small Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

On rereading a certain well known book for parents—one of the best I know of—I recently came across a statement to the effect that it is an instinct with children to enjoy doing the opposite of what they are asked to do.

I have heard such a conclusion intimated before. I distinctly do not believe it to be the case.

That a child gets a sort of excitement or perverse satisfaction out of being contrary under certain circumstances I know to be the case. But that is not an instinct. It is the result of conditions—or management.

I have seen children grow from babyhood to adolescence without a trace of contrariness or stubbornness because there was nothing in the handling of them to arouse that type of resistance—nor were there frustrations in the atmosphere.

We have, somewhat in this connection, a booklet on stubbornness fully written—also one on obedience—and a leaflet on the "no" habit. Any one will be sent you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

The Gossipel Truth.

Hollywood, Cal., June 11.—Charlie Chaplin tells this much about his new flicker—it is practically all written; it will have an industrial background, a yarn about man and machinery, and it will be the first Chaplin picture to deliberately try to deliver a message. Monna Barrie is denying that she is married and they can find no record of the fact or of the boy friend. . . . It seems that Miss Barrie is really Mrs. Paul Bolton. . . . Her square name is Barlee, which might aid the record searchers. . . .

Leslie Howard is amazing his profession by his actions during the filming of "British Agent." . . . He doesn't want any one on the set while he is emoting. . . . It is not strictly temperament with him, but he finds that an audience of one causes him to blow up in his lines. . . . Star of many first nights, he should be accustomed to an audience . . . perhaps that London flop play he appeared in got him used to working before no audience. . . . The other day he had a difficult time making a closeup, the lone camera man disconcerting him. . . . The property men are used to Howard now . . . they make up a pool before each shot is taken . . . No. 14 generally wins, for that is how many takes it takes Howard to play a bit.

Anita Page is looking at the moon over Nick Stuart's shoulder these nights. . . . A China doll called Butterfly Wu and known as the Garbo of China is being considered for the lead in "The Good Earth." . . . Metro will start two versions of this flicker, one with an all-Chinese cast and the other with an English cast. . . . After two reels they will then decide which way to make it.

Nick Foran of "Stand Up and Cheer" is still waiting for another rôle in another flicker, so his gal friends tease him by singing "You Oughta Be in Pictures" to him.

Universal has registered a complaint against the title "Trans-Atlantic Show Boat," claiming it will hurt their flicker, "Show Boat," when they make it. . . . Then there's the director who was making a flicker with a southern locale. . . . Before starting he assembled his cast and said: "This picture has to have all the tradition of the old south, when the south was fighting the east."

Elissa Landi and Phillip Reed are playing love scenes without a camera. . . . Helen Morgan gets her much deserved chance in Hollywood flickers, having just signed to play in two. . . . She will act and sing in "I believed in You" for Paramount and in "Marie Gallant" for Fox.

Director Van Dycke attended the Gus Arnheim opening at the Coconut Grove attired in his marine uniform. . . . When leaving he tripped on the stairs and as he fell a passing waiter gagged, "I see the marines have landed."

Bryant Washburn's former palatial home is now a spaghetti restaurant. . . . Jack Oakie, who takes his romances on the wing, is back with Toby Wing.

Richard Arlen, back from a European vacation, tells about an unusual experience he had in Wales. He and his wife were the special guests at a dinner given by Lady Mannering. During the meal the talk, of course, turned to Hollywood, and motion pictures. After they had been discussing flickers the hostess turned to Arlen and asked: "Tell me, Mr. Arlen, do you live anywhere near the film industry?" . . . Bob Wagner claims that Gloria Swanson is all off his back-to-the-Farmer movement.

Incompatible Friends Should Break Up Now

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She sees him every evening. Every time they are together, she reports, he gets angry over nothing at all. What is "nothing at all" to her, must be pretty painful to him.

"He has such silly ways and ideas," Ray tells. "I try my best to change him, but it is impossible. The more I try, the worse he is."

How can a pair so obviously mismated share evening after evening together?

And why the optimism about trying to make over an adult person? It can't be done. You may gain concessions here and there, but trying to remodel completely a grown up figure is an impossible feat, one we assuredly would not recommend a girl in search of a permanent suitor.

The demon remodelers have a quality in common, we've noticed, which makes their efforts so generally futile. They are so letter-perfect themselves. They can't be told that they themselves could stand a bit of remodeling, too. Consequently, their efforts to improve a fellow-being raise antagonism and nothing else. And presently, their company is avoided.

Better get over the habit, Ray. We know an excellent cure for the malady. Look to the moat in your own eye. Or, if that doesn't mean anything to you, look for something in yourself that could stand revision. We all have something—a number of somethings, the most of us that could stand reform. We have ways and ideas that must appear silly to others. But if others don't harry us with reform attempts, the least we can do in return is to let the other fellow live on peacefully with his faults and foibles.

But, to get down further to your particular case, Ray, that young man whose faults require an entire evening of change effort is not the young man for you. Nor are you the girl for him. Incompatibility is written all over your friendship. And you'd better get out from under the cloud while the going is good. The chap is too weak for a strong minded sister like you, Ray. You need some one who will tell you where to get off at. The fact that this one comes back and back for more of your hectoring indicates he has not the stuff in him to combat a girl like you.

Winter's Party Frocks Obviate Heavy Tan Now

Dark Brown Complexion Is Out of Style.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This year you're not supposed to go in for tan in the big brown way common to yesterday's beach seasons.

Tan, yes, if you're the tanning kind, or if you want to get away from the pale house skin, as it is sometimes called. But the arbiters say that the malacca tones are passé. Nor are you expected to go through the rigors of an oil soaked body under a sizzling, broiling skin, to which the sand and seaweed, ants, and a few other nuisances have a habit of clinging.

Oil yourself, yes, if you're the skin blistering kind. Oil yourself if you want a slight tan, but oil more in the protective sense than in the heavy tan courting one.

And don't get that nice neck of yours all burned into a V monogram. That's an ugly mark for temporary wear and its permanent hold is disheartening.

The general idea is to be consistent with the delicate lady of fashion portrayed in popular frocks of the moment. Well, maybe not delicate, as that doesn't sound quite right for 1934. But you know what I mean. Not too darned robustious!

The trouble with the dark tan, as folk have learned, is that it hangs on into the late fall and sometimes winter season, conflicting in tone with the dance frock. Don't get the idea that a nice tanning isn't still popular. It always was and always will be, and is intensely becoming to some girls. The very dark tan, while it got by in the outdoor summer season, somehow made its owner, in street and party dress later on, look sort of skin soiled beside her clearer skinned competitors.

There are some fine sunburn lotions on the market right now, that are burn preventive as well as tan regulators and tan preventives. You can turn on as much tan as you want with them by putting on a very thin layer of the sunburn cream if you want a light tan or a heavy film of it if you want complete protection against tan. These products serve as good foundation bases for powder.

So as not to miss all the fun, the sensitive skinned, that is, the supersensitive ones whose skins burn after one light caress from Sol, the big burn and blister gent, should double dose their faces with cream. In fact, manufacturers have shown a heart for the type and produced creams particularly designed to keep the sun's rays from penetrating too deeply.

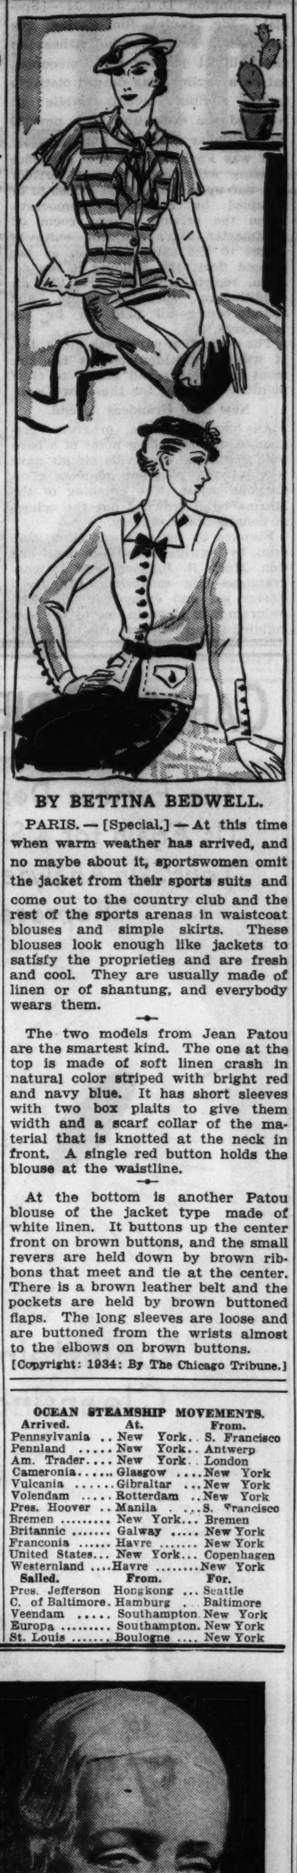
Patou's Blouses of Softest Linen Are Like Jackets



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—At this time when warm weather has arrived, and no maybe about it, sportswomen omit the jacket from their sports suits and come out to the country club and the rest of the sports arenas in waistcoat blouses and simple skirts. These blouses look enough like jackets to satisfy the proprieties and are fresh and cool. They are usually made of linen or of shantung, and everybody wears them.

The two models from Jean Patou are the smartest kind. The one at the top is made of soft linen crash in natural color striped with bright red and navy blue. It has short sleeves with two box plaits to give them width and a scarf collar of the material that is knotted at the neck in front. A single red button holds the blouse at the waistline.

At the bottom is another Patou blouse of the jacket type made of white linen. It buttons up the center front on brown buttons, and the small revers are held down by brown ribbons that meet and tie at the center. There is a brown leather belt and the pockets are held by brown buttoned flaps. The long sleeves are loose and are buttoned from the wrists almost to the elbows on brown buttons.

Bribes Chinese with Pictures of Film Stars

Director Reports They're Better Than Money.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 11.—[Special.]—The depression has made people use some unusual substitutes for money, but Robert Florey, movie director making atmospheric shots for "Oil for the Lamps of China" in interior China, sends back an account that he doesn't attribute to the depression. Florey was making a railroad jump farther inland and the Chinese railroad men put him into a compartment with three Chinese and Mrs. Florey into another compartment with more Chinese.

All the expostulating and tips that Florey tried effected nothing. Finally when he opened his suitcase and the Chinese porter saw that he had a bundle of photographs of Hollywood movie stars (they were pictures of Warner luminaries Florey was taking to pass out to theater operators in Chinese cities) the porter's eye lit up.

Florey offered him one photo of Joe E. Brown if the porter would fix it for Mrs. Florey to join him in his compartment. "No can do," the man said. Florey thereupon offered two photos of Brown, who seems to appeal to the oriental sense of humor. Again the trainman no could do. Finally four photos of Brown proved the charm.

Taking a tip from the experience, Florey found that his photos of Joe E. Brown and Paul Muni served better than currency in obtaining concessions through China. Al Jolson, Kay Francis, and Dick Barthelmess may be pained to learn that their photos were not so much in demand. Florey is due back in Hollywood in a couple of months and the story part of the picture will be shot here.

Doris Lloyd was about to smash a framed picture as called for in the script of "She Was a Lady" when Jack Frier, an electrician, flabbergasted her and her director by stepping forward and begging her not to break it. In the general amazement Frier explained the picture was that of his wife, Fanny Midgley, now dead. Fanny Midgley played rôles for Wally Reid, Charlie Ray, and in many Fox pictures. She died in 1932.

Gladys George, who interrupted a honeymoon to accept a movie contract with M. G. M., phones her wealthy New York husband at 8 o'clock nightly.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

RESPONDING TO ONE NO TRUMP WITH 5-4-2-2 DISTRIBUTION.

In discussing the weakest hands with which to make a takeout in a five card suit I have so far assumed that we were dealing with normal distributions such as 5-3-3-2 or 5-4-2-2. I should add that with 5-4-2-2 I do not consider it necessary to bid the four-card suit secondarily, even if it be a biddable major suit, over a two no trump rebid.

I find it best to treat the majority of such semi-two-suiter hands as one-suiters, and to decide on the second round whether to raise to two no trumps or to rebid the five-card suit solely on the grounds already explained for 5-3-3-2 hands. I am partial to no trump contracts when I give the declarer support or working material in two suits. The fact that I expect him to find practical use for nine of my cards outweighs the weakness of two worthless doubletons.

When the Opener Makes an Appeal.

An exception would occur if the opener suddenly showed a reluctance to rebid in no trumps by raising my first suit. Then, if my second suit were a major and biddable, I would bid it in the expectation that this information would give the needed assurance of safety in no trumps. My partner may well be weak in that second suit, and may be afraid only of that weakness for no trump play. For instance, holding

Sp. K Q x x Di. Q x x x x
Hs. x x x Cl. x x

if the bidding went—one no trump, two diamonds, three diamonds by opening bidder instead of two no trumps, I would infer that my partner wanted me to bid, if I could, a suit of higher rank than the diamonds.

If my secondary suit bid were not the one he was hoping for, he would either pass it or take me back to the first suit. For instance, if with the above hand my second bid of three spades, over his raise in diamonds, did not clear up the no trump situation for him because it was hearts that he needed to know about, he could either pass three spades or bid four diamonds for a safer contract. If he is dangerously weak in hearts, his strength in the other suits should make either contract—three spades or four diamonds, whichever he may prefer—fairly safe.

Since I had bid diamonds first and spades afterward, he would understand that I had only four spades. Otherwise, this order of bidding would result only from six and five card holdings in these suits, respectively.

In such event the responding hand would take control and play the hand in one of the two suits. Declarer knows, of course, that any minor suit in which a take-out is made must be of five or more cards.

When I discuss the rebidding procedure of the opener in a later article it will be far clearer to you why his raise of the responder's suit, in preference to reverting to no trumps, makes it safe and advisable to bid a four-card major secondarily.

5-4-2-2 with Both Major Suits Biddable.

Holding spades K J x x, hearts Q x x x x, with two worthless minor suit doubletons, if the bidding went—one no trump, two hearts, two no trumps—I would bid three hearts as the warning rebid. To bid three spades would be an indication of strength, extremely misleading. However, if on the second round my partner bid three hearts, I would bid three spades.

If that is all he needs to know in order to bid three no trumps, the hand will have been skilfully bid. Possibly his weakness is elsewhere and he had hoped that I could bid [a] a five-card minor suit secondarily to protect his weak spot and make no trumps safe, or [b] three no trumps on distributed protection. Not obtaining a favorable rebid from me, he can bid four hearts. We have a fit in that suit, and no damage of importance can result.

If we are down a trick, it is just an unfortunate hand which would not quite match up. It would have been worse in no trumps, presumably, with less chance of the opponents misplaying the defense. The opener will know that my spades are a four-card holding because I bid hearts, the lower ranging suit, first. This also marks my heart suit definitly as consisting of five cards.

INSULL LOSES SHANGHAI PLEA IN STATE COURT

Wife Starts for Chicago from Athens.

Samuel Insull yesterday lost his fight to escape trial in the state courts on the ground that he had been "shanghaied" from Turkey. Judge James F. Fardy of the Cook county Criminal court denied the plea of Insull's attorney, Floyd E. Thompson, and ruled that Insull must answer to Illinois on two indictments charging embezzlement of the funds of the Middle West Utilities company.

It was the second reverse for Insull on the "shanghai" plea. Last week Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the federal District court overruled Insull's contention that the court lacked jurisdiction.

Another Contest Delayed.

Yesterday Judge Sullivan continued until tomorrow a motion to dismiss both federal indictments against Insull on the ground that the grand jury which voted them was improperly drawn. In the federal court Insull is charged with mail fraud and violation of the bankruptcy laws.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson continued until next Monday a motion for a bill of particulars by Insull's co-defendants in the mail fraud case. This was done to allow Insull to catch up with the other defendants on all motions.

Mrs. Insull to Return.

In spite of the reversal he suffered before Judge Fardy, Insull was cheered during the day by the news that his wife, the former Gladys Wallis of the stage, had arranged to return to Chicago to be at his side during the long court battle which is in prospect.

Samuel Insull Jr. revealed that he had received a cablegram from his mother announcing her departure from Athens for Paris and her plans to come to Chicago. Mrs. Insull was in Athens with her husband during his resistance there of extradition to the United States, but did not accompany him on the flight from Greece which ended in his arrest at Istanbul, Turkey.

Sampsell Pleads Not Guilty.

Marshall E. Sampsell, a former associate of Insull, pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court on a charge of embezzling 4,000 shares of preferred stock of the Central Illinois Public Service company, an Insull subsidiary of which Sampsell was president.

The case was transferred to Judge Michael Feinberg, who said he would hear preliminary motions on June 29. The trial was set to start on July 16.

HOUSE REJECTS 24 MILLION GIFT TO PHILIPPINES

Washington, D. C., June 11.—The house rejected today an administration bill for the payment of nearly 24 million dollars to the Philippine islands in adjustment of their gold currency reserves to the New Deal 59 cent dollar.

Though the measure received a majority vote of 191 to 123, it fell short by a wide margin of the two-thirds ballot required for its passage. House leaders prepared at once to bring it up under procedure that will require only a bare majority.

On Jan. 31, 1934, when President Roosevelt issued his order devaluating the gold dollar, according to the report of the insular affairs committee in charge of the bill, the Philippine government had on deposit in American banks $56,276,056, constituting a major part of the reserves on which the currency of the islands is based.

Because by act of congress the Philippine peso is inextricably tied up with the value of the dollar, the report asserted, it "is obvious that any change in the value of our dollar automatically changes in the same proportion the value of the peso."

"It is also obvious," the committee contended, "that the presidential proclamation in effect expended the currency reserves of the United States, but contracted the reserves of the Philippine government, since the Philippine reserves are in dollars."

STATE SENATOR RESIGNS UNDER GRAFT CHARGES

Malone, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—Warren T. Thayer, 65, veteran Republican state senator under fire on account of his relations with a public utility corporation, resigned today. A special session of the senate had been summoned to convene eight days hence to pass upon his case.

The senate judiciary committee recently investigated Thayer's relations with the Associated Gas and Electric corporation after correspondence between Thayer and company officials had been made public at a hearing before the federal trade commission in Washington.

It was brought out that Thayer had sold to the associated company the Chasm Power company of Chateugay, his home town, in which he held a controlling interest, for more than $80,000 for his stock, plus $21,500 as compensation for the loss of his position as vice president and general manager of the Chasm company. Payment of the salary compensation was spread over a period of five years.

N. S. F., CZECHS SAY TO U. S. ON WAR DEBT DUN

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—Belgium and Czechoslovakia joined today in the parade of European war debtors who have informed the United States they will default on debt instalments due June 15.

Great Britain has previously announced she will "defer" payment of instalments of $261,791,011 falling due on that date.

Finland, which as always paid promptly and in full, is the only nation to announce it will pay its instalment of $166,538 in cash in New York City on Friday.

Ten other nations are to be heard from before the semi-annual due date, June 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—Big, genial Jim Farley, the postmaster general, who dishes out the political pie for the Democrats, sat on a sizzling, flag draped platform today smiling moistly while he watched the dedication of a new 10 million dollar palace of burocracy.

It was Farley's own new postoffice building with corridor upon corridor and tier upon tier of neat offices to be occupied by deserving Democrats. From the private shower room off Postmaster Jim's majestic suite of offices to the shipping room on the ground floor, the building is his domain, replete with comforts like air conditioning, silent elevators, and soundproofing—all paid for by the taxpayers.

The dedication party was Jim's, too. It was as kaleidoscopic as his rise from sandlot baseball player to chief political tactician for the New Deal.

New Deal Grandees Attend.

As the dedication program progressed, the throbbing notes of a baritone lent by a vaudeville circuit gave way to the reverent phrases of a Catholic priest. The crashing of the Marine band drowned out the echoes of congressional oratory.

Flanked by his wife and three children, by bigwigs of the New Deal like Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, and by congressmen and senators, "Big Jim" Farley sat and enjoyed it all. The program was given in one of the new building's huge courtyards, and all the clerks in the postoffice department were given a half day off so that they could attend.

It was a field day for the orators. They all agreed that Jim Farley was the best postmaster general in history not even excepting Benjamin Franklin, and that it took Democrats to give the country a really bang-up postal service.

Wave Arms and Cheer.

Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey, [Dem. Ill.], hooked the department up to Columbus, took a flying leap over the next 199 years down to King William III. of England, and then worked out the history of the postoffice department inch by inch down to the present.

Senator Kenneth McKellar, [Dem. Tenn.], chairman of the senate postal committee, waving his arms, pronounced words like "President Franklin D. Roosevelt," "courage," and "James A. Farley" which brought cheers from the Democratic audience.

The highlight of the program came when the baritone, after breaking the ice of the religious dedication with the popular tune "Wagon Wheels," encored by singing "My Wild Irish Rose" in honor of that son of old Erin, Jim Farley. The crowd cheered.

Postmaster Farley made a speech himself in which he admitted that the postoffice department has been running a deficit year after year, a fact overlooked by Representative James M. Mead, [Dem. N. Y.], chairman of the house postal committee, in a subsequent speech.

DISARM PARLEY QUITS TO AWAIT RETURN OF NAZIS

U. S. Represented on 3 Interim Committees.

GENEVA, June 11.—(AP)—The disarmament conference adjourned today for a long "breathing spell," in which governments will attempt to settle outstanding political difficulties.

Four committees were organized to study various aspects of disarmament, the United States being represented on three of them—the committees on air forces, manufacture and trafic in arms, and guarantees of loyal execution of any future conventions adopted.

The fourth committee will study European security and mutual assistance pacts, and may be extended later to consider such agreements on other continents, particularly the eastern lineup in which soviet Russia is interested.

The program of work was that outlined in the unanimously adopted Franco-British compromise resolution, but there was a lack of unanimity in the acceptance of its operation with regard to security pacts.

Great Britain, represented today by Mrs. Corbett Ashby instead of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, made membership on the fourth committee subject to the understanding that she, as Britain's representative, will not go beyond the Locarno pact in making regional agreements.

Hungary flatly rejected membership on the ground that such agreements would lead "to the old system of alliance." Italy will be an "observer" only, her delegation said, until Germany returns to the conference.

Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, warned that if the governments fail in private negotiations to bring Germany back to the conference, the committee itself will take some action.

While the committee to study aircraft and arms manufacture may begin work within a few days, others are expected to await efforts to persuade Germany to come back to the conference

Fire Levels 75 Year Old Church Near Galena, Ill.

Galena, Ill., June 11.—[Special.]—Fire destroyed today the Prospect Hill Methodist church near Galena, built 75 years ago of lumber hauled by ox teams.

THIEVES LOOT FORMER HOME OF YOUNG INSULL

The island home of Samuel Insull Jr., in Countryside Lake, just west of Libertyville, which has been leased as a summer house by Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, was looted during the week-end by thieves, it was reported yesterday.

Sherif Lester Tiffany was told by two caretakers that the thieves apparently broke the lock on the rowboat, rowed out to the island, and entered the house by breaking the glass in one of the French doors.

President Hutchins, when informed of the looting, said that he had a quantity of furniture, works of art, clothing and jewelry in the house, but did not know what was missing.

CUBS GET HURST IN TRADE; CAMILLI TO PHILS

CARNERA, IN BED ALL DAY, INSISTS HE FEELS O. K.

Handlers Say He Has Slight Cold.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 11.—Champion Primo Carnera, several pounds under the weight at which he wishes to meet Max Baer at Long Island bowl Thursday night, remained in bed all day today at his Pompton Lakes cottage. He was suffering from a slight cold. It was denied he had a temperature.

PRIMO CARNERA.

This complete rest was ordered by his private physician, who visited camp this morning at the request of his trainer, Billy De Foe, who has been concerned for several days by Primo's shedding weight so rapidly.

Manager Louis Soresi, even when apprised rumors were afloat that all was not well, positively refused to allow visiting newspaper men to interview the champion and thus judge for themselves of his condition.

This refusal only added to the various reports now spreading like wildfire that Carnera had a touch of flu, that he was running a temperature, that the battle would be postponed, that his nerves had collapsed under the strain of repeated attempts by the Baer contingent to get his goat—all the reports often prevalent in training camps on the eve of championship bouts.

Finds Primo in Bed.

At 6 o'clock tonight this correspondent insisted on seeing the champion, if he was not seriously ill. I was ushered to the second floor of the cottage domiciling Primo and his immediate retinue, where a private chef provides the food supply.

The Italian was in bed, not prone, but slightly raised. The bed covers, including a blanket, were drawn over him to a point above the waist. Over the upper part of his body, instead of pajamas, were an elbow length undershirt, and a light weight yellow jersey sweater. It was not the garb of an invalid, yet it seemed rather warm for an outside temperature of 75.

"What's the matter?" asked Carnera in real or feigned surprise, assuming a half sitting posture.

"You're supposed to be ill and running a temperature," we replied.

"What, me seeck?" laughed the champion. "Do I look seeck?" he queried, srtetching his arms full length and then bringing his huge palms together with a smack. "That's good. Maybe Baer wish I was seeck. Do I look seeck?" he insisted.

"You didn't look sick last night when you took $8.70 from the boys in that 5 and 10 limit stud game," we replied. "I don't know about today, when you stay in bed all the time and have your food sent up to you."

"I'm all right. Billy [meaning Trainer De Foe] he say I stay in bed and rest. The doctor he say so too. So I do."

Sends Cable to Mother.

Impressed by the many inquiries which his rest, if it be only rest, had elicited, Primo shortly afterward dispatched this cable in Italian to his mother in Sequals, Italy:

"I am in perfect condition to defend my title Thursday. Do not worry. Will cable immediately after event. Hugs and kisses from myself, also Saverino [his brother]." It was signed Primo.

By this time Manager Soresi and Trainer Billy De Foe were swamped by a flood of telephone calls and telegrams from New York, to which the sick rumors had spread. Several newspapers rushed back their correspondents who had left earlier in the day when it was announced the champion would not work.

Soresi Denies Everything.

Manager Soresi denied emphatically in turn, that Carnera had a touch of flu, high temperature, or that he would ask a postponement. De Foe replied with the question: "If our man really was sick, don't you think we'd be asking for a postponement?"

So from the maze of first ambiguous

Carnera Picked by Jeffries to Win Over Baer

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—(AP)—Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, believes Primo Carnera will retain his title when he meets Max Baer.

"Even if Baer is in the best condition I don't think he'll punch straight enough to hit Carnera," Jeffries said today. "I expect to see most of Baer's swings wash up harmlessly on the big fellow's shoulders.

"Carnera, I think, is a better boxer than Baer. My only regret is that they were not around 30 years ago."

Jeffries is conducting an amateur boxing school in southern California and was here to referee a program of amateur bouts.

Ignores Clowning, Tricks to Flash Skill.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Asbury Park, N. J., June 11.—Max Baer, challenger for the heavyweight championship of the world, completed his routine training program here today with five rounds of boxing, followed by some of the most vigorous calisthenics you ever saw.

Manager Ancil Hoffman, Max's manager, was so confident after the workout that he released an open letter to the New York state athletic commission, care of Wild Bill Brown, asking the commission to have an ambulance in front of the Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday night while his boy is fighting Primo Carnera. It was practically the first time Mr. Hoffman has been able to write above a whisper since he played a leading rôle in last week's big gum-up ceremonies.

More ink was given Mr. Hoffman's pen when he received a wire from New York advising him that $215,000 had been locked in the till as a result of the advance sale of seats. Weather being pleasant, this advance flurry indicates a house in excess of double that amount, gents versed in such clairvoyance proclaim.

Today's Drill Best.

Most of the experts thought the workout today was one of the best Max has staged. At that he is in as good shape as any one could expect him to be. He appeared as good as he ever did in his life, said the sages who have watched him train for all his major fights. To a portly fellow who feels pretty good himself, the battler appeared in marvelous shape, even to the vibrancy of the skin about which some of the eastern experts have been worrying so much.

He appeared much faster than yesterday, and in three rounds with Dynamite Jackson and two with Larry Johnson he did some right merry cuffing. Big Seal Harris, retained for his behemoth talents, was given a day off, though he was prepared to lean on Baer after the anticipated fashion of Sig Carnera. Even the toe tromping exercises with brother Buddy Baer were skipped, the day being exclusively devoted to flash, such as it was.

Though it was the last Baer drill, Max will do his sleeping in Asbury Park tonight, tomorrow night, and Wednesday night, according to the present plans. He will continue a house guest on the Shore estate north of here, where for so many hours he has been sort of a cloistered prisoner, guarded constantly from the lure of life's creature comforts.

Big Meeting Today.

Tomorrow morning Max will be motored to New York, leaving here about 11 o'clock. Official orders, confirming earlier less positive instructions demanding the fighter's appearance before the New York commission, were received by Baer shortly before noon today. The exact purpose of the show-up is cloaked in mystery, but it is generally assumed a lot of gents figure it is high time they were busting into a few photographic panoramas. Like baseball umpires, there are always a lot of fellows around every athletic contest who have the idea they are factors in public interest, even though they never had enough athletic knack in their youth to learn to roll a hoop.

Mr. Hoffman, in his letter, requested that the commission do something besides pose for pictures. In fact, he asked for a rules meeting to be held after tomorrow's mystery gathering, in lieu of the hasty instructions generally given by the referee just before a fight.

A Manager's Masterpiece.

"June 11, 1934.

"State Athletic Commission,
"New York, N. Y.

"Attention, Mr. Brown.

"Gentlemen: Just a few lines requesting your coöperation in behalf of Max Baer for his coming title contest with Primo Carnera on June 14.

"Would it be possible to have a meeting regarding the rules and regulations governing this contest

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE all-star interleague baseball game, originated by this department last summer, will be alternated between American and National league parks. . . . The first game was played at Comiskey park. . . . This year's contest is scheduled for the Polo grounds. . . . It will be the American league's turn in 1935 and Cleveland has the inside track. . . . Mrs. Al Espinosa holds the loyalty championship among professional golfers' wives. . . . She has followed her husband over 6,000 miles of golfing real estate. . . . Mrs. Bobby Cruickshank is the runnerup. . . . She might have tied Mrs. Al, but missed two winter tournament campaigns. . . . When Pat Malone meets Babe Herman he addresses him with "Hello, Bulb Nose." . . . The Babe retorts with a friendly "Hello, Jug Head." . . . Klein's name for the Babe is "Feathers," who replies with "Kraut Head."

Lawson Little, British amateur golf champion, has a home-made club in his bag. . . . It is an iron which he made just before the 1929 amateur at Pebble Beach, Cal. . . . Willis Ward, one man track team at Michigan, scored 109 of the Wolverines' 427 points this season. . . . During the indoor campaign he made 73 of his team's 238 total. . . . He was entered in 15 events indoors and won 14 firsts and a second. . . . Despite recurrent injuries outdoors he was high point man for his team in each meet. . . . Harry Mendel, six day bicycle race impresario, widely known in Chicago, has evolved a political slogan and now is looking for an office for which to run. . . . The slogan is, "Mend with Mendel and avoid a skendel." . . .

Now for the lowdown on how George White of Chicago landed his job as trainer of the St. Louis Browns. . . . He wrote Rogers Hornsby last fall asking for work. . . . Hornsby responded that White should call on him during the American league meeting in Chicago last December. . . . White presented himself at Hornsby's room. . . . "I have some very good references, Mr. Hornsby," White said. . . . "Throw them out the window," retorted the Browns' manager. . . . "Give me a demonstration. I have been around a few years and I know trainers." . . . Hornsby got the demonstration and White got the job. . . . Jack Blackburn, who served as trainer for Sammy Mandell and Bud Taylor, took 'em as they came when he was fighting 25 years ago. . . . Jack weighed less than 140 pounds. . . . In one year he encountered Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, who came in at 158; George Memsic, 133, and John Wellie, 195. . . .

There are some famous names in present day minor league box scores. . . . Cobb plays first base for Charleroi in the Pennsylvania State association. . . . Gomez plays shortstop for Beckley in the Mid-Atlantic league and Benton pitches for Charleroi. . . . Grimm is pitching for Zanesville and Grimes for Huntington, W. Va. . . . Traynor is playing first base for St. Joseph, Mo., and Rickey pitches for Sioux City, Ia. . . . Comiskey is third baseman for New Bedford, Mass., while Cronin plays shortstop for Hartford. . . . Vance pitches for Dallas, Tex., and Hubbell for Galveston. . . . Lyons burns 'em over for Houston and Piet holds down second base for Winnipeg. . . . Falk is playing short for Peoria and Schalk is Newark's second baseman. . . . There are two named Simmons in the minors, one pitching for Reading and the other playing third base in the West Dixie league. . . . Terry pitches for Fort Wayne, Gibson for Grand Rapids, and French for Shreveport. . . .

Charles Bernard, Michigan's great football center, may sign soon with the Boston Redskins. . . . There will be a charity game at Mills stadium June 27 for Ed Boissy, one of the pioneers in amateur and semi-pro baseball around Chicago. . . . Mr. Boissy has been extremely ill and his family is almost destitute. . . . The ball game will be between the Mills and the Miller High Lifes. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Harold Osborn of the I. A. C. broke his own world record for the decathlon in the final tryouts for the American Olympic team. . . . Alexander won his eighth straight game when he pitched the Cubs to a 7 to 2 triumph over Brooklyn. . . . Jim Barnes was the only American to qualify in the British 1,000 guinea tournament. . . . Ray Schalk was injured by a foul ball as the Sox beat Philadelphia, 10 to 2.

RULES OF CONTEST—Pick the nine players who you think will be in the starting lineup for the American league when the inter-league game is played in New York July 10. Then do the same for the National league. Send your selections, accompanied by a 300 word letter explaining the reasons for your choices, to the All Star Game Editor, Chicago Tribune. The winner will receive $250 in cash. Players must not be switched from their regular positions. The two major league baseball writers and the sports editor of The Tribune will decide the winner. Points considered will be accuracy of the selections, neatness and soundness of reasons. In case of a tie a duplicate award will be given. Entries close July 4.

The first ballot in THE TRIBUNE'S $250 All Star game baseball contest was cast by A. W. Ladwig of Hinsdale, Ill. His selections for the interleague game to be played in New York July 10, were on the desk of the editor handling the votes a few hours after the edition announcing the contest was on the streets.

The fan who comes closest to naming the starting lineups and who writes the best 300 word explanation for his selections will receive a cash award of $250. A ballot will be found in this edition of THE TRIBUNE. Fill it out and sent it to the All Star Game editor at once. Your lineups will be forwarded to New York, where the nation-wide vote is being tabulated. Players receiving the maximum number of votes will appear in the game unless the managers rule that one or more favorites are physically unable at the time of the game to measure up to the fans' appraisal of their worth.

Ladwig's Two Teams.

Ruth's Last Chance?

Explaining his selections, Mr. Ladwig writes: "My choices are based upon the words "All star team." I have selected for each position the player who is most popular, the most spoken of. In the present league races there may be a player outshining my star in his position, but mine is the one everybody knows because they have read so much about him.

"For example, Ruth. He still is the idol of the fans. He still is able to break up a game. The customers should have a chance, perhaps the last one, to see him."

HUSSARS' POLO TEAM DEFEATS AMERICANS, 16-12

HURLINGHAM, England, June 11.—(AP)—The invading United States polo team today found an eight goal handicap too big an obstacle to overcome and lost to the 15th and 19th Hussars Regimental Four, 16 to 12. Seymour Knox, leader of the Americans, scored seven of his team's goals.

In the Ranelagh Open Cup, Prince Alexis Mdivani's Devils were defeated by Somerles House, 6 to 4, the winner qualifying to meet Knox's Aurora team in the semi-finals. The princess, the former Barbara Hutton, saw the game.

CHANGE UNIFORMS

Don Hurst, first baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, will be in a Cub uniform this afternoon as result of a trade which sent Dolph Camilli to Phils.

Dolph Camilli, a Cub since last summer, will be on the other side today as the Bruins open series with Phils at Wrigley field.

Mason Wins from Smith on Foul in 14th Round

BIRMINGHAM, England, June 11.—(AP)—Harry Mason, London, retained his British welterweight championship tonight, winning on a foul from Len [Tiger] Smith, Birmingham, in the 14th round of a 15 round bout. Smith was disqualified for hitting low. Mason weighed 145½ pounds; Smith 140¾.

Lasky Fights Levinsky on Coast Tonight

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—(AP)—King Levinsky, the Chicago fish peddler, and Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight, brought their training programs to a conclusion today for their ten round bout tomorrow night, with the Minnesota farm boy a 10 to 8 favorite.

A sellout was predicted for the bout which was delayed a month by the sudden trip Levinsky made to Chicago after the state athletic commission ruled he was in fit condition to fight.

Levinsky was expected to weigh 205 pounds and Lasky 200. A favorite up to the time of his abrupt departure before the previously scheduled bout, Levinsky has not shown much in the way of good form in the gymnasium.

Lasky's handlers denied rumors from his training camp that he was stale as a result of the long period of preparation.

George Blake, who was scheduled to referee the original bout, was expected to be chosen by the commission to work the fight.

DODGERS DROP HOGG TO TAKE ON TOM ZACHARY

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Dodgers today released Sonny Hogg, infielder, on option to Richmond of the Piedmont league to make room for Tom Zachary, veteran pitcher. Zachary was made a free agent by Boston recently and was immediately signed by the Dodgers. His addition to the squad put Brooklyn one over the player limit of 23, so Hogg was let go.

1929—Philadelphia	.304
1930—Philadelphia	.327
1931—Philadelphia	.305
1932—Philadelphia	.339
1933—Philadelphia	.267
All time average	.305

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Don Hurst, first baseman for the Philadelphia National league club, will wear a Cub uniform when the Phillies open their four game series at Wrigley field this afternoon. The Cubs yesterday traded Dolph Camilli, who came from Sacramento at the end of last season to serve as understudy to Manager Charley Grimm, for the Philadelphia first baseman. President William M. Walker of the Cubs said it was an even exchange.

Hurst, who has a lifetime batting average of .305, slumped at bat and afield this season and recently was replaced at first base by Bud Clancy, formerly of the White Sox. He has been hitting at a .266 pace whereas Camilli's average is .275. Manager Grimm, however, wanted a player of longer experience as a reserve at his position.

Hurst's best year in the majors was 1932, when he hit .339 in 150 games. He fell off to .267 last season. He is 28 years old, bats left handed, and throws right handed. Camilli bats and throws left handed.

16 Games at Home.

The Cubs today will start on a sixteen day job that will call for a lot of skill and ingenuity. It is made up of sixteen games at Wrigley field, four with each of the eastern members of the National league, and when that's completed you will know more than at present about who is going to win the pennant and why.

That stretch of sixteen games will bring the Cubs close to the July 4 mark. It is an old saying that the team in first place on that day is the prospective flag winner. It frequently works out that way. Therefore the Cubs, to be in on this advance chance, will have to tear through the impending sixteen battles with considerable vigor and continue through seven other games which come between the finish of the eastern invasion and July 4. Whether the Cubs have sufficient vigor for such a performance is doubtful.

Pitching Staf Is Weak.

The season now is eleven weeks old and the Cubs are confronted with the same weakness that has embarrassed them since they won their first seven games. The defect is in the pitching department. It is only on rare occasions that Manager Grimm is able to come up with a nine inning worker. As long as that condition prevails there isn't much use worrying about a front row world series seat at Wrigley field.

There's another factor about the Cubs that should serve as a warning to those who have insisted right along that Grimm has a pennant winning combination. They aren't having much good luck. They have had at least one man out of action every playing day of the season, and this has hurt. It is customary for ill luck of this kind to remain with a team all year. The current cripple is Guy Bush, whose side injury has kept him out of three series, but he hopes to resume work in about a week.

Babe Herman Carries On.

If it hadn't been for the sudden and unexpected revival of Babe Herman as a hitter there would be a lot more for the super-enthusiasts to moan about. Early in the season Herman was given innumerable chances but flopped each time. Tuck Stainback, the rookie, faded when he was awarded Babe's berth, and Riggs Stephenson, when given a summons, showed he had slowed down considerably in all departments. There was nothing to do except to put Babe back and trust that he might get going, something he hadn't done since the Cubs bought him after the 1932 season. The Babe is going now, even to the extent of hitting left handers whom he always wanted to dodge.

There is something slightly wrong, however, with Chuck Klein's hitting, even though he has collected a sizeable portion of home runs. If Klein can get up to his former Philly pace and Babe Herman can continue to get his name in the headlines it will help to overcome at least some of the bad pitching. But hitting alone won't lift the north siders into first place.

For this afternoon's opener with the Phillies, Jim Weaver will have his formal unveiling before Chicago fans. Weaver now is a full fledged regular as the result of beating the Reds on one run and shutting out the Cardinals.

GOLF PUPILS IN TRIBUNE SCHOOL TO STUDY SWING

Start 2d Week of Free Classes Tonight.

THE TRIBUNE'S second annual free golf school, which mustered an astounding enrollment of more than 23,000 in its initial session, enters upon its second week tonight with classes for men at all of the nineteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, sponsor of the plan for the second consecutive year.

All lessons this week—for men, women, boys, and girls—will be devoted to the backswing and the finish of the swing. Each pupil is asked to bring a brassie to the lessons. If you don't own one, borrow one.

The enthusiasm with which the opening announcement of the school was greeted two weeks ago was surpassed when classes began. The expectations of even the most ardent of the daily fee course operators and professionals were exceeded not only in the number of pupils but also in the spirit with which the students responded. In most cases those who had come for the one hour lessons lingered on long after class to ask questions.

Sunday's Classes Success.

Tonight's men's classes at the six inner courses—Mid-City, Evergreen, Harlem, Big Oaks, Chicago Meadows, and Golfmoor—will open at 7:30 p. m., and on the thirteen outlying courses—Twin Orchards, Techny Fields, Oak Hills, Hickory Hills, Northbrook, Westgate Valley, Indian Head, Cog-Hill, Vernon, Big Run, Walnut Hills, Elmgate, and Mission Hills—at 8 p. m. The actual lessons will last only one hour to insure all pupils of an equal amount of instruction.

The success of the first Sunday classes, held at Northbrook, Vernon, Big Run, Techny Fields, Mission Hills, and Chicago Meadows, which drew more than 500 pupils who either had missed the opening lesson or wished a repetition of instruction given during the week, was such that all six courses will continue to hold Sunday classes throughout the course of the school.

Cog-Hill will not only give the regular ladies' lesson tomorrow night according to Marty Coghill, but also has invited the pupils taking part in the couples' division to attend. A dance for all present is planned.

Adams Enters Tourney.

Harry Adams of Hickory Hills, will compete in the western open championship at Peoria Friday, Saturday and Sunday, necessitating a change in the schedule at the south side course. Since he will leave tomorrow night, immediately after the regular class for women, Harry has postponed the juniors' Friday night class and has asked all in the couples division who wish to come out tonight or tomorrow night to do so. All those who miss this week's lessons can make them up at Hickory Hills next week.

Tom Geary of Indian Head, one of the three west side courses, reports that even though the school has been in operation only one week, he will have considerable difficulty in naming the winners in his junior class for the final form and medal play competitions, so keen is the interest in this division. In addition, he numbers among his pupils four couples all of them 70 years of age and over, and all beginners.

May Change Schedule.

Another adjustment may be necessary in the couples and junior classes. Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley discovered that a number of parents in the couples' division wished to bring their children with them, rather than send them to the regular Friday night classes, which in a number of cases, due to the ages of the children, would require trips to the course on consecutive nights. Walsh has agreed to allow these to bring the juniors on Thursday, the couples night, as far as Westgate Valley is concerned, an idea which may be taken up by other courses. The decision on this point will be announced later this week.

Stars Compete in Western Open Golf Tourney Friday

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

More than 200 of the nation's leading professional and amateur players have entered the Western open golf tournament, which will get under way Friday at the Country Club of Peoria, according to officials of the Western Golf association. The tourney will consist of 18 holes each on Friday and Saturday, with the final 36 holes to be played Sunday. The country club course is one of the most picturesque in the central states, covering 6,040 yards, with a par of 72. The record for the course is 66.

Among the late entries received are those of Tommy Armour, Dick Metz, and Johnny Lehman, Chicago; Ky Laffoon, Denver, Colo.; Jimmy Thompson, Los Angeles, Cal.; Willie Goggin and Mark Fry, San Francisco, Cal.; Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, Ark.; Jack Grout, Fort Worth, Tex., and Byron Nelson, Texarkana, Tex. Walter Hagan, five times winner of the event, also is expected to be present, seeking his sixth western open title.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association held its weekly south section team matches yesterday at Olympia Fields and Beverly. June Beebe of Olympia Fields turned in the best individual card at Beverly, shooting a 46—38—84. In the team matches in the first division, Olympia Fields defeated Lincolnshire, 7 to 5, in the second division, Midlothian won from Olympia Fields, 8½ to 3½; South Shore was an 8 to 4 victor over Ridge in the third division, and also won in the fourth with a 9 to 3 decision over Ridge.

In the matches at Olympia Fields, the Ridge B team won from the Beverly B team in the first division, 7½ to 4½; the Calumet team defeated Southmoor, 8½ to 3½; Beverly won from Flossmoor in the third division, 6½ to 5½, and scored again in the fourth section with a 10 to 2 victory over Lincolnshire. Diane Marks of Calumet led the scores with an 87.

The Indian Wood daily fee golf course, located near Matteson, Ill., now is open for play. The club is under the management of Charles E. Maddox, who has done considerable work on the course, which is in excellent condition, particularly the greens. The clubhouse and swimming pool have been renovated.

A field of nearly 200 Chicago district golfers will tee off at the Sunset Ridge Country club tomorrow in the Winnetka course's annual invitational tournament, the Stampede. Play will start at 8 a. m. and will continue throughout the day. A list of 25 prizes will be awarded at a dinner following the golf.

It will be the first big tournament held over the club's improved course, made possible this year by the installation of a complete fairway watering system. All greens and fairways are in perfect condition for the Stampede, according to Dave Tosh, club professional, who has spent the last week supervising the finishing touches on the changes in the course.

The Itasca Country club will hold its annual Fun Fun day Thursday, with a field of more than 250 members and guests anticipated.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will conduct the first Illinois state championship at the Evanston Golf club Aug. 6 through Aug. 10. Gov. Horner will donate the championship cup to be held by the winner of the tournament for one year. All golfers residing in Illinois who are members of private accredited clubs and have a handicap of scratch through 20 are eligible. The names of players having similar handicaps shall be drawn and paired for play in the qualifying round. The pairings for match play will be based on qualifying scores. All players entering will qualify—consolation in all flights. Sixteen will qualify in each flight and the number of flights will be regulated by the number of entries.

All entries must be in by July 23, since no post entries will be allowed. The entry fee is $3. When sending entries, players also should send score cards showing par for their respective courses and five scores made during the 1934 season. Address communications to Mrs. George C. Davis, 136 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

Schildberg Is Medalist in Junior Golf

Edwin O. [Bud] Schildberg of North Shore led a large field over the revamped La Grange course yesterday in the Chicago district junior golf tournament. He had a card of 77-75—152 to take the medalist honors, and lead class B players, 18 years and under 20 years. Winfield Day of Elmhurst, who won last year when Schildberg finished second, and E. D. Wietecha and Peter Gouzoulas, both of Ridgemoor, had 154.

Three-putting destroyed Schildberg's rounds. He needed extra strokes on nine holes. His card:

CONNIE MACK SEES INDIANA BEAT TEMPLE, 6-4

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11.—(AP)—Indiana university's baseball team defeated Temple, 6 to 4, today to remain undefeated on its eastern trip, which began Saturday at Rutgers.

Wilshire, Indiana pitcher, struck out 15 and allowed only six hits. Howarth, Indiana's first baseman, batted in four runs, with a homer and a double, leading the attack against Eddie Cramer, Temple's veteran lefthander, who will join the Washington Senators this week. It was Cramer's first defeat this year, against eight straight victories. The game was witnessed by Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

DOCTOR ORDERS DUTRA TO FOREGO WESTERN OPEN

Might Endanger His Life, Champion Told.

New York, June 11.—[Special.]—Olin Dutra, United States open golf champion, spent today in New York learning what it is to be famous.

In his suite at the Delmonico hotel the Californian was engaged from early morning until late at night answering telephones, acknowledging congratulatory telegrams, receiving callers, making new tie-ups, reciting his past and doing everything but what the thing he should do—rest.

He is far from recuperated from the ailment that laid him low shortly after he left California bound for the championship and that kept him abed in Detroit for four days when he should have been at Merion, tuning up.

Can't Play in Western Open.

In spite of his weakened condition the thing that is worrying him more than anything else is his inability, because of his doctor's orders, to play in the western open at Peoria, Ill., this week.

"They've always been so nice to us boys from California that I hate to disappoint them," said Olin, "but it can't be helped, for the doctor advises me that to go through another grind so soon might even endanger my life. After all, there'll be another western open."

Won by Driving Straight.

Dutra dealt upon his preparation for the open tournament, remarking that "no man in an open championship is any better than his drives."

"For several months prior to the championship I went out on my course and picked out a perfect spot on which to get my drive under complete control," he said. "I had enough knowledge of the Merion course to know that a man had to be straight off the tee in order to get anywhere, and so I picked out a spot where my drives had to go between two trees 200 yards or more out.

"I spent hours doing nothing except driving golf balls until I got so I could split the narrow distance between those two trees without a miss. When I came to Merion the fairways, narrow as they were, looked like wide open spaces to me.

"Even when I started the final round eight strokes behind Bobby Cruickshank and with so many good golfers out in front of me I still felt that I had a good chance. I wasn't at all downcast over my lot for I was hitting the ball well and I had been telling the boys in the locker room all along that a man could even start the last round six strokes behind and still win."

TRY Bayuk

"PHILLIES"

5¢ Formerly 10¢

No matter what cigar you now buy—or what price you are accustomed to pay—try this simple experiment.

We can't guarantee the result—of course. But dealers say this. "Phillies" is now preferred—and smoked—by men who previously paid double and even triple its price for their cigars.

Remember. "Phillies" is not a regular 5c cigar. It's America's former largest-selling 10c brand—reduced to 5c. The same in quality—in size—in shape. Read Bayuk's Guarantee.

Look for the box of "Phillies" on your dealer's counter. If you don't see the box—ask for "Phillies" and be sure you get this greater cigar value for 5c.

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

NEEDLE CARRIES WIDENER COLORS TO EASY VICTORY

Takes Early Lead, Keeps It to Finish.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Joseph E. Widener's scarlet and white jacket again was prominent in the racing at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. His gray filly, Needle, a daughter of Stefan the Great-Thread, galloped away with the Peonies purse, a dash for 2 year olds which engaged a field of six. She did a right handy job of beating the favorite, Polly Rita, by a length and a half.

Once she took the lead twenty strides out of the starting gate, Needle never left the result in doubt. She sailed out into a lead of two lengths, increased it to three on the turn, then threw back Polly Rita's challenge when that filly moved up from last place. Needle coasted home with plenty in reserve.

Myrtle Gives Up.

Myrtle Brooks, owned by T. C. Worden of Chicago, furnished most of the contention a good part of the way. The heroic attempts she made to overhaul the fleet Needle took all the run out of her, and when the real battle started in the stretch she had only enough left to shake off the trailers and save third money.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's Blessed Again, which showed fine early speed, but which evidently needed this race to put her in her finest fettle, finished fourth. Ima Greenock was fifth and the oddly named Whoami ran last.

Blessed Again, on looks, is about 100 per cent better than Needle, but could not run that way in this race. A wild guess is that Blessed Again will be running away from horses like Needle, Polly Rita and Myrtle Brooks before the season is much older.

Nears Track Record.

Needle, which was sort of lost in the betting when a big plunge came on Polly Rita and quite a play developed on Myrtle Brooks, ran one of the fastest five furlongs of the Washington Park season when she stepped the distance in 1:00 2-5. This was just a second off the track record.

Needle rewarded the faithful Widener horse followers with a mutuel of $13.62 to win, $3.44 to place and $2.34 to show. She was ridden by Jockey O. Harbort. She carried 112 pounds, the same weight assigned all her rivals except Ima Greenock, which had 109 pounds up.

Harbort gave Needle a rousing ride all the way. It was his second victory of the afternoon. Earlier in the day he had brought Grayback from far back to capture the third race and complete a daily double which paid $50.26. Ondott had won the second race at odds of nearly 9 to 1.

Vanita Is Willing, Anyway.

The most exciting race of the day was the first, which also engaged 2 year olds. This one found Vanita, owned by Clyde Van Dusen of Kentucky, the winner by a neck over the heavily backed Bossie Eye from the Brentwood stable, which had recently claimed the horse from the Bradley stable.

Vanita ran so greenly she hardly knew which way to go. One instant she swerved in and the next instant she swerved out. Jocky H. Tinker had all he could do to keep her running straight enough to get the decision. Vanita was at nearly 4 to 1 in the betting, while Bossie Eye was an odd on favorite.

N.C.A.A. Picks 164 Stars for Track Games

The National Collegiate Athletic association has named 164 outstanding track and field stars from all parts of the nation to compete in the annual championship meet at Los Angeles, June 22-23, Thomas Nelson Metcalf, University of Chicago athletic director and chairman of the selection committee, announced yesterday.

To obtain the best possible field, Southern California has guaranteed $20,000 to bring the athletes to Los Angeles. The host institution will recover the guarantee if the profits reach $20,000. Any additional profit will be pro-rated among athletes not on the guarantee list.

Seventy-four institutions are represented in the selections. Princeton's Bill Bonthron, Glenn Cunningham, Kansas, and Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania, the famous mile trio, are included, assuring another of their great battles.

For the first time in the history of the meet, the University of Michigan did not have a man named. Willis Ward, Negro star, was not chosen because of an injury.

Central [Mich.] Teachers—Peter Troy, discus.

They Like Senators Whom They Play Today.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—This was a pleasant day for the last place White Sox. It was a day of idleness—doubly welcome in view of the Sox's recent record, because it meant they could not lose a ball game. Moreover, since their last start was a 3 to 1 victory over the league leading Detroit Tigers, the boys enjoyed the unaccustomed pleasure of gloating over victory for two consecutive days.

Most of them spent the day lounging about the cool and spacious quarters of the hotel, recovering from the effects of a speedy but rough sleeper jump from Detroit.

Sox Favor Senators.

The probable outcome of the American league race, and the possibility of important trades before the deadline at midnight, June 15, were the chief topic of conversation. Few of the White Sox favor Detroit, despite the Tigers' fine showing of recent weeks, and their nine victories in 12 games against the Sox.

Most of the players, and especially his old teammates at Philadelphia, believe Manager Mickey Cochrane's moody temperament will spell disaster for the Tigers, especially if they fall into a slump.

The general opinion among the Sox is that Washington's 1933 champions still are the team to beat. This despite the fact that the Senators have been none too successful to date. The chief reason for this belief is that the Senators are seasoned, experienced warriors, who will be at their best in the latter months of the campaign, when teams like the Tigers, Browns, and Indians are apt to crack. A strong second choice among the Sox are the New York Yankees.

Trade Prospects Remote.

As for trades, few members of the Sox anticipate being sent elsewhere. Other clubs are willing to take over five or six members of the Chicago troupe, but none of them are willing to offer anything in return. Cleveland, for instance, would like Appling, but isn't willing to part with Oral Hildebrand, Monte Pearson, or Mel Harder, whom the Sox covet.

Washington would like Ted Lyons, Sam Jones, or Milt Gaston, but the Senators would never give up Walter Stewart or Earl Whitehill.

Detroit would like Al Simmons, but hasn't a chance. Talk has been revived of a straight trade between the Tigers and Sox, involving outfielders Mule Haas and Frank Doljack, but the deal fell through more than a month ago, and hardly can be made now. Altogether, trade prospects are very remote.

The Sox will open their longest eastern trip tomorrow, when they meet the Senators in the first of a four-game series. Before they head back for Detroit, June 28, they must play 19 games in 16 days. On their first eastern trip, the Sox won two games and lost eight.

Lyons will pitch the series opener tomorrow, and Whitehill will work for the Senators.

HORNSBY TO BE FIELDER

St. Louis, Mo., June 11.—(AP)—American league pitchers are in for some unhappy afternoons and sleepless nights, for Rogers Hornsby is going to return to regular duty—this time in the outfield.

As soon as his wrist, injured by one of Mel Harder's pitches in Cleveland recently, improves sufficiently, Hornsby will take over the right field job for his St. Louis Browns, at least when a southpaw is pitching for the enemy. And if all goes well, he'll be in there every afternoon.

Idle in New York today, Hornsby had time to worry about the recent perceptible decline in the Browns' attack—and what to do about it. The "what," he decided, was for him to take over the right field post, at least against left handers.

If he shares the job with any one, it will be with Debs Garms, potent enough against right handers, but nothing for the southpaws to worry about. Bruce Campbell, who started the season as the right fielder, probably will be kept for pinch hitting duty.

In seven games against the White Sox and Indians, the Browns hit only .258, in contrast to the better than .300 pace during their long stand at home.

Hornsby also has about decided to send Allan Strange back to shortstop, with Ollie Bejma resuming his old place on the bench. Bejma flashed for a while, but he has a "second base" arm, which prevents him from throwing out fairly fast men from deep short.

Except for one game at third base, Hornsby's playing activities this season have been confined to pinch hitting.

PIPGRAS TO HAVE OPERATION; PUT ON RETIRED LIST

Boston, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox today placed George Pipgras, veteran righthanded pitcher, on the voluntary retired list. He has entered a hospital to undergo a second operation on his pitching arm since last August.

Pipgras, one of the first players purchased by Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins in the rebuilding of the Red Sox, was hampered by a chipped elbow last season. He has not been able to start a game this season. X-rays recently revealed a growth was cramping his elbow.

The hurler, who was with the Red Sox in 1921, was purchased from the New York Yankees, along with Bill Werber, Early in 1933. Most of his major league service was with the Yankees, where his nine year record was 102 victories and 72 defeats.

right after the examination on Tuesday afternoon, June 12?

"I am making this request due to the fact that when instructions are given by the referee at the ringside, when the fighters are in an excited state of mind, they do not get a chance to fully comprehend them. Dangers from clubbing, fouling, backhanding, rabbit or kidney punching is thereby greatly reduced.

"Having been at the ringside during three of Max's contests, wherein one of his opponents died from the results and two others were seriously endangered, I believe it would be a great protection to both fighters to have an ambulance at the front gate in case of an emergency.

"Now, regarding the referee, Max wishes he be given some consideration. He does not feel he can fight at his best form with Arthur Donovan as the third man. Also he does not think any frail man would be capable of handling two big men—he had such an experience in Madison Square Garden on a previous occasion. I am,

"Sincerely,
"ANCIL HOFFMAN,
"Manager, Max Baer."

Max Still Kids.

Though Baer did no physical clowning in his final workout, he was in good voice, kidding with the spectators and the press section. His mental attitude was deemed to be to his advantage. They don't want Max too calm, but they know he wouldn't be himself if he were too highly ribbed up. Today his boosters gave him a better chance than ever to become the champion, most of them seeming to agree that the best opportunities will come in the first six rounds.

FIVE WRESTLING MATCHES CARDED FOR WHITE CITY

Mique Malloy and Dunk Boyle tonight will inaugurate wrestling at the White City arena, 63d street and South Park avenue, with a card of five matches. Julius [Mephisto] Woronick wrestles Charley Peterson in a 90 minute match. Woronick was originally scheduled to meet Al Stecher, but the latter suffered an injury when he fell from the ring in one of his recent matches.

Stan Buresch, Australian light heavyweight, will wrestle George Jonasen in a 30 minute bout. Bull Curry meets Frank Clemens, Battle Creek, in another 30 minute match, and Karl von Lehman goes against Ralph Garibaldi, St. Louis. Jimmy Demetral, light heavyweight, faces Jimmy Creta.

Emmett Murphy, Former Notre Dame Back, Weds

Notre Dame, Ind., June 11.—[Special.]—Emmett Murphy of Duluth, Minn., quarter back on the Notre Dame football teams in 1930, 1931, and 1932, was married this morning in the Notre Dame log chapel to Miss Virginia Comerford of Melrose park, Ill. Murphy will be assistant football coach to Ed [Moose] Krause at St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn., next fall.

Marauding Bear Tears Up Potato Hills for Food

BY BOB BECKER.

If you ever plant a patch of potatoes in a wilderness area of the upper peninsula of Michigan, you had better use something besides fish for fertilizer. Utilization of fish to fertilize the ground in which potatoes are planted is apt to be a total loss if a black bear comes around the garden patch. Old Bruin will break down the fence and dig up the potatoes in order to feed upon the fish fertilizer.

A few days ago when we were trout fishing in the upper peninsula of Michigan we came upon a small, crudely-worked garden patch near a trout stream. The patch had just been raided by a hungry bear and what this old fellow had done to it was a caution! We had parked our automobile about a half mile from the northern shore of Lake Michigan, where a dandy little trout stream flows into the lake. From this spot we planned to walk up the stream to fish a deep beaver dam.

As we got out of the car to collect our fishing gear and start the hike, we saw old Pete, a professional market fisherman operating on Lake Michigan, walking toward us on a tote road. [His cabin is located on the trout stream nearby, a stream up which the rainbows swim every spring.]

Pete was in a black rage. He carried a high powered rifle in his right hand, the left being free to wave mosquitoes away and also to emphasize his profanity. As soon as greetings had been exchanged, Pete started to bless out the blankety-blanked bear that just raided his potato patch. Turning around we walked over about 50 feet to look at the damage done by this member of the bear tribe.

Then Pete explained how he had collected a lot of suckers during the spawning run of this worthless fish and used them as fertilizer in a sandy patch of ground for the benefit of the planted potatoes. [If we remember our history correctly, there is a story about the early settlers in America putting fish in hills of corn to fertilize the seed.]

This job of planting fish with the potatoes was a fine idea, except for the fact that bears like fish. A black bear came prowling around the garden patch, smelled the fish in the ground, and promptly began to excavate a fine meal.

We could see where the animal had lifted his heavy body over the crude fence, breaking it down. Then there were hills after hills of potatoes, ruthlessly torn apart by the bear. As we started our hike to our fishing hole, we left Pete still swearing at the marauder. He said he had taken a shot at the blankety-blanked animal, but was afraid he would come back again and do another potato and fish digging job. The shot had missed.

Young Bill Ingram Enters Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., June 11.—[Special.]—Young Bill Ingram, the second generation of the navy's most noted athletic family, has entered the Naval academy. Young Bill is the son of Capt. Jonas H. Ingram, football player and oarsman, later football coach and athletic director at the academy, and is the nephew and namesake of Bill Ingram, for five years the head football coach at the academy, now coach at California.

Carnera in Bed All Day, but Is O. K., He Says

statements, later denials which did not totally deny and were misleading, will come the answer tomorrow, when Carnera appears before the New York state boxing commission, along with Baer, for the final physical examination ordered by the board. If no request is made for postponement it will be self-evident that Carnera's manager and trainer think him fit to meet the Livermore Larruper.

Obviously a man wouldn't stay in bed all day just to rest if his condition were all that was desired. When that was called to Defoe's attention, he retorted, "the only way to get him to rest is to keep him in bed. He's on edge now. We don't want his past the peak."

Primo Is Underweight.

Carnera has been ready for a week. Defoe said yesterday that if it were not for disappointing the large crowd Primo would not have worked. He sweated off eight pounds in five rounds on a covered platform, but with the thermometer over 90 in the shade. Announcement of his weight was refused. Later it was learned to have been 254 after the workout. This morning it was 256. That is eight or ten pounds less than it should be at this time, 3 to 5 pounds less than the poundage at which he hoped to enter the ring.

Soresi likewise had plenty of explanations.

"The Italian physician here this morning is our personal doctor. He has been here several times before. He checks on Primo about twice a week. He happened to come today."

Rumorsmiths Are Busy.

Sudden shift in the rumor of poor condition from Baer last week to Carnera today was not without its humorous feature. Curiosity seekers who consider a pugilistic figure a public exhibit to be seen at any time besieged the cottage with pleas they be allowed to shake hands with the champion. To still them, they were told Carnera was not in camp. This was not so, and soon the rumor was out that Carnera had deserted his training camp, had run out of the match, and had gone to a seaside resort to recuperate.

Thought that Carnera will engage in any more strenuous work, despite announcement of a workout tomorrow, was negatived by the fact that Corn Griffin and Lou Flowers, two of his three sparring partners, packed their equipment and left for New York this afternoon. Chester Matan remained at the camp to afford whatever exercise might be wished for the defending chapion.

Another development of the day was the appearance of Trainer Mike Cantwell of the Baer camp, who drove up from Ashbury Park. In his typical jovial way he explained, "I just came up for a joke." If the purpose was to get on Carnera's nerves with the presence of a "spy" from the enemy camp forces, it was futile. He did not see Carnera, who was not even told of the incident. Cantwell finally departed in the same breezy manner.

Corbett Faces Salvatore in Western Ring

Geno Salvatore, undefeated La Salle, Ill., lightweight boxer, will make his first appearance in an eight round fight tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues, against Tommy Corbett, Omaha, Neb., in what is expected to be his hardest bout.

Salvatore, 1931 Golden Gloves champion from Streator who was featherweight runnerup to Joe Roman in 1932, has scored victories in 12 of his professional bouts. On May 22 he whipped Lou Terry, who had been awarded a six round draw in a battle with Geno April 13.

Toots Bernstein, Milwaukee, Wis., welterweight, and George Trapp of the south side will meet in a five round engagement.

Johnny Gaudes vs. Gene Connolly, [4], 123.
Joe Scletic vs. Johnny Simpson, [4], 155.
Johnny Gould vs. Gary Baldwin, [4], 138.
Willie Davies vs. Ernie Evans, [4], heavyweights.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois Athletic commission and his co-worker, George Getz, left yesterday for New York to attend a joint meeting of the Illinois, California and New York boards today. . . . Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, and Hayden [Young] Stubley may meet in a nontitle combat June 25 at Mills stadium. . . . Mickey Joy started drills yesterday for his eight round fight with Tommy Corbett at Marigold gardens Monday.

Frank Keevil and Hugh Allen, [6], 134.
Harold Dunnington and Sailor Born, [4], 137.
Roosevelt Haines and Jack Matthews, [4], 145.
Willie Ross and Jim Richards, [4], 130.
Lee Umbles and George Jonasen [wrestling].

Henry Rothier, local welterweight, resumed workouts yesterday after a layoff of several weeks. . . . Davey Day will appear in a feature bout at Sparta stadium July 9.

Approximately 200 Chicagoans will make the trip to New York on trains sponsored by Dave Barry and Sammy Wolff to attend the Baer-Carnera title battle Thursday. Charles J. Donnelly, Arthur Green, William Huey, Paul Colianni and Joseph Dire made reservations on Barry's special yesterday. Dr. Ira Willets, Patrick Gunkel, Nate Raffelman, Charles Ginsley and Henry Rose are the latest fans who will be accomodated by Wolff.

The Rest Haven Convalescent home yesterday received a permit from the state athletic commission to present a program at Wrigley field July 18.

REHABILITATION OF NEGRO RELIEF HOMES PLANNED

Shortage of Suitable Housing Reported.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans for a large scale rehabilitation program for houses and flats occupied by families on the relief rolls in Chicago's Negro slum areas were announced yesterday by Allan C. Williams, secretary of the metropolitan housing council. This will complement the big slum clearance program inaugurated by the council on June 1 when Mayor Kelly dealt the first blow in wrecking a condemned dwelling on the south side.

The first step in the rehabilitation program will be discussion of plans with leading Chicago contractors at a luncheon to be held next Thursday noon at the Hamilton club.

Reports Housing Shortage.

"There is a definite shortage of decent Negro housing accomodations," said Mr. Williams. "When a white family is ordered from a condemned residence they can move anywhere they wish. Colored families are restricted to the Negro districts. As a result there are not enough habitable dwellings.

"There are thousands of homes in buildings which are structurally sound but with unsanitary plumbing and bad living conditions. They need only repairs to make them habitable. They're not bad enough structurally to warrant their demolition.

"Relief labor will be supplied and the owners, we expect, will pay for the materials used. Property owners we have sounded out have expressed willingness to finance purchases of lumber, plumbing, etc.

Only for Relief Housing.

"Only buildings that house families on the relief rolls will be rehabilitated. It is planned that the owner will sign an agreement whereby he will accept the work in lieu of rent from the tenant."

Mr. Williams said that the pay roll on the first twenty-three houses now being wrecked in the south side colored area will total about $16,400. Of this amount $15,710 will go to relief workers who are doing the actual demolition. About $700 will be used for extra regular laborers on trucks and for contractors' overhead.

There are several more groups of approximately twenty-five dwellings to be wrecked under the sponsorship of the metropolitan housings council, which, Mr. Williams points out, means a large sum of money to be put into circulation through slum reclamation.

HOUSE ADOPTS PLAN TO PAY OFF BANK DEPOSITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—Headed for its initial appearance in the senate the so-called bank payoff plan was tonight finally passed by the house of representatives as a rider to the administration's bank deposit guaranty bill. Ending its consideration of the measure, the house agreed to the compromise bill that emerged from conference with the senate.

Senators have not yet had opportunity to express themselves regarding the payoff features of the bill, and these provisions face a critical period of close scrutiny in the more deliberate upper branch. Indications were, however, that the administration is agreeable to the purely permissive program now embodied in the measure, and the senate is expected to approve the bill without serious difficulty.

As it emerged from conference, the legislation contained several major changes. Instead of increasing the capitalization of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and authorizing it to buy or loan on the assets of closed banks, the conference version of the bill would authorize the RFC to expand its borrowing power by 250 million dollars and to take over the function of paying off closed bank depositors.

The deposit insurance features of the bill provide for continuation during the next year of the temporary federal scheme for guaranteeing all bank deposits up to $5,000.

Western Power Requests Permit to Reorganize

Permission to promulgate a reorganization plan for the Western Power, Light and Telephone company, a holding concern now in receivership, under the amended bankruptcy law was asked yesterday in a petition filed with the United States District court. The company operates in several states, has a funded debt of $12,000,000 and stock capitalization of $10,000,000.

Gain in Value of Store Sales Is Less Than Seasonal in May

The value of department store sales throughout the country for May showed an increase over April of less than the estimated seasonal amount, according to a report issued yesterday by the federal reserve board, based on preliminary figures for the month.

The board's index, which makes allowances for differences in the number of business days, for usual seasonal changes and for changes in the date of Easter, was 75 in May on the basis of the 1923-25 average as 100, as compared with 77 in April and in March.

As compared with May, 1933, the value of sales for all federal reserve districts increased 12 per cent, while for the period Jan. 1, 1934, to May 31, 1934, the gain was 20 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. The estimate was based on figures from 540 reporting stores in 284 cities.

Cleveland and St. Louis Best.

The best record for May, 1934, as compared with May, 1933, was reported by the Cleveland and St. Louis federal reserve districts, which both had gains of 24 per cent. For the five month period the Cleveland gain was 30 per cent, and that of St. Louis was 26 per cent. The Dallas district was second, with a May gain of 22 per cent and a 5 month gain of 32 per cent.

Richmond and Atlanta districts were third, with May gains of 21 per cent. For the first five months of this year the Richmond district gain over last year was 20 per cent and the Atlanta district gain was 37 per cent, the highest for the period of any reporting cities.

The Chicago district's 48 reporting stores in 24 cities had a gain of 16 per cent in May over a year ago, while the like period of last year was 29 per the like period of last year yas 29 per cent. The New York district's gain for May was 7 per cent and for the first five months was 11 per cent.

Boston Gains 3 Per Cent.

The rise in the Boston district for May was 3 per cent and the gain for the first five months was 14 per cent. Philadelphia had a May gain of 13 per cent and a five month gain of 13 per cent.

The Minneapolis district had a May gain of 12 per cent and a five month gain of 14 per cent; Kansas City 19 per cent and 23 per cent; San Francisco, 1 per cent and 14 per cent.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES SOAR IN RECORD TRADING

Butter and egg futures surged upward in a record breaking trade on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday. Gains in butter ranged from ⅝ to ¾ cent, or $120 to $144 per car, while the advance in eggs totaled ½ to ⅝ cents, or $60 to $105 per carlot. June eggs sold at a new high for the year.

Strongly bullish news in eggs started the market moving forward at the opening. Daily and weekly storage reports were bullish with the four markets reporting 9,000 cases less in than last year and the ten markets storing 109,000 cases less last week, a decrease of 33 per cent. New buying was the dominating factor, although covering was heavy on the advance.

Butter followed eggs. Buying increased toward the close. The four markets reported 500,000 pounds less into storage and last week ten cities stored 4,000,000 pounds less than last year. Receipts were moderate. Sales: Butter, 52 cars; eggs, 260 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

WHEAT MARKET LACKS TREND; CLOSE UNEVEN

Corn Gains Slightly; Rye, Barley Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices closed ⅛ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower yesterday, after shifting around within a range of 2 cents. The effect of the recent rains in the northwest apparently was short-lived. Market sentiment seemed bullish, but efforts to advance prices on the part of local professionals disclosed a lack of leadership. July delivery closed at 98⅝ to 98¾ cents.

Scattered buying in corn, however, resulted in that grain gaining ½ to ⅝ cent, with July at 55⅜ cents. Oats were ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, July at 43⅝ cents. Rye closed 1 cent higher and barley 1⅜ to 1½ cents higher.

Dust Storms in Minnesota.

The trade had reports of dust storms in a section of Minnesota that had reported about 2½ inches of rain so far this month. Deterioration in winter wheat was claimed in reports from the southwest, due to heat and continued drouth, although some of the eastern sections in Kansas received moisture over night. The harvest in the southwest is regarded as unusually early, and it was estimated about 125 cars of new grain were received at interior points during the day, largely at Enid, Okla., which had 81 cars.

Hedging sales against the movement of the new wheat have become a factor in the market, and traders said the new outside business was not sufficiently large to overcome this handicap to higher prices.

Winnipeg wheat gained ⅝ to ¾ cent. The detailed Canadian government report indicated around 50 per cent of the 23,000,000 acres in the prairie provinces had a condition below 80.

Little Concern Over Imports.

Little concern was expressed regarding the possibility of imports of wheat from Argentina, although Broomhall figured grain from that country could be laid down at New York at $1.05½ a bushel, duty paid. It was also claimed oats could be obtained around 39 cents, or 5 cents under the price of No. 2 white in the Chicago market.

Reports of damage to small grain crops and corn by chinch bugs are coming from Illinois in an ever increasing number. Crop Expert B. W. Snow of Bartlett-Frazier says chinch bugs have started to move out of wheat and oat fields into corn, and he found some farms where the latter crop was infested to the point of destruction.

Messages from various points in the west and northwest were almost unanimous in declaring recent rains did comparatively little good to the new oat crop, with the possible exception of parts of Iowa.

Drouth has cut down the prospective Polish rye crop around 37,000,000 bushels as compared with last year, according to a report from Broomhall.

Weather was all against the crops in '81. A severe winter and Mississippi floods had killed much winter wheat. Excessive temperatures and dry weather in April and May cut the yield further. Spring wheat and corn were hit by the August drouth, when rainfall in the heart of the wheat belt totalled a half inch, 1-6 of normal and less than in May, 1934. And there was rust and the Hessian fly. The wheat crop fell off to 383 million bushels from 498 million bushels the year before. It was the lightest harvest in 5 years. We needed about 275 million bushels for home consumption, and that left but a hundred million bushels for export. And Europe bid for that with the least wheat in a decade carried over from the previous year.
Wheat started up from 98 cents in May, to hit a peak of $1.43 in October and then settled back. The assassination of the President and occasional liquidation brought brief setbacks to the market, but the rise was fairly continuous. The farmers had no kick coming on the drouth. They received for the short crop of 1881 more than they had for the bumper harvest of the year before. But railroad freight receipts fell nearly fifty million dollars. And having less grain to export, our balance of trade fell from $259,700,000 to $26,000,000. Not having grain to send abroad, we shipped gold, more in a month than at any time since '76.
Leading grain trader of the time was P. D. Armour. Said he on June 23, 1881: "I think wheat is going to sparkle like diamonds for the next two years, and if you have a mother whose heart you wish to make glad, just buy her four or five barrels of flour and store it in your basement. I think that the crop in the country is short. The winter wheat is deficient about 125 million bushels, while spring wheat looks fair but the acreage is less than usual. I predict this next season's crop will average nearer $1.40 than $1.25 per bushel." Mr. Armour was right on crop and price and therefore sound on maternal care.

HeavyDemand Speeds Output of Silver Coins

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—An extraordinary demand for silver for small change, indicating an increased amount of trade, especially of small businesses, was reported today by the treasury.

A statement said that the demand had sprung up the last few months and was far out of proportion to the normal demand at this time of the year.

"Shipments of subsidiary coins, including half dollars, quarters, dimes, nickels, and cents, from the mints amounted to $3,603,000 from January of this year to May 31, which exceeds by more than $1,300,000 all the shipments in the same five months for the thirteen years prior to this year," said the statement.

Speed Work at Mints.

"The extraordinary demand for change has put the Philadelphia mint on a three shift basis and coinage operations have been speeded up at the Denver and San Francisco mints."

The greatest demand is for quarter dollars. Shipments of these coins in 1934 up to May 31 have amounted to $1,465,000, while for the same months in the thirteen prior years shipments of quarters had averaged only $435,000.

Shipments of coins are made from the mints to the federal reserve banks and the cash division of the treasurer's office on the order of the United States treasurer. Ordinarily the federal reserve banks, especially that at New York, have a large reserve supply. These supplies have been rapidly dwindling in recent months and rush orders for additional coins began to come to the mints in May. The banks are now receiving shipments as fast as the mints can turn out the coins.

Coppers in Demand.

"Production of copper cents, of which 82,650,000 [$826,500] have been shipped since Jan. 1, is just keeping abreast of the demand," the statement said. "Of quarters there is a real shortage and orders are being rationed instead of being shipped in full.

"Last Friday night there was only $1,000 in quarters at the Philadelphia mint, but Treasurer Julian had orders for immediate shipment of $392,000 of them. A rush order from Detroit was filled by shipment from Denver, though ordinarily Detroit's supply comes from Philadelphia.

"The demand is also heavy for half dollars. Although the treasury records show $435,000 in half dollars as having been shipped from the mints this year, the New York federal reserve bank supplied to banks in its territory and shipped to other federal reserve regions $1,580,000 of them, drawn mostly from its own reserve stocks. Distribution from the mints in the first five months of the previous thirteen years combined had been only $670,000 of these coins."

NEW MUNICIPAL BOND COLUMN STARTS TODAY

As a result of the greatly increased interest in the municipal bond market, THE TRIBUNE is starting today a department which will be devoted to news in this investment field. It appears on page 25, column 7.

INSURANCE SALES INCREASE IN MAY, COMPANIES SAY

The Lincoln National Life Insurance company, Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday announced that the new paid for business during May was 106 per cent above May of last year. More applications for insurance were received than in any month since October, 1929.

May sales of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company were 95 per cent above those of the same month in 1933. Demand for policy loans was reported lower.

An increase of 50 per cent in new business in May as compared with last year was reported by the Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa. It was the best May record since 1931.

Auburn Omits Dividend; Had Loss Since '32

For the first time since 1924 common stock holders of the Auburn Automobile company will receive no dividends. Directors yesterday suspended payments on the issue, which since April, 1933, has been on an annual basis of $2.

The action, which was unexplained, marks a reversal in policy maintained throughout the depression. Until last year $1 quarterly had been paid plus a 2 per cent in stock. The stock distribution was omitted a year ago in April and the cash disbursement halved.

Announcement of the omission was followed by a sharp break in the stock on the New York exchange. Opening near its previous close of 36½ it slumped nearly 6 points before sufficient buying stemmed the downturn. It closed at 30¾, a net loss of 5¾ points for the day.

Auburn has been unable to operate at a profit since the quarter ended Feb. 29, 1932. Cash on Nov. 30, 1931, totaling $8,400,000, shrank to less than $4,000,000 on Nov. 30, 1933. Operations last year resulted in a loss of more than $10 a share, while in the latest quarter ended Feb. 28 for which a report has been issued, the loss amounted to $3.82 a share.

With a capitalization of only 250,000 shares quarterly dividend requirements have been about $125,000.

Company officials refused to discuss reasons for the dividend omission. W. H. Beal, president, at the time the last quarterly report was issued, said difficulties of getting quantity production on new models seriously delayed deliveries and reduced income.

Astounding Failures

LIABILITIES: $502,830,584

20,307 business houses failed last year. They left their creditors—largely manufacturers and jobbers—holding the bag for $502,830,584.00.

The only creditors who did not suffer by this colossal catastrophe were the shrewd manufacturers and jobbers whose shipments were protected by Credit Insurance.

In bad times, in better times, and in these rapidly changing times, there will always be failures, bankruptcies, receiverships, assignments, involving hundreds of millions of dollars annually. Be on guard.

Americanize Your Credits

An American Credit Indemnity Co. policy positively protects you against abnormal, unforeseen losses. It GUARANTEES that you will be paid for the goods you ship.

This company insures approximately Two Billion Dollars sales a year. Over 250 different lines of business are protected—millionaire and modest factories, large and small jobbing houses. Many have carried this insurance for 15, 25 or 40 consecutive years.

Remember: It costs far less to have credit insurance and not need it, than to need it and not have it.

PRESIDENT GETS GREAT TARIF POWER TONIGHT

Will Sign Bill at 8:30; Runs Three Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—President Roosevelt plans to sign tomorrow evening the tarif bill giving him latitude to increase or decrease tarifs as much as 50 per cent to promote reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations.

The signing will be at 8:30 p. m., eastern standard time, a fact announced because the law becomes effective immediately. President Roosevelt set the hour late in the evening so that all customs offices would be closed at the time, and administrative changes under the bill repealing some "penalty tarifs" therefore would become effective at the opening of new business today. Because of the difference in time between the east and west coasts, the customs offices in the west are open until 8 p. m., eastern time.

Some Changes Automatic.

President Roosevelt does not intend to proclaim changes in existing rates of duty immediately on signing the bill, but it was said at the White House that some rates were subject to automatic changes. What these changes would be was not divulged definitly pending the President's signature making the tarif act law.

However, it was stated officially that the automatic changes in tarif rates would consist of the repeal of increased tarifs above the statutory rates levied against products from foreign countries which charged higher rates on American products than the United States has charged on similar products from those countries.

Among important articles affected by automatic repeal of these penalty excess rates are automobiles, motor trucks, motorcycles, wood and its manufactures, paper, books, and coal. The penalty provisions were written into the tarif act of 1930 to prevent "gouging" by foreign countries.

Wide Power for President.

The tarif act, which is simply a brief amendment to the tarif act of 1930, grants President Roosevelt unprecedented authority over tarifs for a three year period.

He may upon his own authority and with the advice of the tarif commission and government departments raise or lower tarifs within a 50 per cent limit, simply by executive proclamation. Such agreements under the act are "subject to termination" upon due notice to the foreign governments concerned, at the end of not more than three years from the date on which the agreement comes into force and, if not then terminated, shall be subject to termination thereafter upon not more than six months' notice.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Great Britain's credit, as shown by quotations on its own government bonds, has been injured by the British repudiation of the war debts owed to the United States.

On April 19, just before the word began to leak out that Britain would fail to make the June payment on its debt to this country, British consols were quoted in London at 80½.

Ordinarily these prime investment bonds vary little in price. Beginning about the middle of April, however, they began to decline slightly. By the end of May they had fallen to 77¾ and on June 4, the day when Great Britain announced its repudiation of the war debt, they were quoted at 76¾. For a day or two after that the quotations on consols rallied slightly, but by June 8 they had declined to a new low of 76¾.

These are quotations from London and represent the measure of British credit in its own home markets. In New York, where there is a small over the counter trade in British consols, there was a similar slump in quotations.

Another measuring stick for British credit is the value of the pound in foreign exchange. The slump in the value of the pound coincided exactly with the repudiation of war debt. On June 4, the date when the policy of repudiation was announced, the pound, in terms of gold, fell to the lowest level in its history.

Since then it has recovered, but only slightly. Yesterday the pound was quoted at $5.06⅛, a drop of ⅜ cents for the day, but an increase of 2½ cents over the low point on "repudiation day."

The British pound, which has been the basis for half the world's currency and more than half of the world's international trade for decades, has been under pressure for several weeks. The pressure became acute late in May and early in June when the repudiation issue came to the fore.

Bankers dealing in international finance report that capital has been moving out of London in substantial quantities. Some of it is capital that previously had taken flight from Berlin, Paris and other continental cities earlier when London looked like the only haven of comparative stability in a world driven awry by repudiation, devaluation and insolvency. Now that Great Britain herself has joined the repudiators the floating capital is seeking other havens.

Not all the dwindling of confidence in London has been due to British defalcation on the war debt. Part of it is due to the growing instability of European finance in general and the desire of capital to get away from the neighborhood where so much trouble is brewing.

Germany is on the edge of another abyss similar to the one into which she plunged after the war. German gold reserves now equal less than 3½ per cent of her outstanding currency and, due largely to recent boycotts of German goods abroad, her favorable balance of trade has turned into an unfavorable balance of trade and she is rapidly losing what little gold she has left despite drastic restriction on foreign exchange and virtual repudiation of all German debts to her foreign bondholders.

Belief that collapse of Germany currency would affect the pound more severely than the American dollar has caused some capital to move from London to New York recently.

The British equalization fund is reported to have been brought into play to stem the recent decline of the pound. Operation of this fund is believed to have kept the pound from tumbling even lower than $5.03⅛. From Paris it was reported that the equalization fund had sold gold in Paris, buying sterling with the proceeds and repurchasing gold in the London market. The pressure, however, became to great and the pound had to be allowed to decline a few points.

Current quotations on the pound in terms of dollars are likely to be misleading, because of the reduced gold content of the dollar itself. On the basis of the old gold standard dollar the British pound at $5.03⅛—where it stood on "repudiation day"—would have been worth only $2.97⅞.

DOLLAR MAKES MODERATE GAIN ON FRANC, POUND

The pound sterling declined ⅜ of a cent to $5.06⅛. The price of gold in London advanced a penny to 137 shillings 9½ pence a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.89].

French francs closed at 6.61⅞, a loss of .00⅝ of a cent. At the closing price for francs, the dollar was valued at a premium of .22 of a cent over par. This compared with a premium of .16 on Saturday and a premium of .24 a month ago.

Other gold currencies also lost ground, while the German mark slipped 0.10 of a cent to 38.65 cents.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $2,945,100 from England. There were no exports and no change in the gold stocks held under earmark for foreign account.

AIR LINE LOSES SUIT TO RETAIN MAIL CONTRACT

New York, June 11.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today directed dismissal of the suit of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., to enjoin Postmaster General James A. Farley from enforcing an annulment order against an airmail contract.

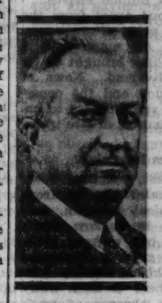
Federal Judge John C. Knox, after listening to extended arguments, had ruled that since the government could not be sued without consent, the suit and plea for an injunction was abortive. The court ruled, first, that Postmaster Farley had never been properly served with the complaint in the action. The court further ruled that the United States was a proper party to the action in which only Farley and Postmaster John J. Kiely of New York were named defendants.

The court expressed no opinion on the question of whether the postmaster general had legal authority to cancel the airmail contracts on or about Feb. 9, 1934.

SENATE PASSES SILVER BILL TO INFLATE MONEY

Metal to Back 25% of All Currency.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—In rapid succession the senate tonight voted down a proposal for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus certificates and passed the administration's silver purchase plan. The two votes removed two of the measures that remained to be disposed of before adjournment.



SENATOR PATRICK McCARRAN. [Acme Photo.]

The silver bill authorizes the administration to buy silver and issue silver certificates until a fourth of the nation's money is backed by silver. It goes back to the house for action on senate amendments. These were expected to be approved without the usual conference delay to send the bill immediately to the White House for President Roosevelt's assured signature.

Vote on Bill Decisive.

Despite days of debate and months of backstage negotiation and controversy, the silver bill was passed by the comfortable margin of 55 to 25, without acceptance of a single amendment opposed by the administration forces. Eight Republicans lined up with 46 Democrats and Shipstead, the lone Farmer-Laborite, to pass the silver bill with 19 Republicans and six Democrats voting in oppostion.

Only a few minutes earlier the senate had rejected the cash bonus amendment offered by Senator Shipstead by 51 to 31, without a word of debate. A bonus proposal was beaten early in the session by the more decisive margin of 64 to 24.

Silver Bloc Backs Bill.

The entire silver bloc voted for the bill, even those senators who had sought to amend it on the ground it would not change the status of silver as money. Among the six Democratic senators who voted against the bill was Carter Glass, Virginia's determined "sound money" advocate. It was the first monetary bill to go through the senate under the Roosevelt "new deal" without debate from Senator Glass.

On the bonus vote, eleven Republicans combined with 19 Democrats and Senator Shipstead to favor the amendment. It was voted down by 17 Republicans and 34 Democrats.

Friends of the silver bill said during debate it would require purchase by the treasury of about 1,400,000,000 ounces of silver and the issuance of silver certificates against this in

*NOTE—Of this debt $4,102,200 State of Texas Bonds are held by various State Institutions, leaving only $10,500,000 in the hands of the public.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, with an area of 262,398 square miles, was admitted into the Union in 1845, and is the largest State. On August 26, 1933, the voters of Texas, by approving a constitutional amendment, authorized $20,000,000 bonds for relief purposes, and in December, 1933, the State sold the first bonds under this authorization. This was the first public offering of bonds ever made by the State of Texas, and the bonds here offered are a portion of the second series of the above authorization.

The Constitution of the State of Texas provides that the Legislature shall make the necessary appropriations to pay such bonds, both principal and interest, except that such payments shall be from other sources than taxes on real property. The Legislature has made a continuing appropriation for such purpose and has directed the State Treasurer from the first monies received by him for the account of the general fund (other than from taxes on real property) to annually set aside into a separate fund an amount sufficient to meet all interest and maturity requirements on said bonds for the fiscal year next succeeding. Information furnished us by the officials shows that for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1933, such funds available for the retirement of bonds were in excess of $10,000,000.

STOCKS DIP ON PROFIT TAKING; TRADE SHRINKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 11.—Anxiety of traders for profits after last week's sharp advance kept stock prices irregularly lower throughout most of the session today. For the general run of leaders losses on the day ranged from fractions to a little more than one point. Heaviness characterized the price structure at the close, but the trading pace turned extremely dull in windup dealings. The ticker came to a halt with a turnover of around three-quarters of a million shares.

Auburn Auto stood apart from the rest of the list in point of weakness, the stock closing off more than 5 points on heavy selling brought on by omission of the dividend. News of this dividend decision and the consequent break in the stock tended to unsettle the general market in late transactions.

Early Prices Irregular.

Earlier the market, weighted down by profit taking and the apparent need for a technical reaction, had backed and filled in narrow limits without objective, but without yielding a great deal of ground. Scattered realizing sales dribbled steadily into leaders, causing them to back away fractionally in the absence of fresh buying.

That the decline had no serious consequences was due to evidence of underlying support in the general list, and in view of the recent strength the consensus was that the market held up well.

Aside from profit taking the easier tone was attributed to apprehension over the labor situation in the steel industry, with the overhanging possibility of a strike. While the more optimistic traders were discounting the setback as being technical, board room gossip was focused strongly on the impasse in the steel trade.

Other News Is Varied.

Otherwise, news over the week-end of an industrial nature evinced no marked changes in the general situation. An upturn in building construction was indicated but the indices still lacked evidence of progress in residential construction.

Auburn had held up well until the dividend news, and then its decline was precipitate. Recent reports of deficits had foreshadowed the action. Other motor stocks acquitted themselves well in the face of the Auburn break, although Chrysler was singled out for selling at times and closed off more than a point. General Motors finished down an even point.

Toward the close U. S. Steel hovered around 41½ and closed down a point. Other steel shares could not get out from under the strike situation and took losses ranging to about a point. American Can, J. I. Case, General Electric, Westinghouse, and other heavy industrial stocks changed hands at prices off by fractions to about a point.

Copper Shares Recede.

Shares of copper companies worked lower with others after early firmness on expectations of price rise for the metal. Anaconda and Kennecott finished slightly lower. Silver leaders, such as American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, and U. S. Smelting, put up a strong front against profit taking as traders continued to hope for early passage of the silver bill.

At the opening New York Central encountered heavy selling that set the stock down more than a point and unsettled the rest of the carrier group. The selling abated, however, in time to allow a recovery.

Firmness of American Telephone, International Telephone, and Western Union helped other utility shares to maintain a good tone.

STORE CHAINS REPORT GAINS OVER YEAR AGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 11.—Interstate Department Stores reports May sales of $1,807,818, exclusive of groceries and leased departments, an increase of 18.1 per cent compared with May last year. In April there was an increase of 11.4 per cent. For the four months to May 31 sales were $6,504,055, an increase of 26.9 per cent.

Sales of First National Stores in four weeks to May 26 were $8,484,633, an increase of 7 per cent over a year ago. In the preceding four weeks the increase was 8.1 per cent. For eight weeks to May 26 sales were $16,763,108, an increase of 7.5 per cent.

Simmons company sales, exclusive of subsidiaries, were $1,889,155 in May, a decrease of 2.3 per cent compared with the same month last year. For five months sales were $7,065,344, an increase of 26.8 per cent. Total sales in May were $2,544,915, an increase of 0.3 per cent. For five months sales were $10,352,512, an increase of 33.6 per cent.

Davis Quits as Director of Pines Winterfront Co.

Paul H. Davis, head of the brokerage firm bearing his name, resigned from the board of the Pines Winterfront company yesterday. He was succeeded by Charles D. Rasmussen, patent attorney. Other officers and directors were reëlected.

TREASURY MAKES NO CHANGES IN BANK DEPOSITS

Funds Steady for First Time in Months.

For the first time in months government deposits with federal reserve member banks were undisturbed last week. The report of the reserve system showing operations in ninety-one leading cities reveals no change in the war loan account at 955 million dollars.

Gross deposits of the banks rose sharply, gaining 139 millions for the period. Of the increase New York accounted for 67 millions; Chicago, 16 millions, and the interior, 56 millions. Individual deposits gained modestly, improving two millions in New York, three millions here, and one million elsewhere, a net advance of six millions.

Banks Increase Deposits.

Deposits of other banks with the institutions accounted for most of the upturn in gross, the "due to banks" account soaring 133 millions—65 millions in New York, 13 millions in Chicago, and 55 millions at interior points.

New York and Chicago expanded total loans and investments 119 millions—12 here and 107 in the east—but the interior revealed a loss of 48 millions in this category, a net improvement of only 71 millions.

Loans on securities rose 81 millions in New York and 3 millions here, but dropped 3 millions elsewhere, an aggregate rise of 81 millions. Commercial credit contracted 10 million dollars in the two leading centers, of which New York accounted for 8 millions and Chicago 2 millions. Interior banks made no change in their business loans.

U. S. Bond Holdings Rise.

Comparisons of principal resources and liabilities of the banks, as of June 6, follow:

National Steel.

Investors' Guide: I have $2,000 to invest. National Steel common has been recommended to me. I am trying to get as much information regarding it as possible before I make any final decision. Your courtesy in helping me will be appreciated.—Mrs. H. M.

Answer: National Steel corporation is the only major steel producer to have come through the last four years without a loss. It is an unusually low cost producer due to proximity to its greatest market, the automobile industry in Detroit; highly efficient plants, and location enabling it to obtain coal by relatively cheap water routes. It is the only important steel producer in the Detroit district.

Pickup in automobile production in 1933 enabled the company to boost profits 50 per cent over 1932. In the first quarter of 1934 net profit was $1,642,000, or 76 cents per share, against profit of $281,000, or 13 cents a share, for the first three months of 1933. Earnings in 1933 equaled $1.30 a share, against 77 cents in 1932 $2.06 in 1931 and $3.91 in 1930.

The company finished 1933 with current assets of $33,805,000 and current liabilities of $6,051,000. Cash alone was $6,777,000. Funded debt totaled $36,995,000, down $2,000,000 from the close of 1932. There are outstanding 2,156,832 shares of $25 par capital stock. The stock pays 25 cents a quarter.

The company is currently defending a suit filed by the federal government, which alleged that the organization has violated the labor provisions of the national recovery act steel code.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

Great Lakes Aircraft.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any information in regard to Great Lakes Aircraft?—Mrs. L. A. N.

Answer: Great Lakes Aircraft corporation manufactures airplanes. About 75 per cent of sales are for military purposes and the remainder for commercial purposes. Its plant is at Cleveland, O.

Losses have been large and current position is unimpressive. In 1933 the company lost $267,000, against loss of $271,000 in 1932, $267,000 in 1931 and $1,259,000 in 1930. This naturally has resulted in a heavy drain on working capital. On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets, including only $15,000 cash, totaled $168,000, and current liabilities were $120,000. In addition there was a noncurrent note payable of $250,000 to the Guardian Trust company. Working capital was $48,000, against $174,000 the year before.

There are outstanding 300,000 shares of class A and 325,000 shares of class B stock. The stock is a mere speculation.

SENATE PASSES SILVER BILL TO INFLATE MONEY

Will Buy Metal to Back 25% of Currency.

Estimates of possible inflation under this proposal ranged up to about $1,500,000,000, depending upon how far the President exercised the power conferred upon him.

Silver bought by the treasury would be paid for at the world price, but valued in the monetary stocks at $1.29 an ounce, the statutory price. Thus, if the silver purchased cost $500,000,000, silver certificates with a face value of that amount would have to be issued. This, however, would use up only part of the new silver, as less than an ounce would be required for each dollar certificate under the $1.29 price. The President, if he desired, could use all the silver as a basis for silver certificate issuance.

Much of the debate, and most of the efforts to liberalize the bill centered about this plan of valuing the silver at $1.29 an ounce.

Amendments Are Rejected.

Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] offered an amendment to provide for its valuation in the treasury at the market price, which, he said, would make silver a "primary money." The proposal was rejected, 67 to 17.

Senator McCarran [Dem., Nev.] proposed an amendment to make sure that silver certificates were issued against the silver purchased. His colleague, Senator Pittman [Dem., Nev.], in charge of the bill, contended the bill already made that mandatory, but finally accepted a modification of McCarran's proposal.

An attempt by Senator Long [Dem., La.] to strike out of the bill the proposed 50 per cent tax on profits from speculation in silver was rejected, 53 to 29, after the senate had modified the tax on Pittmans' motion to specifically exclude hedging operations.

During the debate on the amendments, Senator Adams [Dem., Col.] assured his silver colleagues that President Roosevelt would use the powers conferred upon him by the bill.

Earlier an amendment by Long to authorize the free and unlimited coinage of silver had been beaten by the overwhelming majority of 59 to 18.

Senator Gore [Dem., Okla.] warned the senate in the final minutes of debate that "his effort to return to silver as money is as vain as an effort to abandon freight trains and trucks and return to the ox cart, or to abandon the steamship and return to the sailboat."

Chief Features of Bill.

A declaration of policy that the proportion of silver to gold in the nation's monetary stocks should be increased, with one-fourth the ultimate objective.

A direction for the treasury secretary to buy silver until this proportion has been reached "at such rates at such times, and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and most advantageous to the public interest."

Such purchases would cease when the silver stocks reached one-fourth the total monetary stocks or when silver reached the monetary price of $1.29 cents an ounce, and no silver which was located in the continental United States on May 1 would be bought for more than 50 cents an ounce.

If the silver ratio exceeded 25 per cent of the monetary stocks the treasury secretary would be authorized to sell silver.

Must Issue Silver Certificates.

The treasury would be "authorized and directed" to issue silver certificates in face amount not less than the cost of the silver purchased.

The secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the President, would have authority to regulate or prohibit commerce in silver.

The President would have power to nationalize silver by requiring its sale to the government at a fair price based on prevailing market rates.

A tax of 50 per cent would be imposed on all sales of silver in which the price exceeded the purchase cost.

The treasury announced it has imported 5,000,000 ounces of silver from London in the last week and has the metal stored at the New York assay office. Secretary Morgenthau described it as "the largest single shipment of its kind."

The silver was presumed to be part of the metal referred to by President Roosevelt in his message to congress advocating the silver bill. The president said at that time that some silver had been purchased. It was understood to have been paid for in gold out of the stabilization fund.

During the week ended June 8 mint receipts of newly mined silver were 200,897 ounces under the coinage plan which pays an average price of 64½ cents an ounce. During the same week receipts of imported gold were $17,154,815, of scrap gold $1,267,183 and of new domestic metal $2,516,508.

May Construction Permits Largest Since April, 1932

Construction permits in 215 reporting cities during May involved an expenditure of $43,805,429, representing the largest volume in any month since April, 1932, says Dun & Bradstreet. Permits aggregated $29,280,666 in the previous month, and $21,525,523 in May, 1933. Construction contracts awarded during May in 37 eastern states totaled $134,445,000, a gain of 2 per cent over April and 74 per cent over May, 1933, the F. W. Dodge corporation reported. For the first five months of this year contracts in the same states aggregated $727,383,300, compared with $329,771,500 in the same period last year.

$5,000,000 Worth of Shoes Will Be Sold at Show Here

Five thousand shoe manufacturers and buyers met yesterday in the Hotel Sherman at the opening of the annual manufacturers' exposition of fall shoe styles. E. A. Richardson, manager of the style show, estimated that $5,000,000 worth of shoes will have been purchased by retailers at the closing hour of the show tomorrow night.

BEST PAID SALES ORGANIZATION IN CHICAGO.

This is an opportunity for 20 men to become identified with a real money making organization. Our product is 5 years ahead of any other home device on the market. Our plan has proven successful for over 11 years. Our company has a high credit rating and our dealers are happy because their franchise offers them an opportunity to make from $35 to $75 per week.

Men who qualify will be given a dealer's franchise and put in business for themselves, without any investment on their part. The compensation is on a liberal percentage and bonus basis. We will be glad to explain our proposition in detail to men who are serious and wish to make a financial success. Married men preferred, between 25 and 55 years.

Apply Tuesday
10 A. M. Sharp.
No Other Time.
Rm. 308, 203 N. Wabash-av.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

ATTENTION!

TODAY, AS ALWAYS, STUDEBAKER OFFERS CHICAGO'S OUTSTANDING VALUES, AND REMEMBER, YOU GET FIVE DAYS DRIVING TRIAL.

NASH—8 SEDAN, 1932. DE LUXE. THIS wonderful sedan saw so little service that we defy any one to tell it from a brand new car. It's a real winner at only $545.

FORD—TUDOR, 1931. YOU'LL HAVE TO look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Today just reduced to $325.

GRAHAM—8 SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE model with side mounts and every conceivable extra. Examine this Graham from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it will possess all the original newness. Driven only slightly more than 2 years.....$325

HUDSON—8 SPORT COUPE, 1930. RUMBLE seat and many extras. The finish, tires, motors, and upholstery are A-1. Only $225

BUICK—ROADSTER, A 1931 WITH ROOMY rumble seat. This is a low slung car with a world of power and pep. It looks and runs as though never driven a mile. $345.

AUBURN—8 SEDAN, 1930. HERE IS UNquestionably the most attractive Auburn you've ever seen. Has side mounts, etc. The finish is bright and shiny. The upholstery is luxurious. Motor is 100%. For today $275.

ROCKNE—SEDAN, 1932. YOU CAN'T BEAT this bargain. Free wheeling. Cushioned power, safety glass, etc. If it's a sporty car you like with a magnificent performance—you'll go for this Rockne. Bargain at $345.

PONTIAC—6 SPORT COUPE, 1931. YOU'LL find this car a very economical purchase. In the first place—it's in new car condition today. Secondly—it gives a lot of miles per gallon of gas. And thirdly—priced only $235.

STUDEBAKER—8 ST. REGIS BROUGHAM, 1932. Has every modern improvement. Trunk, free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Only $565.
